Kennedy Win Now Official

Electors Cast Votes With No Dixie Revolt

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John F. Kennedy was elected president of the United States Monday—officially.

There was no revolt of Kennedy electors in Dixie, such as some Southern Democrats had tried to organize.

One elector used his constitutional freedom to ignore the choice of his state's voters. But he took a vote away from Vice President Richard M. Nixon, not from Kennedy.

The electoral college, 537 persons parceled out among the states more or less in proportion to their population, creaked through another election. It turned Kennedy's popular vote of one-tenth of one per cent plurality over Nixon — approximately 113,000 votes difference, the narrowest in 76 years of presidential elections — into a substantial margin of electoral votes, the ones that count.

By the time the various groups of electors had finished their meetings in 49 of the 50 state capitals, the electoral vote stood: Kennedy 300, Nixon 219, Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va. 15.

It takes 269 electoral votes to win.

Hawaii Issue Unsettled

A hairbreadth election in Hawaii has delayed, possibly until Jan. 6, final determination of the extent of Kennedy's electoral victory.

Nixon appeared to have carried the newest state, and its vote was so certified. But a partial recount put Kennedy 55 votes ahead Saturday. A further recount may be ordered.

If the Hawaiian courts do not settle the issue by Jan. 6, the date for official counting of the electoral vote by Congress in joint session, the lawmakers will have to make a decision. Experts here said Congress could itself rule which set of Hawaiian electoral votes should be accepted, or—since the election outcome is not affected—could simply disregard Hawaii's vote.

Okla. Republican For Byrd

An Oklahoma Republican elector gave a fillip to the generally routine electoral proceedings by insisting on casting his vote for Byrd for president and Sen. Barry Goldwater, R.-Ariz., for vice president. Nixon had carried Oklahoma by a large margin, and the state's seven other electors voted for him.

The nonconforming elector, Henry D. Irwin of Bartlesville, had wired electors in other states to join his last-ditch effort to defeat Kennedy in the electoral vote, but in vain.

Byrd's other votes came from Mississippi electors, all eight of them, and six of the eleven Alabama electors. These had run without pledging themselves to any candidate, in hopes of starting a movement to place the South in bargaining position between the parties or even, under extraordinary circumstances, maneuvering the election of a Southern Conservative. After the Nov. 8 election, the unpledged Mississippi and Alabama electors decided to vote for Byrd for president and Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-SC, for vice president.

OFFERS $500,000—Ellen Steinberg, 41-year-old St. Louis heiress, has offered $500,000 to the New Orleans school board to help keep its newly-integrated public schools open. The offer, initially made as a loan, now stands as an outright gift, Miss Steinberg said at a news conference in New York yesterday. The board said the offer will be considered.

Kennedy, Demo Leaders Open Program Talks

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy gathered a triumvirate of top Democratic congressional leaders around him Monday and began a round of vital conferences on legislative strategy for the new administration.

In addition, Kennedy picked a deputy budget director and set up an all-day conference Wednesday on the government's massive spending program. The deputy director will be career man Elmer B. Staats, now holding the post in the Eisenhower administration.

For the legislative huddle, Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn flew in separately from Texas. Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, ticketed to succeed Johnson as Senate majority leader, drove up from Miami.

And against the background of lengthy House and Senate service of all the others present, Rayburn dropped a crisp one-word remark that made it clear he expects no interference from them in running the House.

Rayburn—who has served 16 years as speaker, more than any other man in history—told reporters at the airport that the way the House Rules Committee operates is "utterly" a matter for the House to handle.

The committee's operation is a matter of stormy contention at times.

Rayburn spoke with an air of finality but not of belligerance. The speaker said he thought the House would move pretty fast on legislation and added that: "I think we'll get along all right."

In between laughing and joking in his dry way, the 78-year-old Rayburn ticked off housing, medical aid to the aged, school construction, depressed area and minimum wage legislation as items he thinks ought to get early attention in the 87th Congress which opens Jan. 3.

Jet Involved In Collision Off Course

Radar Operators Saw Blips Merge, Quesada Tells Ike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's top aviation officials told President Eisenhower Monday that the jet involved in Friday's aerial catastrophe apparently was off course when it collided with a Super-Constellation in the clouds above New York City.

The President also was given a dramatic account of how the Constellation's pilot was warned that "jet traffic" was seen to be approaching him on the radar screen, and how suddenly "both blips merged" on the radar.

The precise collision point above Staten Island was said to be 11 miles from the holding pattern which the jet was supposed to be occupying.

The report on the crash of the United Air Lines jet and the Trans World Airlines Constellation was given to the President by Elwood Quesada, chief of the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) and Chairman Whitney Gillilland of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Eisenhower had asked to be informed about the disaster, which accounted for at least 134 deaths. The President said he was "deeply concerned" about the heavy loss of life and wanted to extend his sympathy to relatives of the victims.

Won't Draw Conclusions

Quesada refused to draw any conclusions about the tragedy, the most deadly in aviation's history. He said only that he was citing the "facts" as disclosed by a preliminary inquiry by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

He said the jetliner failed to stay in a holding pattern and had reported that one of its two navigation receivers was "out of commission."

Giving newsmen the same report he had presented to Eisenhower in an hour-long conference Quesada made it clear that the jet was off course and had not followed customary procedure of circling for further instructions when it got to the Preston, N. J. holding pattern to which it had been directed.

The Constellation, however, had followed landing instructions. But at the last minute it was given a warning that a jet plane appeared to be heading in its direction.

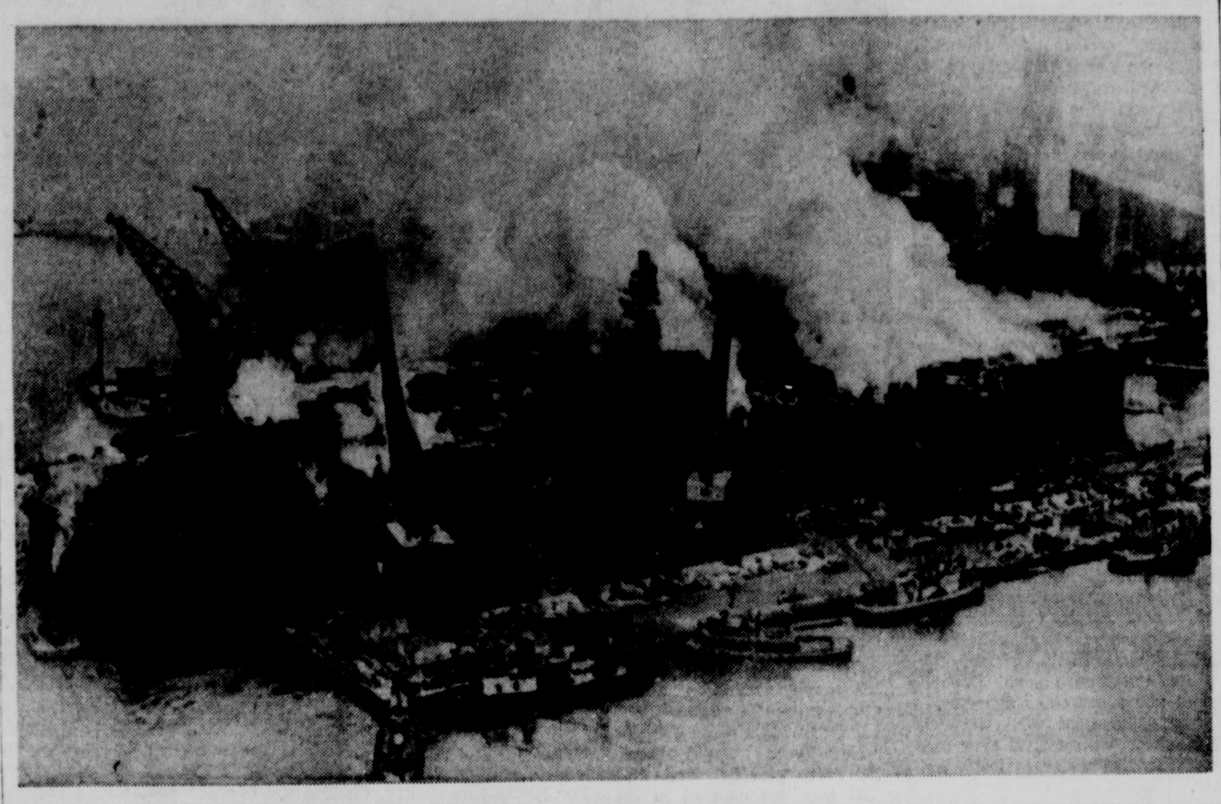

Both Planes Monitored

Somewhere over Staten Island, the plane's pilot was informed that there was a "target at 3 o'clock — six miles" distant. This was said to be "jet traffic."

The TWA pilot was then told the approaching plane was at "three miles — two o'clock."

Radar operators saw both blips, one the jet, the other the Constellation, come together on their screen. The merged radar blip continued into a straight line until another blip, presumably the Constellation, fell off in a "slight right hook and disappeared."

The Constellation smashed into a field on Staten Island, and the jet came down in a Brooklyn tenement district.

Toll Might Exceed 100; 200 Injured

Workers Trapped As Flames Sweep Huge, New Flattop

NEW YORK (AP)—The world's newest, largest aircraft carrier, Constellation, nearing completion at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, was swept by an inferno of raging flames Monday. Forty-seven persons were known dead, and a police official said the toll could exceed 100.

The fire started on the main deck when a small hoisting truck sheared off a plug on a tank of volatile jet aviation fuel. No planes were aboard but the fuel was being used to flush the ship's piping system.

The liquid gushed along the deck and into a well where a welder's torch ignited it. At first there seemed some hope of controlling the flames, but the fire suddenly exploded out of hand and ravaged the sleek, missile-carrying carrier from stem to stern.

The blaze raged out of control from mid-morning until long after dark as firefighters, in a slow and agonizing battle, gradually confined it to narrowing sections of the huge ship.

Hospitals Jammed

The report of 42 known dead came from the Navy. Most of the victims were civilian workers aboard the $250-million carrier.

Police placed the number of injured at more than 200. Hospitals in the area were clogged to overflowing with choking, burned survivors.

More ominously, of the 4,200 persons aboard when the fire broke out, an uncounted number were trapped below red-hot deck plating, at the mercy of flames and deadly fumes, their fate uncertain.

The estimate of 100 or more possible deaths came from a police official on the scene. He declined use of his name.

Rescuers fought to get into portions of the carrier's hull whence came muffled poundings from men entombed, but still alive.

"I can't describe it any other way then a living hell," said a burly, 200-pound yard worker after a rescue trip into the bowels of the carrier. "God help those poor souls down there."

Then the man, J. P. McLaughlin, burst into tears.

"It's hell," said another rescue worker, Harry Leed. "It's filled with smoke and the plates on the floor are so damned hot you can't stand still even for a minute without it burning into the soles of your feet."

Massive Rescue Operation

They described victims they brought out with faces distorted in agony "as if they died trying desperately for one more breath of air."

"We haven't any idea how many people are down there," said Adm. Schuyler Pyne, boss of the Navy Yard. "They keep going down there through the side and bringing people out. We just don't Congo Charges "Trojan Horse" Attempt In U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The delegate from the Congo Monday charged Ghana and India with promoting a Soviet-inspired plan to take over control of the strife-torn African republic.

Mario Cardoso, the representative of President Joseph Kasavubu, bitterly accused nations sympathetic to deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba of trying to use the United Nations as a Trojan horse for accomplishing their aims.

He spoke in the 99-nation General Assembly, where weary delegates strove to dispose of both the Congo and Algerian issues and clear the way for a Christmas recess sometime Tuesday.

The assembly was confronted by rival Congo resolutions whose supporters were wary of predicting passage by the required two-thirds majority.

A U.S. spokesman said he was hopeful of approval for a U.S.-British resolution that puts full faith in the efforts of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and the U.N. force to achieve peace and unity in the Congo. It called on Hammarskjold to help Kasavubu create conditions for reconvening of the Congo Parliament.

India, Yugoslavia and six other nations sought adoption of a resolution calling on the assembly to urge the immediate reconvening of the Congo Parliament and speedy release of Lumumba—now a prisoner of the Congo army. It made no mention of Hammarskjold.

Cardoso said the eight-nation resolution amounted to a restatement of Soviet aims for the Congo.

"This is a very dangerous source of inspiration," he asserted. "These countries are trying to take over our state. They want to use the United Nations as a Trojan horse in order to intervene in our internal affairs."

Hopes For Manned Space Flight Soon Given Shot In Arm

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—An unmanned man-in-space capsule rocketed 135 miles high and was plucked from the Atlantic 235 miles down range Monday, possibly heralding a similar flight by an American astronaut within four months.

All seven men training to be the first Americans into space witnessed the launching, hailed by project authorities as an "unqualified success."

One space candidate, Navy Lt. Scott Carpenter, told newsmen: "I take my hat off to all concerned. This certainly should hasten the day when man can take a similar flight."

Continued success in the Project Mercury program could enable the United States to put the first man in space. Soviet scientists recently encountered difficulty in their manned space program when they failed to return a dog-carrying spaceship from orbit.

The one-ton, bell-shaped Mercury spacecraft thundered away from Cape Canaveral at 11:15 a.m. atop a Redstone Rocket and 16 minutes later plunked on target 90 miles northeast of Grand Bahama Island. Peak speed was 4,000 miles an hour.

A large parachute popped out and eased the capsule into the water only eight miles from the aircraft carrier Valley Forge, flagship of a huge fleet of recovery ships, planes and helicopters.

A Marine helicopter snared it with amazing swiftness at 11:46 a.m. and deposited it on the deck of the Valley Forge at 12:03 p.m. —just 48 minutes after launch.

Rear Adm. F. V. H Hilles, commander of recovery forces, reported the space chamber appeared to be in excellent condition. It will be returned to Cape Canaveral Tuesday for intensive examination to determine how it survived the jolting journey.

Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration were jubilant. The shot was a crucial one after three straight Mercury launching failures.

East Germany Threatens New Berlin Blockade

BERLIN (AP) — A conditional threat to cut off Allied and German travel to West Berlin at the yearend was voiced Monday by East Germany's Communist rulers through their newspaper Neues Deutschland.

The Reds said they will tear up all agreements on access to Berlin unless West Germany accepts East German terms for a new trade agreement by New Year's Eve.

The threat was contained in a front-page editorial in the official Communist party organ.

Western circles in West Berlin termed the threat ridiculous. They said East Germany has no right whatever to denounce Allied rights derived from the conquest of Hitler Germany and defined in agreements by the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

"A part of defeated Germany has no power to tear up an agreement to which the Soviet Union is a partner," one official said.

In London, a British Foreign Office spokesman said Allied rights could not be affected by threats published in a Communist newspaper. He said Britain will also ignore any communications along this line sent by the East German regime, which is not recognized by the Western powers.

The question that immediately arose in the minds of Western officials was whether the Soviet Union approved of its satellite's tough talk.

The impression was that the East German chief of state, Walter Ulbricht, had gone out further on a limb than Moscow wanted.

Western diplomats believed Soviet Premier Khrushchev does not want to touch off another Berlin crisis at least until after U. S. President-elect John F. Kennedy has taken office and an attempt has been made to get him to a summit conference.

Defectors Say Kennedy Plots Spy Operations

MOSCOW (AP)—Two U. S. National Security Agency code clerks who fled to Moscow last summer charged Monday that the United States under President-elect John F. Kennedy will spy on its allies and carry out subversive activities in other countries.

The code clerks, William H. Martin and Bernon F. Mitchell, made the charges in an interview with a correspondent of the official Soviet news agency, Tass. In general they praised the policies of the U.S.S.R. and deplored those of the U. S. government.

Observers of Soviet policy expressed the opinion that the sudden appearance of this interview might mark the beginning of a Kremlin propaganda campaign to put Kennedy on the defensive in advance of a new drive for a summit conference. The implication might be that the new U. S. administration would still have to apologize to the Kremlin, for example, for the U2 spy plane flight over the Soviet Union last May.

Mitchell and Martin made statements last summer, after their flight to the Soviet Union, concerning alleged U. S. espionage activities against America's allies. In the Tass interview, they repeated the charge.

"In particular," said Mitchell, "I could probably convince some of the U. S. allies—namely Italy, Turkey and Uruguay, if they are interested—how their secret communications were read by the U. S. government. This could be done by describing their enciphering machines and cryptographic procedures."

Russ, Cuba Sign Big Trade Pact

MOSCOW (AP) —Proclaiming their solidarity in foreign affairs, the Soviet Union and Cuba signed Monday a new and bigger trade agreement that promises Soviet aid to build Cuban industry.

The Soviet Union also announced it is ready to buy 2.7 million tons of Cuban sugar—roughly half the crop—if the United States persists in refusing to buy sugar from its Caribbean neighbor. The Soviets now buy a million tons annually under a pact signed Feb. 13.

Returning from a bout with the flu, Premier Khrushchev met Ernesto Guevara, Cuba's economic chief in the Kremlin. Then Guevara and Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan signed a communique. Looking fit, Khrushchev showed up later at a reception for Guevara.

The pact goes beyond the one signed in Havana by Mikoyan under which Soviet oil began flowing to Cuba in the deal to buy Cuban sugar to help replace lost U.S. markets.

A communique distributed by the official news agency Tass said the Soviet Union will build an iron and steel mill and power plants and send technicians to aid in the exploration for iron and other minerals. No over-all figures on the size of the trade pact were given.

Even in advance of the communique, Western diplomats were saying the new trade agreement would signal the deepest Soviet penetration to date in Latin America.

Man Seized For False Plane Bomb Report

CHICAGO (UPI)—FBI agents Monday arrested a 22-year - old unemployed man on charges of making a false bomb report as he boarded a TWA plane last Saturday at Greater Pittsburgh Airport.

Mickey Earl Schwartz was seized at his home and held in jail pending his arraignment Tuesday before U. S. Commissioner C. S. Bentley Pike.

His arrest was made on a complaint filed by the FBI at Pittsburgh. He was charged with telling an airline hostess that the package he carried was a bomb.

Bethlehem Boulder Nears Journey's End

MANCHESTER, Eng.and (AP) — A boulder which rested on a hillside overlooking Bethlehem when Christ was born is nearing the end of a long journey to Coventry Cathedral. The freighter Norman Prince ferried it from Beirut, Lebanon.

Out of the three-ton stone, a font will be carved, symbolizing the link of the new cathedral with the birthplace of the Christian faith.

Assembly Shuns U.N. Algeria Referendum

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The General Assembly voted down Monday night the Asian-African proposals for a U.N. referendum in Algeria to decide the political future of that French-ruled region, scene of a six-year-old rebellion.

But the assembly, in its first resolution since 1957 on the Algerian question, held that the Algerian people had the right to independence and that the United Nations had a responsibility to help them determine their own destiny.

Gas Line Blows Up

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—More than 600 feet of a natural gas pipeline blew up with a deafening roar at nearby Ceredo early Monday, sending flames and smoke spiraling hundreds of feet into the air. There were no casualties.

Heroic Efforts By Survivors, Rescuers Save Hundreds In Constellation Blaze

NEW YORK (AP) — Survivors and rescuers thought fast and behaved heroically to save countless lives Monday when fire surged through the huge aircraft carrier Constellation.

Eyewitnesses to the tragedy told story after story of men who owed their lives to other men — fellow construction workers, firemen and volunteers.

At some points, rescuers cut through steel to reach men banging on the walls of compartments where they were trapped. A mass rescue resulted when a giant crane was used to lift to safety a platform loaded with men.

Someone else thought to lower rope ladders that helped many men escape the blaze. Tugs and barges were pulled close to take men off. Firemen plunged into suffocating smoke to drag others to safety, and came out choking themselves—or were carried out.

Matthew Rizzo, 49, told how he and others were warned by their foreman to get off just after a fire alarm sounded.

"We dashed for the upper deck," Rizzo said. "I saw a man out cold, overcome by smoke. We dragged him with us. Then we went over the side, down lines to a barge which was moored alongside the vessel.

"The barge became overloaded until the water rose overdeck and we began to yell. A Navy tug drew alongside and we all climbed on board with it."

A welder, who didn't want to give his name said when the alarm sounded "I ran back for my buddies. We then went to the smokestack on the second deck. About 75 to 100 of us crowded in there, closed the door and stayed there for two hours until we learned it was safe to get out."

Allen Block, 50, a joiner, told of being caught far below decks and climbing upward into ever-thickening smoke.

"I don't know how I got out," he said. "It was pitch black. Then someone came up with a flashlight. It was a miracle. It saved me."

He said they finally reached the side and went down rope ladders, adding: "I don" know where they came from, but they were strung all over the side of the ship."

Block said some men just jumped into the water and tugs picked them up.

"I didn't jump, though,' he said "I climbed down the ladder and got into a tug that was alongside."

Senate Staff Study Urges Kennedy Overhaul NSC

WASHINGTON (AP)—A major overhaul of the National Security Council was urged on President-elect John F. Kennedy Monday by the chairman of the Senate's subcommittee on national policy machinery.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., issued a report of the committee's staff which found many alleged flaws in the operations of the NSC, the president's top-level, top-secret strategy advisory board.

"Many of the most critical questions affecting national security are not really handled within the NSC framework," the report said.

The staff study aimed its heaviest criticism less at the NSC itself than at its subordinate machinery. This comprises the NSC planning board, which prepares "policy papers" for NSC deliberation, and the operations coordinating board, which is supposed to see that agreed policies are executed.

Both are interdepartmental committees. The report suggested that the planning board too often produces weak compromises between the views of departments which seek to guard their own interests. As for the coordinating board's case for abolishing the OCB is strong."

In his accompanying statement, Jackson agreed with the staff that the NSC system, as it has evolved, has diminished the council's worth as an intimate advisory body to the president.

"The new president should undertake a major overhaul of the machinery of the NSC," Jackson said.

Congo Charges "Trojan Horse" Attempt In U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The delegate from the Congo Monday charged Ghana and India with promoting a Soviet-inspired plan to take over control of the strife-torn African republic.

Mario Cardoso, the representative of President Joseph Kasavubu, bitterly accused nations sympathetic to deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba of trying to use the United Nations as a Trojan horse for accomplishing their aims.

He spoke in the 99-nation General Assembly, where weary delegates strove to dispose of both the Congo and Algerian issues and clear the way for a Christmas recess sometime Tuesday.

The assembly was confronted by rival Congo resolutions whose supporters were wary of predicting passage by the required two-thirds majority.

A U.S. spokesman said he was hopeful of approval for a U.S.-British resolution that puts full faith in the efforts of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and the U.N. force to achieve peace and unity in the Congo. It called on Hammarskjold to help Kasavubu create conditions for reconvening of the Congo Parliament.

India, Yugoslavia and six other nations sought adoption of a resolution calling on the assembly to urge the immediate reconvening of the Congo Parliament and speedy release of Lumumba—now a prisoner of the Congo army. It made no mention of Hammarskjold.

Cardoso said the eight-nation resolution amounted to a restatement of Soviet aims for the Congo.

"This is a very dangerous source of inspiration," he asserted. "These countries are trying to take over our state. They want to use the United Nations as a Trojan horse in order to intervene in our internal affairs."

Hopes For Manned Space Flight Soon Given Shot In Arm

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—An unmanned man-in-space capsule rocketed 135 miles high and was plucked from the Atlantic 235 miles down range Monday, possibly heralding a similar flight by an American astronaut within four months.

All seven men training to be the first Americans into space witnessed the launching, hailed by project authorities as an "unqualified success."

One space candidate, Navy Lt. Scott Carpenter, told newsmen: "I take my hat off to all concerned. This certainly should hasten the day when man can take a similar flight."

Continued success in the Project Mercury program could enable the United States to put the first man in space. Soviet scientists recently encountered difficulty in their manned space program when they failed to return a dog-carrying spaceship from orbit.

The one-ton, bell-shaped Mercury spacecraft thundered away from Cape Canaveral at 11:15 a.m. atop a Redstone Rocket and 16 minutes later plunked on target 90 miles northeast of Grand Bahama Island. Peak speed was 4,000 miles an hour.

A large parachute popped out and eased the capsule into the water only eight miles from the aircraft carrier Valley Forge, flagship of a huge fleet of recovery ships, planes and helicopters.

A Marine helicopter snared it with amazing swiftness at 11:46 a.m. and deposited it on the deck of the Valley Forge at 12:03 p.m. —just 48 minutes after launch.

Rear Adm. F. V. H Hilles, commander of recovery forces, reported the space chamber appeared to be in excellent condition. It will be returned to Cape Canaveral Tuesday for intensive examination to determine how it survived the jolting journey.

Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration were jubilant. The shot was a crucial one after three straight Mercury launching failures.

Defectors Say Kennedy Plots Spy Operations

MOSCOW (AP)—Two U. S. National Security Agency code clerks who fled to Moscow last summer charged Monday that the United States under President-elect John F. Kennedy will spy on its allies and carry out subversive activities in other countries.

The code clerks, William H. Martin and Bernon F. Mitchell, made the charges in an interview with a correspondent of the official Soviet news agency, Tass. In general they praised the policies of the U.S.S.R. and deplored those of the U. S. government.

Observers of Soviet policy expressed the opinion that the sudden appearance of this interview might mark the beginning of a Kremlin propaganda campaign to put Kennedy on the defensive in advance of a new drive for a summit conference. The implication might be that the new U. S. administration would still have to apologize to the Kremlin, for example, for the U2 spy plane flight over the Soviet Union last May.

Mitchell and Martin made statements last summer, after their flight to the Soviet Union, concerning alleged U. S. espionage activities against America's allies. In the Tass interview, they repeated the charge.

"In particular," said Mitchell, "I could probably convince some of the U. S. allies—namely Italy, Turkey and Uruguay, if they are interested—how their secret communications were read by the U. S. government. This could be done by describing their enciphering machines and cryptographic procedures."

East Germany Threatens New Berlin Blockade

BERLIN (AP) — A conditional threat to cut off Allied and German travel to West Berlin at the yearend was voiced Monday by East Germany's Communist rulers through their newspaper Neues Deutschland.

The Reds said they will tear up all agreements on access to Berlin unless West Germany accepts East German terms for a new trade agreement by New Year's Eve.

The threat was contained in a front-page editorial in the official Communist party organ.

Western circles in West Berlin termed the threat ridiculous. They said East Germany has no right whatever to denounce Allied rights derived from the conquest of Hitler Germany and defined in agreements by the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union.

"A part of defeated Germany has no power to tear up an agreement to which the Soviet Union is a partner," one official said.

In London, a British Foreign Office spokesman said Allied rights could not be affected by threats published in a Communist newspaper. He said Britain will also ignore any communications along this line sent by the East German regime, which is not recognized by the Western powers.

The question that immediately arose in the minds of Western officials was whether the Soviet Union approved of its satellite's tough talk.

The impression was that the East German chief of state, Walter Ulbricht, had gone out further on a limb than Moscow wanted.

Western diplomats believed Soviet Premier Khrushchev does not want to touch off another Berlin crisis at least until after U. S. President-elect John F. Kennedy has taken office and an attempt has been made to get him to a summit conference.

Russ, Cuba Sign Big Trade Pact

MOSCOW (AP) —Proclaiming their solidarity in foreign affairs, the Soviet Union and Cuba signed Monday a new and bigger trade agreement that promises Soviet aid to build Cuban industry.

The Soviet Union also announced it is ready to buy 2.7 million tons of Cuban sugar—roughly half the crop—if the United States persists in refusing to buy sugar from its Caribbean neighbor. The Soviets now buy a million tons annually under a pact signed Feb. 13.

Returning from a bout with the flu, Premier Khrushchev met Ernesto Guevara, Cuba's economic chief in the Kremlin. Then Guevara and Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan signed a communique. Looking fit, Khrushchev showed up later at a reception for Guevara.

The pact goes beyond the one signed in Havana by Mikoyan under which Soviet oil began flowing to Cuba in the deal to buy Cuban sugar to help replace lost U.S. markets.

A communique distributed by the official news agency Tass said the Soviet Union will build an iron and steel mill and power plants and send technicians to aid in the exploration for iron and other minerals. No over-all figures on the size of the trade pact were given.

Even in advance of the communique, Western diplomats were saying the new trade agreement would signal the deepest Soviet penetration to date in Latin America.

Man Seized For False Plane Bomb Report

CHICAGO (UPI)—FBI agents Monday arrested a 22-year - old unemployed man on charges of making a false bomb report as he boarded a TWA plane last Saturday at Greater Pittsburgh Airport.

Mickey Earl Schwartz was seized at his home and held in jail pending his arraignment Tuesday before U. S. Commissioner C. S. Bentley Pike.

His arrest was made on a complaint filed by the FBI at Pittsburgh. He was charged with telling an airline hostess that the package he carried was a bomb.

Bethlehem Boulder Nears Journey's End

MANCHESTER, Eng.and (AP) — A boulder which rested on a hillside overlooking Bethlehem when Christ was born is nearing the end of a long journey to Coventry Cathedral. The freighter Norman Prince ferried it from Beirut, Lebanon.

Out of the three-ton stone, a font will be carved, symbolizing the link of the new cathedral with the birthplace of the Christian faith.

Heroic Efforts By Survivors, Rescuers Save Hundreds In Constellation Blaze

NEW YORK (AP) — Survivors and rescuers thought fast and behaved heroically to save countless lives Monday when fire surged through the huge aircraft carrier Constellation.

Eyewitnesses to the tragedy told story after story of men who owed their lives to other men — fellow construction workers, firemen and volunteers.

At some points, rescuers cut through steel to reach men banging on the walls of compartments where they were trapped. A mass rescue resulted when a giant crane was used to lift to safety a platform loaded with men.

Someone else thought to lower rope ladders that helped many men escape the blaze. Tugs and barges were pulled close to take men off. Firemen plunged into suffocating smoke to drag others to safety, and came out choking themselves—or were carried out.

Matthew Rizzo, 49, told how he and others were warned by their foreman to get off just after a fire alarm sounded.

"We dashed for the upper deck," Rizzo said. "I saw a man out cold, overcome by smoke. We dragged him with us. Then we went over the side, down lines to a barge which was moored alongside the vessel.

"The barge became overloaded until the water rose overdeck and we began to yell. A Navy tug drew alongside and we all climbed on board with it."

A welder, who didn't want to give his name said when the alarm sounded "I ran back for my buddies. We then went to the smokestack on the second deck. About 75 to 100 of us crowded in there, closed the door and stayed there for two hours until we learned it was safe to get out."

Allen Block, 50, a joiner, told of being caught far below decks and climbing upward into ever-thickening smoke.

"I don't know how I got out," he said. "It was pitch black. Then someone came up with a flashlight. It was a miracle. It saved me."

He said they finally reached the side and went down rope ladders, adding: "I don't know where they came from, but they were strung all over the side of the ship."

Block said some men just jumped into the water and tugs picked them up.

"I didn't jump, though," he said "I climbed down the ladder and got into a tug that was alongside."

Assembly Shuns U.N. Algeria Referendum

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —The General Assembly voted down Monday night the Asian-African proposals for a U.N. referendum in Algeria to decide the political future of that French-ruled region, scene of a six-year-old rebellion.

But the assembly, in its first resolution since 1957 on the Algerian question, held that the Algerian people had the right to independence and that the United Nations had a responsibility to help them determine their own destiny.

Gas Line Blows Up

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—More than 600 feet of a natural gas pipeline blew up with a deafening roar at nearby Ceredo early Monday, sending flames and smoke spiraling hundreds of feet into the air. There were no casualties.

Senate Staff Study Urges Kennedy Overhaul NSC

WASHINGTON (AP)—A major overhaul of the National Security Council was urged on President-elect John F. Kennedy Monday by the chairman of the Senate's subcommittee on national policy machinery.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., issued a report of the committee's staff which found many alleged flaws in the operations of the NSC, the president's top-level, top-secret strategy advisory board.

"Many of the most critical questions affecting national security are not really handled within the NSC framework," the report said.

The staff study aimed its heaviest criticism less at the NSC itself than at its subordinate machinery. This comprises the NSC planning board, which prepares "policy papers" for NSC deliberation, and the operations coordinating board, which is supposed to see that agreed policies are executed.

Both are interdepartmental committees. The report suggested that the planning board too often produces weak compromises between the views of departments which seek to guard their own interests. As for the coordinating board's case for abolishing the OCB is strong."

In his accompanying statement, Jackson agreed with the staff that the NSC system, as it has evolved, has diminished the council's worth as an intimate advisory body to the president.

"The new president should undertake a major overhaul of the machinery of the NSC," Jackson said.

Resources Board Member Charges Byrd "Drags Feet"

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A member of the Board of Natural Resources Monday accused Acting Chairman H. C. Byrd of "deliberate foot dragging" on bills proposed by the agency to elect its own chairman, review the work of member departments and set up a new agency with broad powers over water pollution.

David Hume, board member from Charles County, said Dr. Byrd's failure to relay the bills to Gov. Tawes might "kill any prospect" they would have for passage at the legislative session convening in January.

Hume promised a one-man campaign for them and said he would seek broader powers for the natural resources board than the limited legislation previously agreed to.

Byrd, who holds the natural resources chairmanship by virtue of being acting director of the Department of Tidewater Fisheries, said he would send the legislation along to the governor.

The proposals were approved by the board at recent meetings, but there was considerable debate among members over how much power the agency should have in coordinating work of the various conservation departments.

The language finally approved on a 6-4 vote Aug. 29 would have given the agency more clearly defined authority to review operations of its member departments and make recommendations to the governor and legislature on programs.

Byrd and others voting in the minority argued this would infringe on powers of presently established commissions which set policy for the various conservation departments.

There was no dispute at the August meeting over a bill to eliminate the requirement that the head of tidewater fisheries also be head of the Board of Natural Resources. Byrd said he was in agreement with that.

Hume, who is also treasurer of the state Democratic Party, noted that there is a "general assumption that the (state) administration must either raise taxes or reduce services."

"I say great savings can be realized by streamlining government," he said at Monday's meeting. "We may as well start right here and now."

In addition to expanding powers of the natural resources board, Hume long has sought to create a new agency with full powers over water pollution. He contends there is too much overlapping between the State Health Department, the Water Pollution Control Department and some other agencies.

The department would have a sub-agency with control over salt and brackish water to fresh water.

A "dead heat" is a race in which two or more contestants cross the finish line at precisely the same time.

Yule Traffic Death Toll Of 510 Forecast

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Safety Council said Monday the deadly mixture of speed and alcohol could raise the Christmas holiday traffic death total to 510.

Such a toll would be almost four times the 134 persons who died in last week's plane collision over New York. It would amount to 124 more persons dead than the 286 fatalities counted in the blizzard which swept the nation's eastern half early this month.

It would also represent 160 more persons dead in traffic than the 350 fatalities to be expected in a similar non-holiday period.

The council estimated that practically all the nation's 74 million cars would be on the roads sometime during the 78-hour holiday period between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Monday.

know how many more of them there are."

Some of the casualties were drowning victims, one of them a Navy man. Others were found below decks, their hands clutching their throats in grim testimony of suffocation. One man was overcome by gas as he tried to climb a ladder to freedom. His body was recovered, still in its grotesque ascending position.

Hundreds of survivors owed their lives to a massive rescue operation, launched as they scrambled for safety at the cry, "Leave the ship!"

Many made their way hand-over-hand down ropes and cables —some losing their grip and dropping into icy East River waters, where they were picked up.

Firemen teetering on snow-slippery scaffolding squeezed some workmen through tiny portholes in what Fire Commissioner Edward F. Cavanagh called "one of the greatest fire rescues I ever witnessed."

Tugs braved roaring flames and billowing, choking smoke, to pluck others to safety, while huge shore-based cranes dipped down to snatch human cargo from the decks.

Acetylene torches ate holes through the hull of the Constellation well below the fire level to aid rescuers in getting aboard the 60,000-ton carrier.

Italy's Sorcerers See No World War Next Year

ROME (AP)—Italy's professional sorcerers have come out of their annual crystal-gazing trance and forecast that 1961 is going to be a fairly good year.

"No world war," they said.

Singly or in combination, they added these predictions:

For Nikita Khrushchev, Charles de Gaulle and Fidel Castro there is going to be plenty of trouble.

President-elect John F. Kennedy will have a whirlwind sort of year, including meetings with Khrushchev.

Progress will continue in the conquest of space and Great Britain will produce a sensational development in this field.

"But nobody," said the sorcerers, "is going to get to the moon in 1961."

All this depends, of course, on whether the star-gazers have the right stuff. In past years they sometimes hit, and just as often missed—sometimes by a mile.

Francesco Waldner, astrologist who correctly forecast the marriage of King Bauduoin in 1960, said the Belgian king and Queen Fabiola will have two children, the first of them in 1961. He also forecast births for Princess Margaret and Actress Sophia Loren.

"There will be no war," said Waldner, "but there will be local conflicts in Latin America. The year will be negative for Khrushchev, Kennedy will be very active and positive, Castro's star will decline."

Rome's "cosmobiologist," Prof. Tommaso Palamidessi, forecast Kennedy "will obtain notable solutions to eliminate the cold war."

Prof. Alberto Fabriani, who calls himself the Sorcer of Rome, agreed there will be no war. He said Kennedy will "be very active and decisive and, taking vast initiatives, will neutralize Khrushchev."

Narcotics Witness Immunity Upheld

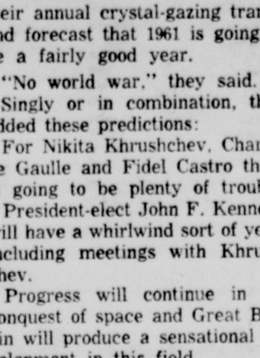

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court Monday upheld a law granting immunity to grand jury witnesses in narcotics cases and ruled the statute bars criminal action against them in state as well as federal courts.

The law under challenge provides that a witness, if granted immunity from prosecution, must testify before a federal grand jury investigating federal narcotics law violations.

Congress passed the law in 1956 with the idea it would make for more effective enforcement of narcotics laws.

Two Men Die In Hotel Blaze Near Ft. Meade

ODENTON, Md. (AP) — Two men died early Monday in a fire which destroyed a three-story, frame restaurant-hotel opposite Ft. Meade and damaged a grocery store next door.

About 40 persons from the hotel and five apartments above the store fled into 6-degree cold. Eighteen of them were taken to the Ft. Meade hospital for shelter but only one was held, a woman who suffered smoke inhalation.

Anne Arundel County police identified the victims as George Gazda, 44, manager of the Barattini Hotel which burned, and William Stoops of Gettysburg, Pa., a retired Army sergeant.

Stoops was found suffocated in a third-floor hotel room by members of the 12 volunteer fire companies which responded to the three-alarm fire. Gazda's body was found next to his bed on the first floor, two hours after the fire was brought under control at 6:45 a.m.

The fire broke out about 4:40 a.m. at the hotel, situated across Maryland 175 from Meade.

Frank W. Burgess, deputy county fire inspector, said a hotel tenant smoking in bed probably started the fire. He said the flames spread from the hotel to the rear of the North Odenton Self-Service Supermarket, a brick building.

Police said Gazda ignored warnings to stay out of the building and ran back inside three times. They did not know why.

The hotel manager died of asphyxiation. Stoops was pronounced dead of smoke inhalation.

Occupants of the 23-room hotel, operated by Mrs. Pearl C. Barattini and her daughter, Gloria, were mostly permanent residents — Meade soldiers and their families and workmen in the Odenton area.

Meade identified the woman treated for smoke inhalation as Mrs. Ruth Walker, 16, of Reading, Pa., wife of PFC. Ronald Walker, who was on fire duty with his unit at Meade when the hotel blaze broke out.

Capt. P. H. Dionne, post information officer, credited Mrs. Walker with waking other hotel residents by running through the halls knocking on doors.

Thirteen adults, four children and a puppy named Nosey were given shelter at the Ft. Meade hospital. A Red Cross disaster unit was sent from Baltimore to arrange for clothing and housing.

Two Face Court Action In Airplane Parts Theft

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — Two Charles County gambling casino operators Monday were ordered held for action of the U.S. District Court in Baltimore in connection with disappearance of $100,000 in government airplane parts from an airport at Friendly, Md.

U.S. Commissioner Samuel W. H. Meloy said the government had established grounds of probable cause in the case of Dennis Ronley Conner, 37, of La Plata, operator of the Aqua Land at Morgantown and the Southern Trail Casino at Newburg, Md., and his brother-in-law, Donald R. Owens, 32, of La Plata, operator of the 310 Ranch at Waldorf, Md.

Each is charged with receiving stolen goods belonging to the Aero Club at Rose Valley Airport. Commissioner Meloy reduced bond for each man from $10,000 to $1,000 at the close of a three-hour preliminary hearing.

Assistant U.S. Attorney John R. Hargrove presented testimony that the goods were spare and maintenance parts for Navion (L-17) planes, such as used at Rose Valley by members of the Aero Club sponsored by the airport.

Government testimony was to the effect that the airplane parts were taken to the homes of Owens and Conner and to a storage room at the Southern Trail Casino. The property was taken from a barn and adjoining grounds on the property of Martin Shaw, which adjoins Rose Valley Airport, according to prosecution testimony.

Owens, only defense witness to testify, said he became a partner for $790 with Conner at his request, and understood the goods were surplus property. The plan was to resell the parts at a profit, he said.

Owens testified he understood Conner to say later that Shaw received the parts as rental payment for the government's use of his property for storage.

FBI Agent James Sibert testified he was present Nov. 29 at Conner's home when the two suspects tried to sell some of the airplane parts to Leo Childs, vice president of the Tusco Corp., Navion division in Galveston, Tex.

Childs offered to buy landing gear parts for 10 per cent of the resale price, but Conner asked for 15 per cent, Sibert said. No deal was made.

Questioned by Defense Attorney Paul J. Bailey, Sibert said Conner and Owens made no effort to conceal or hide the airplane parts or ask Childs not to reveal the attempted transaction.

Maryland State House Official U.S. Landmark

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Maryland State House in Annapolis was designated Monday as a Registered National Historic Landmark.

The Maryland State House was completed in 1772 and is the oldest state capitol still in use. The Continental Congress met there in 1783-84 and George Washington resigned as commander-in-chief there on Dec. 23, 1783.

The Maryland State House was one of 70 additional sites designated eligible for the registry authorized by Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton.

The registry is designed to recognize and endorse the preservation and protection of structures and sites now administered by state or other public agencies or historical societies and to encourage private owners of historic landmarks to maintain them.

Its establishment was approved by Seaton in October and it is being administered by the National Park Service.

Administrators of sites declared eligible for landmark status may apply to the park service for recognition and will receive a certificate. Arrangements are also being made to make available a suitable marker.

The designation of 92 sites as eligible for registration was announced in connection with the establishment of the registry.

In addition there are 73 landmarks which are in the National Park System or which have received federal recognition in the theme studies which are used as the means of selecting qualified sites.

Three Youths Jailed For Market Robbery

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — Three young West Virginians were jailed Monday in default of $4,000 bail on charges of burglarizing a super market.

The accused, Donald V. Miller, 21, David E. Ashton, 20, and Donald Lee Runkles, 19, were caught in the act of robbing the store by two state troopers.

The three defendants all live between Hedgesville and Martinsburg, W. Va.

The Academy and College of Philadelphia, founded by Benjamin Franklin in 1749, was the first academy in the United States.

Unemployment Mounts In Md.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The ranks of Maryland's jobless swelled during November.

The Department of Employment Security said 5½ per cent of the November labor force of 1,060,000 was out of work. The jobless figure was 62,300, as compared with 52,600 for October.

DES Executive Director Robert B. Kimble attributed the jobless increase to seasonal cutbacks in agriculture, construction and food processing, plus a continued, non-seasonal cutback in primary metals.

Kimble said pickups in trade and government somewhat moderated the employment losses.

In 89 B.C., all free inhabitants of Italy became citizens of Rome.

Baltimore's List Of Tax-Exempt Property Soars

BALTIMORE (AP) — Property valued at $32 million in Baltimore was removed from taxation by the city of Baltimore during the past year.

The exempt properties were acquired by such as the city, state or federal governments, churches, colleges, hospitals and the Baltimore Housing Authority.

The city Department of Assessments reported Monday that 245-438 parcels of land valued at $511,-933,360 in all are exempt from taxation.

If they could be taxed the same as other properties at $3.60 per $100, the city would be richer by $18,429,600.

It takes orchids, as a rule, 10 or 12 years to bloom.

Industrial Medicine Pioneer Dies In D.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. William C. Moore, 81, a pioneer in industrial medicine and for many years a leading internist of Washington, died Sunday of a heart ailment.

In 1921 Dr. Moore was named to the newly created post of medical director of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company and in that capacity established many of the procedures now used in industrial medicine. He retired in 1944.

City Accepts Bids On Oil And Gasoline

The Mayor and Council yesterday accepted bids to supply gasoline, oil, lubricants, fuel and heating oil and kerosene for city needs next year.

Bids were accepted as follows: Esso Standard Oil—14.14 cents a gallon for regular grade gasoline and 16.39 cents a gallon for premium gasoline.

American Oil Company — 49 cents a gallon for H.D. premium grade oil and 54 cents a gallon for N.D. premium grade oil; and 13 cents and 13½ cents a gallon for transmission and chassis lubricants respectively, less 1 per cent 10 days on all items accepted.

Independent Motor Fuel Supply —11.12 cents a gallon on Diesel fuel oil No. 2; 11.12 cents for heating fuel oil No. 2; 12.54 cents a gallon for kerosene.

In other financial actions yesterday council accepted the financial report for the resurfacing of Fayette Street from Braddock Road to its intersection with Smallwood Street. Under the 50-50 share plan, the city will pay $1.435 a front foot. Total cost of the project was $29,191.14 of which the city and property owners will share $14,595.57 each.

Payment of $16,995.50 to Cumberland Contracting Company representing 95 per cent of the contract price, was ordered for the resurfacing of Cumberland Street.

A bid of $200 for Lots 7 through 15 in Block 43, Ridgedale Addition, from Milton Sarver was referred to Finance Commissioner Lucile Roeder who said that a report on the availability of the lots is expected to be received from the Engineering Department this week. The lots will be offered to public bids next week, she said.

Yule Party Is Held At Infirmary

Over 60 patients at the Allegany County Infirmary were treated to their annual Christmas program Sunday in an event sponsored by Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus.

In charge of the party was Raymond J. (Ike) Law, chairman of the council's sick committee who visits each patient twice a week during the year.

Assisting him were two Red Cross Gray Ladies, Mrs. Edward Naughton and Mrs. Joseph Bender, and John J. Rorick, grand knight of the KC council.

The 60 patients were moved by wheel chair and some in beds to the infirmary's auditorium where Mrs. Minnie Shaw played piano selections.

Dancing and singing was presented by girls from the Dixon Dance Studio.

Each patient was presented with a corsage and a Christmas present.

Persons Hurt In Falls

Cumberland's two hospitals were kept busy yesterday treating persons who were injured by falling on ice.

Sacred Heart Hospital handled five or six cases, with one person being admitted.

Mrs. Francis Klosterman, 46, Mt. Savage, was admitted after she sustained a fractured wrist in a fall near her home.

The other cases at Sacred Heart were all treated and released.

Memorial Hospital was also "flooded" with persons being injured in falls. Attaches said no one was admitted, however all were X-rayed and released.

Magistrates Cite Judge

The Trial Magistrates Affiliation of Allegany County met Sunday at the home of Magistrate Frank P. Kelly in Frostburg.

The group voted to adopt a resolution commending W. Earle Cobey, local attorney, on his recent appointment as an associate judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit.

V. Browne Kooken, chairman of the group, said the magistrates also discussed the county dog tag regulations.

The group decided that despite the fact that the magistrates are not responsible for issuing dog tags, they will continue to handle the matter in the interest of the public.

The association also voted to send a letter to the Allegany County Commissioners advising them that magistrates will not handle bounties in the future.

Appointed to a nominating committee were Thomas Barton of Cresaptown, John Myers of Midland and Harold Naughton of Cumberland.

Graham Visits Ike

WASHINGTON (UPI —Evangelist Billy Graham called at the White House Monday to wish President Eisenhower a merry Christmas.

Dr. Graham told reporters that was the main thing he and the President discussed during their 15-minute private chat, which he said was a "purely social call."

Miss Marjorie Swauger entertained with a surprise miscellaneous shower in honor of Miss Sandra Kay Long at her home, 26 Parkside Boulevard, LaVale. The gifts were arranged in a pink clothes hamper which was presented to the bride-elect by the hostess.

The buffet refreshment table was centered with a two-tier cake, enscribed "Best Wishes." Favors were white wedding bells.

Attending were Mrs. Charles Long, mother of the bride-elect, Miss Barbara Arnold, Miss Beverly Cover, Miss Carol Long, Miss Judy Wharton, Miss Joann Geary, Miss Helen Paxton, Miss Rose Cruthers, Miss Rose Cook, Miss Rosemary Mullaney, Miss Darlene Whalley, Miss Catherine Arnold, Mrs. Anna Mae Slough, Mrs. Mary Jane Park, Mrs. Barbara Merritt, Mrs. Pam Wharton, Mrs. Audrey Snyder, Mrs. Lois Rowan, Mrs. Jeanne Schwartz, Mrs. Ethel Cook, Mrs. Jeanette Fields, Mrs. Verda Martz, Mrs. Leland Swauger, Mrs. Sadie Koser, Mrs. Alice Martin; Mrs. Dorothy Hutcheson and Mrs. Shirley Baker.

Miss Long, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Long, 522 Fairmont Avenue, will become the bride of Harold Frederick Tice, December 23, in St. Matthews United Church of Christ, Bowling Green. Mr. Tice is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Tice, Redlands, California.

The double ring ceremony will be solemnized at a candlelight ceremony at 8 o'clock by the Rev. Richard Barley. A reception will be held in the church social room following the ceremony.

Mr., Mrs. Robinette To Observe Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Robinette will observe their 62nd wedding anniversary with their family at their home in Cresaptown Wednesday. There will not be any formal observance because of the illness of Mrs. Robinette, who has been a semi-invalid two years.

The former Miss Lena Grant and Mr. Robinette were married December 21, 1898, in Emmanuel Episcopal Church here. Both are natives of Cresaptown.

They are the parents of Mrs Lester Bane, Kirby, W. Va., Cecil Robinette, Lovettsville, Va.; Mrs. Mildred Hershberger at home, and Mrs. Ada Cecil, Cresaptown. They have 15 grandchildren, 34 great grandchildren and two great great grandchildren.

Mrs. Robinette is a member of the Cresaptown Homemakers Club. Mr. Robinette was an employe of the Celanese Corporation for 27 years prior to his retirement 14 years ago. Both are members of Cresaptown Methodist Church.

Maplesides Club Has Yule Party

The Mapleside Homemakers Club held its annual Christmas party recently at Central YMCA in the form of a luncheon. The room was decorated with colorful chenille Christmas trees and miniature Santa Clauses and angels and candles. Mrs. LeRoy Jewell was in charge of the decorations.

Following the luncheon secret sisters were revealed and Christmas gifts exchanged.

A short business session was held with Mrs. Glen Diehl presiding. A donation for the needy was collected instead of exchanging jingle present. Officers were installed by Mrs. Brotemarkle.

Mrs. Twigg read a Christmas story and Mrs. Mary Schultz presented a play, "December Memories," assisted by Mrs. Adam Frost and a chorus of singers.

Concluding the party members and guests sang Christmas carols.

Pride of Allegany Council 110, D of A, will hold its annual jingle party tonight following the meeting at Junior Order Hall.

Mrs. Pearl Hinkle, 229 Columbia Street, left Sunday to spend the winter with her son Donald, in Hollywood, Fla.

Construction Levels Off In 1960

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — The construction industry got a bit ahead of itself with its sharp rise in 1959, leveled off in 1960 and now appears set to resume its upward course in 1961.

Industry experts look for construction to be a sustaining force in the economy in 1961. They see particular strength in residential building and public works — sufficient to offset expected declines in non-residential building and private building categories.

The Department of Commerce anticipates a $55.1 billion construction total for 1960, a 2 per cent dip from the $56.2 billion volume in record 1959. It estimates a figure of $57.3 billion for 1961.

The decline in 1960 marked the first time since the end of World War II that the building business failed to set new records. While the 15 per cent rate of gain enjoyed in 1959 proved impossible to maintain, the industry in 1960 still operated well above the 1958 level.

Sees End Of Era

Dr. George Cline Smith, chief economist for the F.W. Dodge Corp., construction marketing specialists, looks on 1960 as "the end of an era — the year in which the last nail was driven into the coffin of the post-war period."

Housing, which had suffered a 16-year hiatus during the depression and the war, probably was further in arrears than any other important activity, and it is not surprising that it has been among the last to revert to normal, Smith said. However, by late 1960, there was evidence that even housing was finally falling into phase with the rest of the economy.

Nevertheless, Smith feels, the outlook is bright for the decade ahead. "The fact is," he said, "that markets during the '60's, for business in general and for construction in particular, are going to be colossal. What is different is that competition among sellers will be fierce, and that buyers will be more coy and elusive than they were in the post-war period. There will be plenty of business and plenty of profit, but it will go to those firms who do the best job of identifying, locating, studying, reaching, intriguing and selling their customers."

Blames Financing Costs

Housing, with non-farm starts off to around 1,300,000 units in 1960, compared with 1,531,000 in 1959, was the chief contributor to the construction decline in 1960. Monetary conditions, with financing costs up and FHA and VA-insured mortgages in poor competitive position, were to blame in large part for the housing slowdown.

There is evidence — in an increased vacancy rate and a weakening market for second-hand houses — that some of the pressure is off in housing demand, at least until the next big population surge due in the mid-1960's.

However, the housing people feel that in 1961 the effects of easier money and possible special government action will offset any effects of a further general business downturn, and it is estimated starts for 1961 will run to about 1,325,000.

Replacement Is Low

And, while over-all housing demand is less intense than in recent years, it is pointed out, the rate of replacement still is extremely low and there are millions of sub-standard dwellings. The basic annual demand for housing, according to the experts, is about 1,300,000 units: 900,000 for population growth, 300,000 for replacement, and 100,000 a year merely to keep the vacancy rate steady as total housing stock grows. At some point, it is generally agreed, the replacement rate will have to rise.

Heavy engineering, up 9 per cent in 196, is expected to rise still further, with a percentage increase in 1961 expected to be better than that of any other major building category.

Former Local Resident Gets Commerce Job

Allan R. Williams, Doylestown, Pa., who served for two years as assistant director of industrial development for the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, has been appointed to a new post.

Williams will be area development specialist to represent the U. S. Department of Commerce's Office of Area Development in matters pertaining to the development of labor surplus areas in Maryland, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and Delaware.

Williams returned to Doylestown from Washington, D. C., where he attended briefing sessions in the department's Office of Field Services and Office of Area Development. He will work out of the field office at 1015 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia 7.

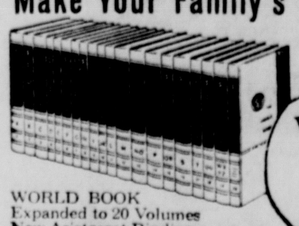

The area development specialist positions were authorized last year by the Congress to provide technical assistance to areas having serious economic and unemployment problems.

Williams was formerly with the Industrial Development Department of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway and has wide experience in developing local community programs to develop new businesses and new job opportunities. While with the C & O Industrial Development Department, Williams worked in the labor surplus areas of West Virginia, Eastern Kentucky and Southeastern Michigan. He traveled extensively in the labor surplus areas of Pennsylvania, Maryland, New York and New Jersey while doing graduate work in economic geography at the Pennsylvania State University.

The Office of Area Development is the central point in the Federal government in which Federal activities to help depressed areas are focused. Many of its publications and technical ideas form the basis for community Area Development Programs throughout the country.

Deaths And Funerals In The Tri-State Area

CHARLES E. TIMBROOK

ROMNEY, W. Va. — Charles Edward Timbrook, 83, died yesterday at his home near Romney.

Mr. Timbrook was a retired employe of the State Road Commission and was the husband of the late Nora (Hott) Timbrook.

He is survived by seven children, Mrs. Henry Whittington, Mrs. Charles Miller and Harry Timbrook, all of here; Mrs. Anriold Southerly, Bendersville, Pa.; Mrs. Gilbert Sandhimer, Washington, D. C.; Floyd Timbrook, Falls Church, Va., and Guy Timbrook, Pekin, Ill.; 11 grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren.

Services will be conducted Thursday at 2 p.m. at Ebnezer Methodist Church by Rev. Robert Fuqua and Rev. Joseph Kidd. Burial will be in Ebenezer Cemetery.

The body is at the Shaffer Funeral Home and will be taken to the church at 1 p.m. Thursday.

MRS. GLENN BUNCH

Mrs. Shirley Bunch, 36, formerly of Cresaptown, died suddenly Sunday at her home in Fort Eustis, Va.

A native of Ambridge, Pa., she was a daughter of Thomas M. Jones, Washington, and Mrs. Bonnie (Jones) Venters of Washington.

Besides her parents she is survived by her husband, Glenn Bunch; five sons, Grant, Mark, James Allen, Larry and Randy Bunch, all at home; two brothers, Allen and Thomas Jones, both of Washington, and two aunts, Mrs. Audrey Hutson, Cresaptown, and Mrs. Norma Wilson, Ridgeley.

VAN FLEET RITES

Services for Roy Van Fleet, 69, of 721 Lafayette Avenue, who died Sunday in Memorial Hospital, will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. at Lehmansville (W. Va.) Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Rev. Dr. E. E. Miller, pastor of First Evangelical United Brethren Church and Capt. Fred Overton of the Salvation Army will officiate and burial will be in Lehmansville Cemetery.

The body is at the George Funeral Home.

Pallbearers will be Donald W. Mason, Paul C. Haberlein, Earl Heavener, Harry Shobe, William H. See and Edgar M. Lewis.

Members of the Moose will hold a service today at 8 p. m. at the funeral home.

DR. MERLE HORNER

FROSTBURG — Dr. Merle M. Horner, 48, died of a heart attack Saturday afternoon in Santa Monica, Cal., where he practiced medicine.

He was born April 12, 1912, in Greensburg, Pa., a son of the late Lawrence and Kathryn (McLean) Horner.

Dr. Horner graduated from the George Washington University Medical School in 1941 and served as a captain in the Medical division of the Air Force.

He was a member of the United Brethren Church in Greensburg and formerly practiced in Petrolia, Pa.

Surviving are two daughters, Miss Lynn Horner and Miss Merle Horner, who reside in Frostburg; three sisters, Mrs. Vera Jean Smalley, St. Louis; Mrs. Ethyl Johnson, Aliquippa, Pa., and Mrs. Edith Homer, Grove City, Pa., and a brother, Dr. Ogle H. Horner, Lyons, Ohio.

MRS. FLOYD W. DUCKWORTH

WESTERNPORT—Mrs. Eva C. Duckworth, of Ridgewood, Hanover, Md., died Sunday at her home. She was the widow of Floyd W. Duckworth, formerly of Garrett County.

She was a daughter of the late Jesse and Margaret (Ormond) Fazenbaker.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Margaret E. Matthews, and a son, Carl E. Duckworth, both of Hanover.

Services will be conducted Wednesday at Singleton Funeral Home, Glen Burnie, by Dr. T. Rolland Phillips.

The body will be returned to the Boal Funeral Home Thursday at noon. Services will be conducted there that day at 1:30 p.m. by Rev. Robert M. Campbell, pastor of Piedmont Presbyterian Church. Burial will be in Philos Cemetery.

Mrs. Duckworth was a member of Bloomington Council, Daughters of America.

MRS. ALBERT W. HUEBNER

MT. SAVAGE — Mrs. Lillie E. (Barrick) Huebner, 78, of 926 Bucknell Avenue, Johnstown, a native of Mt. Savage, died Friday at her residence. She was the wife of Albert W. Huebner.

Mrs. Huebner was born at Mt. Savage June 2, 1882, a daughter of William and Kathryn (Houston) Barrick. She was a member of First Christian Church and a former member of the church quartette.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Kathryn E. Bennett, Philadelphia; two brothers, G. Bradford Barrick, Johnstown, and Robert Barrick, Baltimore, and a sister, Mrs. Ava Strock, Hagerstown.

Services were held yesterday and interment was in Grandview Cemetery, Johnstown.

WILLIAM M. FLYNN

FROSTBURG — William M. Flynn, 51, formerly of here, died Saturday at his residence, 1560 27th Street, South East Washington, D. C.

Born in Frostburg, he was a son of the late James and Laura Flynn.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Vivian Flynn, and a son, Michael Flynn, both of Washington.

Services will be conducted there tomorrow and burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

TWIGG FUNERAL

Services for Orbe Twigg, 81, of Hinkle Road, who died Sunday in Sacred Heart Hospital, will be conducted today at 2 p. m. at the Silcox Funeral Residence by Rev. E. Kyle Sawyers, pastor of Zion Methodist Church. Burial will be in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery.

GRACIE FUNERAL

FROSTBURG — Services for Robert R. Gracie, 75, Consolidation Village, who died Sunday in Miners Hospital, will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. at the funeral home by Rev. E. M. Goetschius. Burial will be in Eckhart Cemetery.

Pallbearers will be Lee Kidwell, James Tennant, William Eckhart, Charles Eckhart, Thomas Eckhart and Gregory Byrnes.

Survivors include two brothers, Lewis, Midway, Pa., and Harry Gracie, Detroit, Mich.

PHILLIP A. BEAN

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — Phillip Alonzo Bean, 81, of near Fabius, died Sunday night in Grant Memorial Hospital, Petersburg.

A native of Hardy County, Mr. Bean was a son of the late Asa C. and Sarah (Swisher) Bean. His only survivors are two nieces and nephews.

The body is at the Thrush Funeral Home here where services will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. Burial will be in the Bean Family Cemetery.

Local Man Charged With Petty Larceny

A 31-year-old local man will be given a hearing today in Trial Magistrate Court on a petty larceny charge in the theft of a shotgun.

Elmer Charles Lease Jr., 216 Beall Street, has been charged with taking a 12-gauge shotgun on September 21 which was owned by Ralph Stottlemeyer, Triple Lakes.

Lease was questioned yesterday by County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya and is being held in the County Jail to await the hearing.

Tree Lighting Event Tonight In Ridgeley

The Town of Ridgeley will hold its annual tree lighting ceremony and Christmas party for tots of the community today at 7 p. m. opposite the fire hall on Potomac State.

Mayor Charles H. Fryer will speak and throw the switch to light up the tree. Rev. Benjamin F. Hartley, pastor of Calvary Methodist Church, will give the invocation and Rev. Robert Kilgannon, pastor of St. Anthony's Catholic Church, will give the benediction.

A program of music will be presented by the Ridgeley High School band. Master of ceremonies will be William Knieriem, child welfare officer of Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion, which is sponsoring the program in conjunction with the Legion Auxiliary; Ridgeley Rod and Gun Club, Ridgeley Lions and the volunteer fire company. The tree was donated by Mr. and Mrs. George Spangler.

Lakes Are Down As Snow Piles Up In Watershed

Both of Cumberland's big reservoirs are dropping and will probably continue going down until a thaw melts some of the snow in the Lake Gordon watershed.

The Mayor and Council was advised yesterday that water consumption last week averaged a normal 12,046,000 gallons daily.

Lake Gordon on Sunday was 3.6 feet below the spillway and Lake Koon 13.9 feet below its crest.

Several inches of water was spilling over both dams this time last year.

St. Luke's Church To Light Windows

The new St. Luke's Lutheran Church on Frederick Street will have its cut glass windows illuminated during the Christmas season.

The seven slender cut glass windows which form the reredos will be lighted and will include the familiar scene of the shepherds and sheep.

At the front of the sanctuary, just inside the parabolic entrance, the nativity scene has been depicted in ceramic figures which were made by Miss Joyce Mobus, a member of the congregation.

Persons wishing to view the scenes closer may do so by driving around the driveway in front of the church.

Berlin Tests Two Systems

Try this quiz question on the nearest egghead: What is the only country in Europe with a declining population? The answer is Communist East Germany.

East Germany has a declining population because people keep leaving, despite all the efforts of the Communists to keep them there. Last month, nearly 22,000 more of them fled to the West. Since 1950, three million of them have left.

That's more than one-sixth of the estimated population of East Germany. It is as if 30 million Americans had emigrated in the last decade.

Many of them leave by way of Berlin. The frontiers are guarded with barbed wire, guard towers and machine guns. But it is still possible to get aboard a subway train in East Berlin, get off in West Berlin, and "forget" to return.

The Communists do not like this exodus. But West Germany isn't happy about it either. It isn't easy to absorb so many refugees—among whom, inevitably, a few Communist agents have been planted — without economic dislocation. Some of the refugees have a hard time, lose patience, and return to East Germany, where the Red propaganda apparatus makes the most of their belief that they were better off under Communism.

Another aspect that bothers Bonn is that the more freedom-loving Germans flee East Germany, the less dissatisfaction with Communist rule they leave behind them.

The constant "leak" of refugees through Berlin is a major reason why Khrushchev sees a "Berlin problem" and demands that it be solved. In his pre-table pounding days Khrushchev said that he wanted the capitalist and Communist systems to compete —and let the better system win. But they are competing in Germany, and the results rile the Soviet Premier.

There is no better test of which system is more successful than to ask which country has net immigration and which has net emigration.

Formation Of A Cabinet

President-elect Kennedy has already broken several precedents, the most unusual being the appointment to his Cabinet of two men in critical positions whom he did not know personally and had not even met until he offered them the posts. His Secretary of State, he met only shortly before he announced his appointment, the name coming to him as a non-political nomination, presumably from Dean Acheson who did not seek the post. He appointed a registered Republican, Robert S. McNamara, president of the Ford Motor Company, Secretary of Defense, of whom he had not even heard, also upon a non-political recommendation.

Thus far, the Cabinet represents few political payoffs. Adlai Stevenson is sent as ambassador to the United Nations and there is quite a fanfare about his influence on policy. In fact, too many protestations have been made about Adlai Stevenson's influence on policy. The entire business seems contrived and can be put down as such until otherwise established. The foreign policy of the United States, as things stand, is likely to be made by John Kennedy, and Adlai Stevenson will have about as much influence as Henry Cabot Lodge had on John Foster Dulles. The Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt-Mary Lasker-Anna Rosenberg faction in the Democratic Party has not been ignored.

There has been no political pay-off on any of the top Cabinet posts, the President-elect apparently seeking men of competence. The proposal to send Professor Kenneth Galbraith of Harvard to India is interesting if not amusing. During the campaign, the Keynesian professor was used by press, radio and television to make profundities and thus the impression arose that whatever he said was out of the horse's mouth. It was assumed by many that he would sit on the President's right hand and utter the most brazen syllogisms whereupon the country would be shaken to its roots.

The Cabinet appointment of Governor Abraham Ribicoff, who was Kennedy's floor manager at the Convention, cannot be regarded as a political pay-off. Governor Ribicoff has proved himself to be one of the ablest Governors in the country. His promotion to any post is a national gain. The likelihood that he may eventually go to the United States Supreme Court is a welcome prospect.

What is most interesting about this Cabinet at the moment of writing—when appointments have not yet been completed—is that the President-elect is assembling a non-political Cabinet. Thus far, he has not appointed one man to top Cabinet level who adds to the political strength of the President except as he made good in the opinion of the American people. If these appointments do not work out, if these men are incompetent or corrupt, Kennedy will have to let them go fast because, in view of his narrow majority and his lack of strength in Congress, his Administration must start off well. He must accomplish much by the Congressional elections of 1962.

The elements of danger for the new President are in the State and Treasury departments. The State Department requires total reorganization. Its personnel contains too many weak elements, particularly among the career men. Its operations are too costly for the results obtained. (Ethiopia is an example: we spent $115,000,000 on aid to that country and we face an antagonistic coup d'etat.) The question is who will do this job of reorganization and with what courage.

It is to be remembered that the father, Joseph Kennedy, was a member of the Hoover Commissions on the Organization of the Executive Branch of the Government. He was an active and able member and worked closely with Herbert Hoover. Robert Kennedy once worked for the Hoover Commission. Also practically every measure introduced in the Congress for implementing the Hoover Commission reports was presented by Senator John Kennedy and bears his name. Therefore, it is to be assumed that the President is familiar with the weaknesses of the State Department and the urgent need for reorganization.

The same, in a lesser degree, is true of Treasury where bureaucrats have been frozen into fixtures and seem, in their permanency, to be unrelated to the United States. These fellows need to be reminded that their salaries are paid by the American taxpayers who expect them to behave with better understanding of the requirements of the American people.

'Honk! Honk! Honk!'

The Bleak Long-Range Outlook For Algeria

By Joseph Alsop

ALGIERS

The furious shouting of the rioters has died down in Algiers, but it has left a series of ugly questions behind. Above all, it has left the question that everyone is now asking, about the practicality of Gen de Gaulle's Algerian policy after the recent ugly outburst.

This crucial question cannot even begin to be answered without an initial clearance of political debris. You cannot say which policy will produce the most hopeful results until you understand which results are impossible to produce at all.

The events of these last ten days have shown—what Gen. de Gaulle has clearly known for a long time—that there is no way for France to win the war with the Algerian rebels. Nikita S. Khrushchev could have won this war, and he would have won it, precisely as he won his victory in the blood-stained streets of Budapest.

But no Western nation any longer has the will, or the appetite, or the cruelty (call it what you will) to follow the only rule for winning wars between dominant and subject peoples. This rule is to be found in Tacitus's biography of the great pro-consul Agricola. The historian puts his rule in the mouth of a British rebel against Rome, who says of the Legionary armies: "They make a desert and they call it peace."

For a long time, it was not clear that this cruel rule necessarily applied in Algeria, if only because the struggle there was most inefficiently carried on during the pre-de Gaulle period. The French army, in this reporter's opinion, has long been the best land force in the West. But in the era of the Fourth Republic, the same praise could not be given to the army's politics-ridden high command.

The reform of the high command is one of Gen. de Gaulle's many great achievements. The conduct of the struggle in Algeria was improved beyond recognition by de Gaulle's two successive appointees to the command here, Gen. Challe and Gen. Crepin. What would have seemed to be impossible miracles only two and a half years ago, in the era of Gen. Salan, have been quietly wrought by these two able commanders.

As a result, the bands of rebels inside Algeria have been almost wholly cut off from the F. L. N. forces in Tunisia and Morocco. Except for occasional acts of terrorism, all offensive action has virtually ceased. A surface tranquility had been restored to almost the whole of Algeria, including the most remote and formerly dangerous areas of the countryside, before the recent tragic events disturbed the peace.

Yet there was a fatal flaw in this seemingly hopeful scene. As Gen. Crepin, a brutally honest man, has himself admitted, this surface tranquility only masked the facts that the people in the villages and the Moslim quarters of the towns continued to fear F. L. N., to pay the taxes demanded by the F. L. N., and to provide new recruits for the F. L. N. fighting bands.

The second rule for winning wars between dominant and subject peoples is that the subject people must fear the government more than it fears the rebels of its own race. That is the reason for the first rule. And the French army, while making extraordinary progress both in appeasement and in reconstruction, could not fulfill this second rule of fear.

The result was the situation which has now been revealed by the recent tragic events. One must underline the word "revealed," for it is certain that this situation always existed although it was temporarily concealed from many eyes by the surface transquility.

The nature of this situation is simple. The Muslim population has not ceased to wish for an independent, predominantly Muslim Algeria. Khrushchev could change the minds of the Algerian Muslims quickly enough. But the French army, being French, cannot do so. That leaves only two alternatives: indefinite prolongation of the receptive surface transquility by indefinite, costly prolongation of the war in its present form: or the voluntary creation of the best kind of Muslim Algeria which circumstances will permit.

For reasons both understandable and agonizing, the great majority of the French people in Algeria and a good many French army officers would prefer the first of these two alternatives. They would rather carry on the war indefinitely, than take the necessarily enormous gamble of making peace. But the people of metropolitan France have begun to be impatient for peace, and Gen. de Gaulle, with one ear cocked, as always, for the impersonal voice of history, has decided that the gamble is unavoidable.

What, then, is the nature of this gamble? There are two things that now need to be said about it. First of all, the chances of a good outcome, or at least of a decent outcome, have been much increased by the progress made in the last two and a half years.

The F. L. N., though not defeated, has been weakened. The flags in the Algerian Casbah have not altered this key fact.

Second, the great recent progress in reconstruction and tranquilization has also, it would seem, changed the mood, though not the aspirations, of the Algerian Muslims. There were no flags, there was not a whisper in the Muslim quarters of Algiers when the paratroopers ruled the city at bayonet point. But in that era, one may be certain, hatred endlessly boiled beneath the surface. Yet the reporters who entered the Casbah and other Muslim quarters before security forces, a few days ago, found remarkably little hatred, a surprising degree of moderation, and many marks of respect for France and even attachment to France.

Such are the circumstances. They rule out a fake-independent Algeria permanently held in ill-concealed tutelage, which was the result many people wrongly supposed Gen. de Gaulle was seeking. They do not by any means rule out a truly independent Algeria, under a moderate government, friendly to France, closely linked to France, and depending, indeed, on France for further national progress.

No one of course can guarantee that such an independent Algeria, once created, will not turn hideously sour. That is why Gen. de Gaulle's policy is a majestic gamble. But before the gamble is condemned because of its inherent risks, the only possible alternative policies had best be considered with bleak and truthful realism.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

PLAN TO PROSPECT? — If you're thinking of doing a little prospecting to help alleviate the drain of gold on the United States, don't! The pickings are slim.

Gold production in the U. S. has been dropping in recent years, reaching a low of $56 million last year. The federal government reports that the country has been thoroughly combed over.

Most gold in this country comes from a few established mines which either produce the yellow metal as their principal activity or as a bi-product of other mining operations.

World gold production continues to mount, however — to a record $1.5 billion last year. Most of this production comes from mines in the Union of South Africa, which dug up a record $700 million worth.

As in many other instances, figures are exclusive of production in the U.S.S.R. Russian gold production is placed at $350 million, but the government doesn't really know. All it knows for certain is that Russia sold seven million ounces on the London market last year for the equivalent of $254 million.

The drain on America's gold reserves, of course, stems from the outflow of dollars rather than from decreased domestic production. What to do about it will be one of the major matters facing the incoming administration of President-elect John F. Kennedy.

President Eisenhower has decreed a saving of $1 billion a year in the "exporting" of the dollar by ordering a reduction in the number of dependents of military personnel stationed abroad. There is a large question as to whether Kennedy will continue this order after he enters the White House.

Breathing In Cold Weather Difficult For Many

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The air we breathe is warmed and humidified while it passes through the nose and throat. Tests have shown that cold air (minus 148 degrees F.) is heated to within 1 or 2 degrees of body temperature (98 degrees F.) by the time it reaches the windpipe. This is in healthy persons.

Victims of chronic lung disorders, on the other hand, are severely incapacitated by cold air. Asthmatics and those with emphysema or chronic bronchitis wheeze, cough, become short of breath, or complain of tightness in the chest. We do not know why this happens because the air should be warm by the time it reaches the diseased area in the lung.

Dr. Roe E. Wells Jr. and colleagues at Harvard did a series of experiments on people who are able to tolerate cold air and those who are not. These men and women inhaled cold air while sitting in a room in which the temperature varied from warm to cold.

A special recorder demonstrated that the respiratory passageway resisted the flow of cold air in the subjects with lung disturbances who were bothered by winter air. The lungs seemed to clamp down on the cold air, making breathing difficult. This was most noticeable when the room and the outside air were cold.

But why? The experimenters were unable to determine the cause but offered some logical explanations. One was that disease exists in the nose and throat as well as the lungs, which prevented warming of the inhaled air. Other possibilities were that cold air is dry and stimulates mucus to form, or that the cold stimulated the respiratory tract to swell or clamp down in spasm.

Until the cause is found and remedied, those bothered along this line in winter ought to inhale a bronchodilator (such as Isuprel) to get relief. Some do well when they hold a newspaper or magazine in front of the mouth and nose as they walk down the street on a cold, windy day.

TOMORROW: Christmas fire hazards.

OLD FOR THUMBSUCKING

Mrs. H. writes: A 9 year old boy still sucks his thumb. Is this due to resentment or what?

REPLY

Could be. Among other origins of this nervous habit are frustration and lack of appreciation, love, attention. Apparently this boy gets more satisfaction from sucking his thumb than from anything else.

THYROID

B. V. writes: What happens to a person with deficient thyroid secretion who takes too much thyroid extract?

REPLY

He becomes nervous and develops palpitation.

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

"This business of getting up at the crack of dawn is a lot of hooey," complained Groucho Marx in his autobiography. "Most wealthy people I know like to sleep late and will fire the help if they are disturbed before 3 in the afternoon. Who are the people who rise every morning early? Garbage collectors and men who have to deliver the papers and milk. You don't see Marilyn Monroe getting up at 6 in the morning. The truth is, I don't see Marilyn getting up at any hour, more's the pity. I'm sure if you had your choice you'd rather watch Miss Monroe rise at 3 in the afternoon than watch the world's greatest garbage collector hop out of bed at 6 a. m."

A mean but resourceful crook turned up in Grand Rapids. He refused to pay his taxi fare, so the rightfully indignant driver headed for the nearest police station. While he was inside registering his complaint, the passenger drove off with the cab. (They cornered him in East Lansing.)

Secretary Benson Offers Ribicoff "Restricted" House In Washington

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Ezra Taft Benson, outgoing Secretary of Agriculture, wrote a letter the other day to the incoming Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, Gov. Abe Ribicoff of Connecticut, suggesting that he, Benson, had a very nice house suitable for a new cabinet member.

Benson addressed the letter to Hartford where Ribicoff is still carrying on as Governor of Connecticut, and later secured the telephone number of Ribicoff's executive mansion. Mrs. Benson then telephoned Mrs. Ribicoff to tell her more about the house.

In a telephone conversation which lasted a good many minutes, Mrs. Benson gave Mrs. Ribicoff all the details of their home, how many bedrooms, how many bathrooms, how big a garden, etc.

"And," she added, "it's in a lovely location. It's restricted."

There was silence at the other end of the telephone. Apparently Mrs. Benson wasn't quite sure that Mrs. Ribicoff understood. So she repeated: "and its restricted."

The telephone conversation tapered off into polite nothings. Mrs. Ribicoff, wife of the only present Jewish Governor in the USA, did not rent the Benson home.

"Even if we were permitted to live there," she told a friend, "we couldn't afford to be restricted."

Note — The swankiest club in Connecticut is the Hartford Club, which every Governor of Connecticut has belonged to in the past. It does not admit Jews. However, an exception was made in Governor Ribicoff's case. He was invited to join. The Governor, however, decided that what was too good for his people was no good for him. He declined.

Cuban Doctors

Tracy Voorhees, Truman's under secretary of the Army, who did such a good job in handling Hungarian refugees, has now been drafted by Eisenhower to handle Cuban refugees. He is working with the National Committee for Resettlement of Foreign Physicians at 31 Union Square, New York, to locate the 300 Cuban doctors in useful jobs throughout the USA.

Meanwhile, Jack Gordon, president of the Washington Federal Savings and Loan Association of Miami, has come up with the important suggestion that Cuban doctors in exile might relocate in Latin America under guidance from the USA. Combating disease in Latin America is one of the most important problems they could tackle, Gordon points out. Also these Cuban exiles could tell the real story of Fidel Castro, and tell it far more effectively than any American propaganda machine.

One difficulty is that the Cuban doctors seem optimistic that Fidel Castro will be overthrown shortly, and naturally want to go back home as soon as possible.

The Cuban doctors in the Miami area have formed the "Cuban doctors in exile" committee and met December 3, which is "doctors' day" in Cuba. This is the day when the Cuban people send flowers and other presents in appreciation of their medics. They could send no flowers to the doctors in and around Miami, but the doctors got together to remember the day anyway.

Meanwhile, Harold Russell, head of the Amvets who lost both arms in the war, is heading up a committee to raise money for the refugees.

NBC White Paper

For a long time the TV networks and most of the Big TV stations have shied away from public criticism of the government, officials who make up the government, or the policies of government. Perhaps some of them feared their TV licenses might be revoked by the government. Anyway, they left it to the newspapers to do the investigative reporting so necessary if the American people are to be kept informed.

Recently, however, NBC came out with a penetrating one-hour documentary giving the inside story of the U-2 flights over Russia and what happened in Washington and Gettysburg when Ike and Secretary Herter issued confusing, conflicting statements regarding the U-2 flights.

The NBC white paper brought screams of anguish from such Ike-defendants as David Lawrence, but the public response was terrific. The film drew the highest rating of any non-drama show in recent years. Today NBC tosses in another blockbuster in its white paper series — the sit-in strikes in the South.

Inaugural Confusion

Democratic bigwigs are really having trouble over John F. Kennedy's inaugural ball. So many people want to dance in his honor that the National Guard Armory won't hold them all. Mrs. Lindy Boggs, wife of Congressman Hale Boggs of Louisiana, went out to Maryland University to survey the possibility of using the university field house which holds 25,000, but came back to report that everything was fine except—the Democratic dancers would have to wear tennis shoes.

So now two tents are being put up outside the armory to accommodate the overflow instead.

This not only means that if the weather is frigid — and the Nation's Capital has been snowbound recently — society matrons might have to dance in low-necked gowns and mink coats. Also the tents will be put up over the parking space which is so rough that the ladies might have to wear tennis shoes anyway. Finally, there will be no parking space for automobiles and the Armory is a long way from the heart of Washington.

To add to the confusion, the inaugural committee is feuding with the inaugural ball committee. The ball committee has completely ignored the inaugural committee's invitation list and is sending out invitations to a list of its own.

However, an awful lot of people want to dance at Jack Kennedy's inauguration and it's expected that, regardless of confusion, a good time will be had by all.

The Last Tycoon

By John Crosby

The movie tycoon has become extinct like the brontosaurus and largely for the same reasons. That is, their bodies were too big, their brains were too small, and the rats nibbled at their toes. Conceivably the last of the breed is Darryl Zanuck who is carrying on with his plans and his plots and his ploys, all straight out of the Middle Ages.

The other day I had a talk with Mr. Zanuck who was still, in the middle of the afternoon, attired in pajamas and bathrobe, puffing on a huge cigar. It's a dizzying experience, conversation with Mr. Zanuck. Like taking mescalin, everything suddenly is brilliantly colored and much larger than life-size.

"I want to make a Biblical picture," quoth Mr. Zanuch. "I'm working on 'The Day Christ Died' by Jim Bishop. Going to do it without spectacle, without color. Paul Gallico is doing the script. Should be a final script already. Never is a final script, really. Should be an almost final script in a few days.

"I see it as a murder mystery. A group—several groups—trying to kill a man for various reasons. Man happens to be Jesus. He wants to die. In His death, perhaps He will succeed. I see something very different! Complete suspense! Tension! Here is this preacher with a lousy beard! Probably never took a bath! Tattered clothes! Not the figure at the Last Supper at all. You ever see where Christ lived? They were cooking in that room. He must be captured and assassinated. I won't show the Crucifixion.

"He had great hands and eyes but He was small. Never said a word in His defense. Very exciting to me this picture! No mobs! No spectacle! No chariot races! Great picture! No, it's not before the cameras yet. I'm just suffering with it now."

Zanuck has for some years now spent more time abroad than in this country but he insisted stoutly that his home is still California where he pays taxes. He is in this country to do the final editing on "The Big Gamble," an original screenplay by Irwin Shaw and on "Sanctuary," his film of the William Faulkner novel, produced by his son Richard Zanuck. He's also working on the script of "The Longest Day" which will be the story of D-Day and will, he will tell you with macabre enthusiasm, be probably the most expensive picture ever made.

In his spare time, Zanuck is working on the screenplay with Arnold Schulman of Sylvia Ashton-Warner's fine novel "Incense to Idols" which he bought for the screen on the strength of an outline as a vehicle for Juliette Greco. "If you knew Juliette Greco, you'd see how much the part of the heroine fits her. I think Sylvia Ashton-Warner, who knows Juliette, had her in mind when she wrote the book. She made the heroine a pianist instead of a singer."

I asked whether television wasn't beginning to cut into the grosses of movies abroad as it had cut in here. "The picture business has never been greater in Paris than right now. Actually the decline of movie attendance has stopped in America. I don't mean picture business is booming here—it isn't—but at least it has stopped declining. People have finally come to the conclusion they can't take television as a steady diet. What's left—bowling alleys and motion pictures?"

How did bowling alleys get into Mr. Zanuck's teeming brain?

"They've just put a bowling alley in the Bois de Boulogne," said Mr. Zanuck, looking disgusted. "This is the first time they've had American-type bowling in Europe. Before that they had bowling on the green, that sort of thing. But this is a million-dollar bowling alley right in the Bois with a night club in it and nine bars selling hamburgers and hot dogs."

The old order changeth, he admitted reluctantly. "Every actor and agent has taken control. I love Duke Wayne but what right has he to produce and direct and write a picture? He can write and direct and produce! Or how about Kirk Douglas! He can direct and produce—Kirk Douglas! Why he has trouble walking into a room!

"Suddenly everyone is a corporation! We used to talk about acting, about the script. Now the actors just talk percentages—like lawyers. Richard Widmark with his own corporation, for heaven's sake! I brought him to Hollywood for $175 a week!"

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

To celebrate its 400th anniversary a British school exhibited portraits of its famous graduates. Among the pictures were those of three convicted murderers and seven archbishops. Could be worse—at least, the good guys outnumbered the bad guys better than two to one!

The oyster is really an animal —nature note. Not much of a one —it has never learned to snarl.

Most domestic quarrels start in the kitchen, according to a survey. Naturally, because isn't that the native habitat of that famous old weapon, the rolling pin?

The proposal to send Professor Kenneth Galbraith of Harvard to India is interesting if not amusing. During the campaign, the Keynesian professor was used by press, radio and television to make profundities and thus the impression arose that whatever he said was out of the horse's mouth. It was assumed by many that he would sit on the President's right hand and utter the most brazen syllogisms whereupon the country would be shaken to its roots.

The Cabinet appointment of Governor Abraham Ribicoff, who was Kennedy's floor manager at the Convention, cannot be regarded as a political pay-off. Governor Ribicoff has proved himself to be one of the ablest Governors in the country. His promotion to any post is a national gain. The likelihood that he may eventually go to the United States Supreme Court is a welcome prospect.

What is most interesting about this Cabinet at the moment of writing—when appointments have not yet been completed—is that the President-elect is assembling a non-political Cabinet. Thus far, he has not appointed one man to top Cabinet level who adds to the political strength of the President except as he made good in the opinion of the American people. If these appointments do not work out, if these men are incompetent or corrupt, Kennedy will have to let them go fast because, in view of his narrow majority and his lack of strength in Congress, his Administration must start off well. He must accomplish much by the Congressional elections of 1962.

The elements of danger for the new President are in the State and Treasury departments. The State Department requires total reorganization. Its personnel contains too many weak elements, particularly among the career men. Its operations are too costly for the results obtained. (Ethiopia is an example: we spent $115,000,000 on aid to that country and we face an antagonistic coup d'etat.) The question is who will do this job of reorganization and with what courage.

It is to be remembered that the father, Joseph Kennedy, was a member of the Hoover Commissions on the Organization of the Executive Branch of the Government. He was an active and able member and worked closely with Herbert Hoover. Robert Kennedy once worked for the Hoover Commission. Also practically every measure introduced in the Congress for implementing the Hoover Commission reports was presented by Senator John Kennedy and bears his name. Therefore, it is to be assumed that the President is familiar with the weaknesses of the State Department and the urgent need for reorganization.

The same, in a lesser degree, is true of Treasury where bureaucrats have been frozen into fixtures and seem, in their permanency, to be unrelated to the United States. These fellows need to be reminded that their salaries are paid by the American taxpayers who expect them to behave with better understanding of the requirements of the American people.

'Honk! Honk! Honk!'

The Bleak Long-Range Outlook For Algeria

By Joseph Alsop

ALGIERS

The furious shouting of the rioters has died down in Algiers, but it has left a series of ugly questions behind. Above all, it has left the question that everyone is now asking, about the praticality of Gen de Gaulle's Algerian policy after the recent ugly outburst.

This crucial question cannot even begin to be answered without an initial clearance of political debris. You cannot say which policy will produce the most hopeful results until you understand which results are impossible to produce at all.

The events of these last ten days have shown—what Gen. de Gaulle has clearly known for a long time—that there is no way for France to win the war with the Algerian rebels. Nikita S. Khrushchev could have won this war, and he would have won it, precisely as he won his victory in the blood-stained streets of Budapest.

But no Western nation any longer has the will, or the appetite, or the cruelty (call it what you will) to follow the only rule for winning wars between dominant and subject peoples. This rule is to be found in Tacitus's biography of the great pro-consul Agricola. The historian puts his rule in the mouth of a British rebel against Rome, who says of the Legionary armies: "They make a desert and they call it peace."

For a long time, it was not clear that this cruel rule necessarily applied in Algeria, if only because the struggle there was most inefficiently carried on during the pre-de Gaulle period. The French army, in this reporter's opinion, has long been the best land force in the West. But in the era of the Fourth Republic, the same praise could not be given to the army's politics-ridden high command.

The reform of the high command is one of Gen. de Gaulle's many great achievements. The conduct of the struggle in Algeria was improved beyond recognition by de Gaulle's two successive appointees to the command here, Gen. Challe and Gen. Crepin. What would have seemed to be impossible miracles only two and a half years ago, in the era of Gen. Salan, have been quietly wrought by these two able commanders.

As a result, the bands of rebels inside Algeria have been almost wholly cut off from the F. L. N. forces in Tunisia and Morocco. Except for occasional acts of terrorism, all offensive action has virtually ceased. A surface tranquility had been restored to almost the whole of Algeria, including the most remote and formerly dangerous areas of the countryside, before the recent tragic events disturbed the peace.

Yet there was a fatal flaw in this seemingly hopeful scene. As Gen. Crepin, a brutally honest man, has himself admitted, this surface tranquility only masked the facts that the people in the villages and the Moslim quarters of the towns continued to fear F. L. N., to pay the taxes demanded by the F. L. N., and to provide new recruits for the F. L. N. fighting bands.

The second rule for winning wars between dominant and subject peoples is that the subject people must fear the government more than it fears the rebels of its own race. That is the reason for the first rule. And the French army, while making extraordinary progress both in appeasement and in reconstruction, could not fulfill this second rule of fear.

The result was the situation which has now been revealed by the recent tragic events. One must underline the word "revealed," for it is certain that this situation always existed although it was temporarily concealed from many eyes by the surface transquility.

The nature of this situation is simple. The Muslim population has not ceased to wish for an independent, predominantly Muslim Algeria. Khrushchev could change the minds of the Algerian Muslims quickly enough. But the French army, being French, cannot do so. That leaves only two alternatives: indefinite prolongation of the receptive surface transquility by indefinite, costly prolongation of the war in its present form: or the voluntary creation of the best kind of Muslim Algeria which circumstances will permit.

For reasons both understandable and agonizing, the great majority of the French people in Algeria and a good many French army officers would prefer the first of these two alternatives. They would rather carry on the war indefinitely, than take the necessarily enormous gamble of making peace. But the people of metropolitan France have begun to be impatient for peace, and Gen. de Gaulle, with one ear cocked, as always, for the impersonal voice of history, has decided that the gamble is unavoidable.

What, then, is the nature of this gamble? There are two things that now need to be said about it. First of all, the chances of a good outcome, or at least of a decent outcome, have been much increased by the progress made in the last two and a half years.

The F. L. N., though not defeated, has been weakened. The flags in the Algerian Casbah have not altered this key fact.

Second, the great recent progress in reconstruction and tranquilization has also, it would seem, changed the mood, though not the aspirations, of the Algerian Muslims. There were no flags, there was not a whisper in the Muslim quarters of Algiers when the paratroopers ruled the city at bayonet point. But in that era, one may be certain, hatred endlessly boiled beneath the surface. Yet the reporters who entered the Casbah and other Muslim quarters before security forces, a few days ago, found remarkably little hatred, a surprising degree of moderation, and many marks of respect for France and even attachment to France.

Such are the circumstances. They rule out a fake-independent Algeria permanently held in ill-concealed tutelage, which was the result many people wrongly supposed Gen. de Gaulle was seeking. They do not by any means rule out a truly independent Algeria, under a moderate government, friendly to France, closely linked to France, and depending, indeed, on France for further national progress.

No one of course can guarantee that such an independent Algeria, once created, will not turn hideously sour. That is why Gen. de Gaulle's policy is a majestic gamble. But before the gamble is condemned because of its inherent risks, the only possible alternative policies had best be considered with bleak and truthful realism.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

PLAN TO PROSPECT? — If you're thinking of doing a little prospecting to help alleviate the drain of gold on the United States, don't! The pickings are slim.

Gold production in the U. S. has been dropping in recent years, reaching a low of $56 million last year. The federal government reports that the country has been thoroughly combed over.

Most gold in this country comes from a few established mines which either produce the yellow metal as their principal activity or as a bi-product of other mining operations.

World gold production continues to mount, however — to a record $1.5 billion last year. Most of this production comes from mines in the Union of South Africa, which dug up a record $700 million worth.

As in many other instances, figures are exclusive of production in the U.S.S.R. Russian gold production is placed at $350 million, but the government doesn't really know. All it knows for certain is that Russia sold seven million ounces on the London market last year for the equivalent of $254 million.

The drain on America's gold reserves, of course, stems from the outflow of dollars rather than from decreased domestic production. What to do about it will be one of the major matters facing the incoming administration of President-elect John F. Kennedy.

President Eisenhower has decreed a saving of $1 billion a year in the "exporting" of the dollar by ordering a reduction in the number of dependents of military personnel stationed abroad. There is a large question as to whether Kennedy will continue this order after he enters the White House.

Secretary Benson Offers Ribicoff "Restricted" House In Washington

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Ezra Taft Benson, outgoing Secretary of Agriculture, wrote a letter the other day to the incoming Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, Gov. Abe Ribicoff of Connecticut, suggesting that he, Benson, had a very nice house suitable for a new cabinet member.

Benson addressed the letter to Hartford where Ribicoff is still carrying on as Governor of Connecticut, and later secured the telephone number of Ribicoff's executive mansion. Mrs. Benson then telephoned Mrs. Ribicoff to tell her more about the house.

In a telephone conversation which lasted a good many minutes, Mrs. Benson gave Mrs. Ribicoff all the details of their home, how many bedrooms, how many bathrooms, how big a garden, etc.

"And," she added, "it's in a lovely location. It's restricted."

There was silence at the other end of the telephone. Apparently Mrs. Benson wasn't quite sure that Mrs. Ribicoff understood. So she repeated: "and its restricted."

The telephone conversation tapered off into polite nothings. Mrs. Ribicoff, wife of the only present Jewish Governor in the USA, did not rent the Benson home.

"Even if we were permitted to live there," she told a friend, "we couldn't afford to be restricted."

Note — The swankiest club in Connecticut is the Hartford Club, which every Governor of Connecticut has belonged to in the past. It does not admit Jews. However, an exception was made in Governor Ribicoff's case. He was invited to join. The Governor, however, decided that what was too good for his people was no good for him. He declined.

Cuban Doctors

Tracy Voorhees, Truman's under secretary of the Army, who did such a good job in handling Hungarian refugees, has now been drafted by Eisenhower to handle Cuban refugees. He is working with the National Committee for Resettlement of Foreign Physicians at 31 Union Square, New York, to locate the 300 Cuban doctors in useful jobs throughout the USA.

Meanwhile, Jack Gordon, president of the Washington Federal Savings and Loan Association of Miami, has come up with the important suggestion that Cuban doctors in exile might relocate in Latin America under guidance from the USA. Combating disease in Latin America is one of the most important problems they could tackle, Gordon points out. Also these Cuban exiles could tell the real story of Fidel Castro, and tell it far more effectively than any American propaganda machine.

One difficulty is that the Cuban doctors seem optimistic that Fidel Castro will be overthrown shortly, and naturally want to go back home as soon as possible.

The Cuban doctors in the Miami area have formed the "Cuban doctors in exile" committee and met December 3, which is "doctors' day" in Cuba. This is the day when the Cuban people send flowers and other presents in appreciation of their medics. They could send no flowers to the doctors in and around Miami, but the doctors got together to remember the day anyway.

Meanwhile, Harold Russell, head of the Amvets who lost both arms in the war, is heading up a committee to raise money for the refugees.

NBC White Paper

For a long time the TV networks and most of the Big TV stations have shied away from public criticism of the government, officials who make up the government, or the policies of government. Perhaps some of them feared their TV licenses might be revoked by the government. Anyway, they left it to the newspapers to do the investigative reporting so necessary if the American people are to be kept informed.

Recently, however, NBC came out with a penetrating one-hour documentary giving the inside story of the U-2 flights over Russia and what happened in Washington and Gettysburg when Ike and Secretary Herter issued confusing, conflicting statements regarding the U-2 flights.

The NBC white paper brought screams of anguish from such Ike-defendants as David Lawrence, but the public response was terrific. The film drew the highest rating of any non-drama show in recent years. Today NBC tosses in another blockbuster in its white paper series — the sit-in strikes in the South.

Inaugural Confusion

Democratic bigwigs are really having trouble over John F. Kennedy's inaugural ball. So many people want to dance in his honor that the National Guard Armory won't hold them all. Mrs. Lindy Boggs, wife of Congressman Hale Boggs of Louisiana, went out to Maryland University to survey the possibility of using the university field house which holds 25,000, but came back to report that everything was fine except—the Democratic dancers would have to wear tennis shoes.

So now two tents are being put up outside the armory to accommodate the overflow instead.

This not only means that if the weather is frigid — and the Nation's Capital has been snowbound recently — society matrons might have to dance in low-necked gowns and mink coats. Also the tents will be put up over the parking space which is so rough that the ladies might have to wear tennis shoes anyway. Finally, there will be no parking space for automobiles and the Armory is a long way from the heart of Washington.

To add to the confusion, the inaugural committee is feuding with the inaugural ball committee. The ball committee has completely ignored the inaugural committee's invitation list and is sending out invitations to a list of its own.

However, an awful lot of people want to dance at Jack Kennedy's inauguration and it's expected that, regardless of confusion, a good time will be had by all.

The Last Tycoon

By John Crosby

The movie tycoon has become extinct like the brontosaurus and largely for the same reasons. That is, their bodies were too big, their brains were too small, and the rats nibbled at their toes. Conceivably the last of the breed is Darryl Zanuck who is carrying on with his plans and his plots and his ploys, all straight out of the Middle Ages.

The other day I had a talk with Mr. Zanuck who was still, in the middle of the afternoon, attired in pajamas and bathrobe, puffing on a huge cigar. It's a dizzying experience, conversation with Mr. Zanuck. Like taking mescalin, everything suddenly is brilliantly colored and much larger than life-size.

"I want to make a Biblical picture," quoth Mr. Zanuch. "I'm working on 'The Day Christ Died' by Jim Bishop. Going to do it without spectacle, without color. Paul Gallico is doing the script. Should be a final script already. Never is a final script, really. Should be an almost final script in a few days.

"I see it as a murder mystery. A group—several groups—trying to kill a man for various reasons. Man happens to be Jesus. He wants to die. In His death, perhaps He will succeed. I see something very different! Complete suspense! Tension! Here is this preacher with a lousy beard! Probably never took a bath! Tattered clothes! Not the figure at the Last Supper at all. You ever see where Christ lived? They were cooking in that room. He must be captured and assassinated. I won't show the Crucifixion.

"He had great hands and eyes but He was small. Never said a word in His defense. Very exciting to me this picture! No mobs! No spectacle! No chariot races! Great picture! No, it's not before the cameras yet. I'm just suffering with it now."

Zanuck has for some years now spent more time abroad than in this country but he insisted stoutly that his home is still California where he pays taxes. He is in this country to do the final editing on "The Big Gamble," an original screenplay by Irwin Shaw and on "Sanctuary," his film of the William Faulkner novel, produced by his son Richard Zanuck. He's also working on the script of "The Longest Day" which will be the story of D-Day and will, he will tell you with macabre enthusiasm, be probably the most expensive picture ever made.

In his spare time, Zanuck is working on the screenplay with Arnold Schulman of Sylvia Ashton-Warner's fine novel "Incense to Idols" which he bought for the screen on the strength of an outline as a vehicle for Juliette Greco. "If you knew Juliette Greco, you'd see how much the part of the heroine fits her. I think Sylvia Ashton-Warner, who knows Juliette, had her in mind when she wrote the book. She made the heroine a pianist instead of a singer."

I asked whether television wasn't beginning to cut into the grosses of movies abroad as it had cut in here. "The picture business has never been greater in Paris than right now. Actually the decline of movie attendance has stopped in America. I don't mean picture business is booming here—it isn't—but at least it has stopped declining. People have finally come to the conclusion they can't take television as a steady diet. What's left—bowling alleys and motion pictures?"

How did bowling alleys get into Mr. Zanuck's teeming brain?

"They've just put a bowling alley in the Bois de Boulogne," said Mr. Zanuck, looking disgusted. "This is the first time they've had American-type bowling in Europe. Before that they had bowling on the green, that sort of thing. But this is a million-dollar bowling alley right in the Bois with a night club in it and nine bars selling hamburgers and hot dogs."

The old order changeth, he admitted reluctantly. "Every actor and agent has taken control. I love Duke Wayne but what right has he to produce and direct and write a picture? He can write and direct and produce! Or how about Kirk Douglas! He can direct and produce—Kirk Douglas! Why he has trouble walking into a room!

"Suddenly everyone is a corporation! We used to talk about acting, about the script. Now the actors just talk percentages—like lawyers. Richard Widmark with his own corporation, for heaven's sake! I brought him to Hollywood for $175 a week!"

Breathing In Cold Weather Difficult For Many

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The air we breathe is warmed and humidified while it passes through the nose and throat. Tests have shown that cold air (minus 148 degrees F.) is heated to within 1 or 2 degrees of body temperature (98 degrees F.) by the time it reaches the windpipe. This is in healthy persons.

Victims of chronic lung disorders, on the other hand, are severely incapacitated by cold air. Asthmatics and those with emphysema or chronic bronchitis wheeze, cough, become short of breath, or complain of tightness in the chest. We do not know why this happens because the air should be warm by the time it reaches the diseased area in the lung.

Dr. Roe E. Wells Jr. and colleagues at Harvard did a series of experiments on people who are able to tolerate cold air and those who are not. These men and women inhaled cold air while sitting in a room in which the temperature varied from warm to cold.

A special recorder demonstrated that the respiratory passageway resisted the flow of cold air in the subjects with lung disturbances who were bothered by winter air. The lungs seemed to clamp down on the cold air, making breathing difficult. This was most noticeable when the room and the outside air were cold.

But why? The experimenters were unable to determine the cause but offered some logical explanations. One was that disease exists in the nose and throat as well as the lungs, which prevented warming of the inhaled air. Other possibilities were that cold air is dry and stimulates mucus to form, or that the cold stimulated the respiratory tract to swell or clamp down in spasm.

Until the cause is found and remedied, those bothered along this line in winter ought to inhale a bronchodilator (such as Isuprel) to get relief. Some do well when they hold a newspaper or magazine in front of the mouth and nose as they walk down the street on a cold, windy day.

TOMORROW: Christmas fire hazards.

OLD FOR THUMBSUCKING

Mrs. H. writes: A 9 year old boy still sucks his thumb. Is this due to resentment or what?

REPLY

Could be. Among other origins of this nervous habit are frustration and lack of appreciation, love, attention. Apparently this boy gets more satisfaction from sucking his thumb than from anything else.

THYROID

B. V. writes: What happens to a person with deficient thyroid secretion, who takes too much thyroid extract?

REPLY

He becomes nervous and develops palpitation.

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

"This business of getting up at the crack of dawn is a lot of hooey," complained Groucho Marx in his autobiography. "Most wealthy people I know like to sleep late and will fire the help if they are disturbed before 3 in the afternoon. Who are the people who rise every morning early? Garbage collectors and men who have to deliver the papers and milk. You don't see Marilyn Monroe getting up at 6 in the morning. The truth is, I don't see Marilyn getting up at any hour, more's the pity. I'm sure if you had your choice you'd rather watch Miss Monroe rise at 3 in the afternoon than watch the world's greatest garbage collector hop out of bed at 6 a. m."

A mean but resourceful crook turned up in Grand Rapids. He refused to pay his taxi fare, so the rightfully indignant driver headed for the nearest police station. While he was inside registering his complaint, the passenger drove off with the cab. (They cornered him in East Lansing.)

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A friend of mine who considers herself well-dressed spends a fortune on clothes. The other day she showed up at a dinner party in a complete set of fish jewelry. She wore a necklace of gold with a big fish in the front. I think it was a walleye. The fish had emerald eyes and sapphire gills. The matching earrings were also fish — hanging head down. She wore a fish bracelet — more walleye. When I looked across the table at her I lost my appetite.

I asked my husband what he thought about the jewelry and he said "It's hideous." What do you think?—GERALDINE

DEAR GERALDINE: It's a matter of personal opinion. If you want mine, here it is: I don't care for life-like reproductions of animals, reptiles, fish or fowl as fashion accents.

I can't imagine anything more unappetizing than fish hanging from a woman's ear-lobes.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am the mother of three children. If I don't get some help I'll have a nervous breakdown. My children are normal, healthy and full of pep. I wouldn't want them any other way. They love one another very much but I'm afraid one of these days they'll kill each other.

The 11-year-old boy is always pounding on his 10-year-old brother. The girl, 13, throws things at the boys and slams doors on them. The tattling, arguing and name-calling goes on 24-hours a day. My husband says to leave them alone — that this is normal behavior.

I had no brothers or sisters so I don't know if this is the way all kids grow up. Our neighbors' kids don't seem to act this way and there are seven of them over there. Please set me straight before I lose my mind.—MOM

DEAR MOM: Show me a family of brothers and sisters who never quarrel and I'll show you a bunch of vegetables. It's normal for kids to be high-spirited and noisy but what goes on in YOUR house reaches beyond this.

The competition between your children has gotten out of hand. You must not permit yourself to be dragged into their petty squabbles. Play no favorites, refuse to reward tale-bearing, and don't act as a referee.

You won't suffer from battle fatigue at the end of each day if you call the signals and refuse to let the kids run you ragged.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When a well-to-do man takes out a divorced woman (who works for a living) who pays the baby-sitter?

This is always an embarrassiing situation for me because my friend insists on paying the sitter and I am not sure he should.

He claims it's part of the expense of going out, and since he can afford it much better than I, there should be no argument. Will you comment?—EVE

DEAR EVE: The baby sitter is engaged by you, and it is your responsibility to pay her. The gentleman is generous to want to relieve you of this expense, but don't permit it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CAN'T STAND THEM: They probably can't stand you either. Why don't you be good to yourselves and find other friends?

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 NT	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Seven of ♥

Taking advantage of a slight defensive miscue, declarer in today's hand pulled off one of the rarest of coups: an entry-making play which involved placing his ace and king on the same trick.

North, gambling that partner had seven points, chose to insist upon a game contract once his partner was able to keep the bidding open. Had he selected the proper initial call of one diamond (the suit below the doubleton) his rebid problem would have been greatly facilitated for, after South responds with one heart, North can conveniently make the nonforcing jump to two no trump which designates a hand containing 19-20 points.

West opened the seven of hearts against three no trump. East won with the ace and returned the deuce. South's nine went to West's jack and West decided to shift. Had he chosen a diamond, or a spade, declarer would have had a hard road to travel, but West selected the queen of clubs.

If West has led from a holding of queen-small, declarer can win with dummy's king, finesse the ten on the return and drive out the king of hearts. But if the lead is from the queen-jack of clubs, the finesse of the ten would be fatal. After a moment's reflection, declarer hit upon a scheme which afforded him complete safety regardless of the location of the jack of clubs. He played the king from dummy and overtook with the ace in the closed hand. This assured him of a reentry to his own hand on a later round. He played the queen of hearts, driving out the king. No matter what West returned, South could reach his own hand eventually by playing a club from dummy and overtaking in his own hand. This assured him of two hearts, two spades, three diamonds and two clubs.

James Barco Resigns

WASHINGTON (UPI)— The White House Monday announced the resignation of James Barco, a State Department veteran, as deputy U.S. representative to the United Nations. The resignation is effective Jan. 20

Presidential News Secretary James C. Hagerty, who made the announcement, also announced the resignation, effective Jan. 19, of Robert L. Kunzig from the foreign claims settlement commission.

Receives Contract

NEW YORK (UPI) — Radio Corp. of America has announced receipt of a "multi - million dollar" Air Force contract for development of a complete communications sub - system for the Dyna-Soar test program. Boeing Airplane Co. is prime contractor for the program.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—Day by day the cast of Stanley Kramer's "Judgment at Nuremburg" becomes more and more important. Over the weekend Richard Widmark signed his name to a contract. He'll play an American colonel who prosecutes the Nazi judges.

Up to date this makes Spencer Tracy, Burt Lancaster, Marlene Dietrich and Maxmillan Schell who will report in ten weeks for work. This will come up just about the time the Eichmann trial takes place keeping the memory of the dastardly Nazis fresh in the minds of the people.

If you see Walt Disney on the Paramount lot this week, don't get any ideas that a merger is in the offing. Walt is dropping by to take a look at all the footage already shot on Tommy Sands in "Love in a Goldfish Bowl" for an important reason:

He is very interested in Tommy for the male lead in "Babes in Toyland," the charming Victor Herbert operetta. And, I really think my friend Walt is on the right track about young Tommy. He can sing those lovely melodies beautifully — and he's a very good actor. Should this deal jell, it will mean that Tommy and his bride, Nancy Sinatra, Jr., won't face any career separations. "Babes" has a five months shooting schedule.

You can look for more comedies during 1961—and one of the most amusing plots I've heard is "The Bottletop Affair" which Joe Pasternak will produce for MGM. It's the story of one Japanese soldier who refuses to admit the war has ended and who continues to fire on the U.S. Navy and Army from a small island he occupies for months after the armistice has been signed.

For the role of this enemy of one, Joe has his eye on the very attractive Jimmy Shigota. Gordon Cotler wrote the novel and George Wells is writing the screenplay. For the rest of his cast—look for Joe to use some of the new faces he introduced so successfully in "Where the Boys Are."

Lloyds of London and 20th Century-Fox are at an impasse as to the amount of loss sustained by 20th on "Cleopatra," with the insurance company insisting that the studio's two and a half-million dollar claim is way out of line.

The insurance company has made it clear that they will not underwrite the production when it resumes unless Elizabeth Taylor submits to a thorough physical examination which should determine as nearly as possible that she will remain in good health for the duration of the shooting schedule.

After months of trying, Raoul Walsh finally got permission from the Defense Department to film his picture "Marines, Let's Go." Writer John Twist made the requested changes which showed the Marines not quite as tough as Trist had portrayed them in the original version of the screen play, so the Pentagon relented.

David Hedison has been added to the cast to co-star with Ken Scott, and the movie will be filmed in Tokyo. David says he will not go to Japan until after the first of the year, because he has a date to spend New Year's Eve with Maria Cooper, who is back in town from London after being there with her parents, the Gary Coopers, while Gary made a movie in England.

The best morale booster as well as the nicest Christmas present she could receive comes to Gail Russell in the form of a top femme role in "The Silent Call" at 20th Century-Fox. This is Robert Lippert's production and while he was passing out the good news he decided to give his long-time associate, Leonard Schwartz, a break, too.

So he appointed him producer on the picture, the first time Schwartz has ever received full producer credit on any Lippert picture.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A friend of mine who considers herself well-dressed spends a fortune on clothes. The other day she showed up at a dinner party in a complete set of fish jewelry. She wore a necklace of gold with a big fish in the front. I think it was a walleye. The fish had emerald eyes and sapphire gills. The matching earrings were also fish — hanging head down. She wore a fish bracelet — more walleye. When I looked across the table at her I lost my appetite.

I asked my husband what he thought about the jewelry and he said "It's hideous." What do you think?—GERALDINE

DEAR GERALDINE: It's a matter of personal opinion. If you want mine, here it is: I don't care for life-like reproductions of animals, reptiles, fish or fowl as fashion accents.

I can't imagine anything more unappetizing than fish hanging from a woman's ear-lobes.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am the mother of three children. If I don't get some help I'll have a nervous breakdown. My children are normal, healthy and full of pep. I wouldn't want them any other way. They love one another very much but I'm afraid one of these days they'll kill each other.

The 11-year-old boy is always pounding on his 10-year-old brother. The girl, 13, throws things at the boys and slams doors on them. The tattling, arguing and name-calling goes on 24-hours a day. My husband says to leave them alone — that this is normal behavior.

I had no brothers or sisters so I don't know if this is the way all kids grow up. Our neighbors' kids don't seem to act this way and there are seven of them over there. Please set me straight before I lose my mind.—MOM

DEAR MOM: Show me a family of brothers and sisters who never quarrel and I'll show you a bunch of vegetables. It's normal for kids to be high-spirited and noisy but what goes on in YOUR house reaches beyond this.

The competition between your children has gotten out of hand. You must not permit yourself to be dragged into their petty squabbles. Play no favorites, refuse to reward tale-bearing, and don't act as a referee.

You won't suffer from battle fatigue at the end of each day if you call the signals and refuse to let the kids run you ragged.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When a well-to-do man takes out a divorced woman (who works for a living) who pays the baby-sitter?

This is always an embarrassing situation for me because my friend insists on paying the sitter and I am not sure he should.

He claims it's part of the expense of going out, and since he can afford it much better than I, there should be no argument. Will you comment?—EVE

DEAR EVE: The baby sitter is engaged by you, and it is your responsibility to pay her. The gentleman is generous to want to relieve you of this expense, but don't permit it.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CAN'T STAND THEM: They probably can't stand you either. Why don't you be good to yourselves and find other friends?

Does almost everyone have a good time but you? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "How To Be Well-Liked," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

W.Va. Depressed Area Aid Plans Are Mapped Out

Recommendations Made To Committee

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The West Virginia subcommittee of the Kennedy "task force" to aid depressed areas came up with specific recommendations "which we think will be beneficial to West Virginia" at a day - long meeting Monday.

The recommendations — which were not made public immediately — will be turned over to the full 20-member committee at its next meeting in Washington Dec. 27.

"We do not propose by any means to work miracles" said subcommittee chairman Harry G. Hoffmann, who is editor of the Charleston Gazette.

"But I think the subcommittee made a conscientious effort to come up with some practical proposals to help West Virginia's distressed areas in particular," Hoffman said.

The seven - member group was in session continuously from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. with not even a break for lunch. The members had sandwiches brought in.

Attending in addition to Hoffmann were Miles Stanley of Charleston, president of the State Labor Federation; State Coal Association president Laurence E. Tierney of Bluefield; Dr. Clyde E. Colson, dean of the University college of law; Wayne Fletcher of Huntington, head of the C&O Railway industrial development division; Burl A. Sawyers of Charleston, recently named as new state road commissioner; and Don B. Potter of Fairmont, president of Monongahela Power Co.

Called in as technical consultants were State Agriculture Commissioner John T. Johnson and two of his aides, executive director L. E. Ward of the State Economic Development Agency, assistant Atty. Gen. Bernard Smith, and state conservation director Warden E. Lane.

"We also received many suggestions from various organizations and interested persons in all sections of the state," Hoffmann said.

Because of its own crowded schedule, the group had to forego attendance at a pre-legislative conference called Monday by Gov.-elect W. W. Barron to help draw up a legislative program covering some of the same ground at the state level. Both meetings were held in the Statehouse

Hoffmann said his group will make specific recommendations to President-elect John F. Kennedy and the full committee "both with respect to presidential and congressional action" aimed at helping West Virginia.

Its report is expected to deal with such things as reactivating government - surplus industrial plants, such as the ones at Morgantown and South Charleston; possible speed - up of work on a north - south highway and added emphasis on coal research, in addition to federal loans to encourage new industry in depressed areas.

Ground Work On W. Va. Economy Is Outlined

Conference Held With Gov. Barron

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— In unique fashion, all segments of West Virginia's economy joined hands Monday to lay the ground work for a program designed to make the Mountain State attractive to new industry.

Some 185 persons representing business, labor, education, the legislature and other fields, gathered for a conference called by Gov.-elect W. W. Barron.

They set up a 25-member executive council to coordinate suggestions at a Dec. 30 meeting in the capitol building. Barron will serve as chairman of this group and he also announced the full conference would be reconvened in early January prior to the opening of the legislative session January 11.

Barron set the theme for the conference during his opening remarks.

"We are gathered here today for what I term 'collective examination' of problems — some of them critical — that are facing our state and its people," he said. "By your presence, you recognize the fact that we need a comprehensive program for industrial development, for schools and roads — a program for the welfare of our people."

'Significant Step'

He called for "spirited cooperation" on the parts of the various economy groups to meet what he termed "the challenges of our times." He said any program adopted should meet the needs of the people, particularly those now without jobs.

Barron pointed out that such a conference had never before been attempted in the state and that this gathering alone, is a "significant advance toward better days for all of us."

"You are showing West Virginia and the outside world that labor, management and other segments of our society can work together, as responsible citizens, for a better West Virginia," he declared.

A resolution proposed by Raymond Lewis, Charleston, president of District 17 of the United Mine Workers union, and George Higginbotham, president of Consolidation Coal Co., authorizing the executive committee was unanimously adopted. It called for appointment of five persons from business, five from labor, two from education, six from the legislature and seven at-large members to be named by Barron.

Business chose Paul Anderson, Charles Jones Jr. and Mars Wiseman, all of Charleston; William B. Anderson, Huntington, and Julian Hansbarger, Roanoke, Va. Labor named Cecil Urbaniak, Fairmont, president of UMW District 31; Paul J. Phillips, Fairmont, of UMW District 50; Miles C. Stanley, Charleston, president of the West Virginia Labor Federation; Carroll Miller, Hinton, representing the railroad brotherhoods, and E. A. Carter, Charleston, president of the state Teamsters Union.

Love Appears

Named as education representatives were Dr. Harry Heflin, president of Glenville College, and Phares Reeder, executive secretary of the West Virginia Education Association. The legislative members will include the president of the Senate and the speaker of the House and majority and minority leaders of both chambers. Barron said he would name his seven members, probably Tuesday.

Two reports were given the conference. Charles Love, chairman of the State Tax Study Commission, briefly went over his group's recommendations and Hal Williams, an assistant attorney general, discussed formation of a West Virginia Development Authority and a new Department of Commerce for the state.

Several conference members, including Robert Shattuck, Parkersburg, president of Marbon Chemical Division of the Borg-Warner Corp.; James Harless, Gilbert Lumberman; Dave Agnew, past president of the West Virginia Contractors Association; Charles Hodel, Beckley newspaper publisher, and Dr. Joseph Marsh, Concord College president, spoke during an open forum discussion.

They pointed out the needs of West Virginia, ranging from good industrial climate to better educational opportunitiesm Harless said the state's hardwood industry had been virtually untapped and could provide jobs for some 50,000 workers.

Mrs. John McCuskey, Clarksburg, representing the Federation of Women's Clubs, advocated a program of purchasing products made in this country, particularly those manufactured in West Virginia.

Inmates' Pay Stirs Argument

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— Moundsville Penitentiary Warden Don Adams and his boss, State Public Institutions Commissioner Keith Dunlap don't see eye-to-eye on the matter of pay for prison inmates.

In the November edition of the prison's publication, Penscope, Adams said he believes each inmate who works satisfactorily should be paid $20 a month with at least half his pay put into a savings account to be held for them when the prisoner is discharged.

Dunlap, who was far from receptive to the idea, commented that the suggestion "may have some merit." The commissioner added he did not think inmates working in prison industries earn much more than they are making now, that is between 10 and 30 cents a day.

Crime Body Again Urged

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— The 1961 legislature may be asked to reactivate the West Virginia Crime Commission or set up another such body which would have permanent standing, Co - Chairman Del. J. C. Cruikshank, D-W. Va., said Monday.

Cruikshank, here to attend Gov.-elect W. W. Barron's pre-legislative conference, said he also planned to ask the legislature to "broaden the scope" of the commission. He did not elaborate on this point.

The 10 - member commission was created by the 1960 legislature for the purpose of determining the extent of crime and vice in West Virginia.

The commission, composed of five delegates and five senators, held hearings in Charleston dealing with alleged payroll irregularities in the Clay County maintenance division of the State Road Commission and on whisky and gambling in the White Sulphur Springs area.

It also held five days of hearings in Wheeling on liquor and gambling violations in the Northern Panhandle area.

Under the resolution which created the commission, the group is to make a final report within three weeks after the 1961 legislature convenes.

W.Va. Depressed Area Aid Plans Are Mapped Out

Recommendations Made To Committee

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia subcommittee of the Kennedy "task force" to aid depressed areas came up with specific recommendations "which we think will be beneficial to West Virginia" at a day - long meeting Monday.

The recommendations — which were not made public immediately — will be turned over to the full 20-member committee at its next meeting in Washington Dec. 27.

"We do not propose by any means to work miracles" said subcommittee chairman Harry G. Hoffmann, who is editor of the Charleston Gazette.

"But I think the subcommittee made a conscientious effort to come up with some practical proposals to help West Virginia's distressed areas in particular," Hoffman said.

The seven - member group was in session continuously from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. with not even a break for lunch. The members had sandwiches brought in.

Attending in addition to Hoffmann were Miles Stanley of Charleston, president of the State Labor Federation; State Coal Association president Laurence E. Tierney of Bluefield; Dr. Clyde E. Colson, dean of the University college of law; Wayne Fletcher of Huntington, head of the C&O Railway industrial development division; Burl A. Sawyers of Charleston, recently named as new state road commissioner; and Don B. Potter of Fairmont, president of Monongahela Power Co.

Called in as technical consultants were State Agriculture Commissioner John T. Johnson and two of his aides, executive director L. E. Ward of the State Economic Development Agency, assistant Atty. Gen. Bernard Smith, and state conservation director Warden E. Lane.

"We also received many suggestions from various organizations and interested persons in all sections of the state," Hoffmann said.

Because of its own crowded schedule, the group had to forego attendance at a pre-legislative conference called Monday by Gov.-elect W. W. Barron to help draw up a legislative program covering some of the same ground at the state level. Both meetings were held in the Statehouse

Hoffmann said his group will make specific recommendations to President-elect John F. Kennedy and the full committee "both with respect to presidential and congressional action" aimed at helping West Virginia.

Its report is expected to deal with such things as reactivating government - surplus industrial plants, such as the ones at Morgantown and South Charleston; possible speed - up of work on a north - south highway and added emphasis on coal research, in addition to federal loans to encourage new industry in depressed areas.

Ground Work On W. Va. Economy Is Outlined

Conference Held With Gov. Barron

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—In unique fashion, all segments of West Virginia's economy joined hands Monday to lay the ground work for a program designed to make the Mountain State attractive to new industry.

Some 185 persons representing business, labor, education, the legislature and other fields, gathered for a conference called by Gov.-elect W. W. Barron.

They set up a 25-member executive council to coordinate suggestions at a Dec. 30 meeting in the capitol building. Barron will serve as chairman of this group and he also announced the full conference would be reconvened in early January prior to the opening of the legislative session January 11.

Barron set the theme for the conference during his opening remarks.

"We are gathered here today for what I term 'collective examination' of problems — some of them critical — that are facing our state and its people," he said. "By your presence, you recognize the fact that we need a comprehensive program for industrial development, for schools and roads — a program for the welfare of our people."

'Significant Step'

He called for "spirited cooperation" on the parts of the various economy groups to meet what he termed "the challenges of our times." He said any program adopted should meet the needs of the people, particularly those now without jobs.

Barron pointed out that such a conference had never before been attempted in the state and that this gathering alone, is a "significant advance toward better days for all of us."

"You are showing West Virginia and the outside world that labor, management and other segments of our society can work together, as responsible citizens, for a better West Virginia," he declared.

A resolution proposed by Raymond Lewis, Charleston, president of District 17 of the United Mine Workers union, and George Higginbotham, president of Consolidation Coal Co., authorizing the executive committee was unanimously adopted. It called for appointment of five persons from business, five from labor, two from education, six from the legislature and seven at-large members to be named by Barron.

Business chose Paul Anderson, Charles Jones Jr. and Mars Wiseman, all of Charleston; William B. Anderson, Huntington, and Julian Hansbarger, Roanoke, Va. Labor named Cecil Urbaniak, Fairmont, president of UMW District 31; Paul J. Phillips, Fairmont, of UMW District 50; Miles C. Stanley, Charleston, president of the West Virginia Labor Federation; Carroll Miller, Hinton, representing the railroad brotherhoods, and E. A. Carter, Charleston, president of the state Teamsters Union.

Love Appears

Named as education representatives were Dr. Harry Heflin, president of Glenville College, and Phares Reeder, executive secretary of the West Virginia Education Association. The legislative members will include the president of the Senate and the speaker of the House and majority and minority leaders of both chambers. Barron said he would name his seven members, probably Tuesday.

Two reports were given the conference. Charles Love, chairman of the State Tax Study Commission, briefly went over his group's recommendations and Hal Williams, an assistant attorney general, discussed formation of a West Virginia Development Authority and a new Department of Commerce for the state.

Several conference members, including Robert Shattuck, Parkersburg, president of Marbon Chemical Division of the Borg-Warner Corp.; James Harless, Gilbert Lumberman; Dave Agnew, past president of the West Virginia Contractors Association; Charles Hodel, Beckley newspaper publisher, and Dr. Joseph Marsh, Concord College president, spoke during an open forum discussion.

They pointed out the needs of West Virginia, ranging from good industrial climate to better educational opportunitiesm Harless said the state's hardwood industry had been virtually untapped and could provide jobs for some 50,000 workers.

Mrs. John McCuskey, Clarksburg, representing the Federation of Women's Clubs, advocated a program of purchasing products made in this country, particularly those manufactured in West Virginia.

VHS Boosters Report On New Band Uniforms

LONACONING—Valley Boosters Club at their meeting Thursday evening had a band uniforms report of progress given by Mrs. Walter Evans, president.

The Valley High School Band will wear their black and white band uniforms with new white band trim for the first time at the Valley High school Christmas program.

Members of the Boosters Club have been working hard to complete the band hats and white rope decorations for the Valley band, which will be making a striking appearance at the special holiday public performance.

A donation of $50 was made to the Valley High School Science Department to defray costs of film strips needed by the department in the teaching of science, emphasized in education today.

Mrs. Doris Lee Struck, Mrs. Inez Andrews, Mrs. Anna Dodds, Mrs. Mary Deniker were in charge of games and a program at the Boosters Christmas party.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul D. Beable and daughter, Ann, and fourteen members were present.

Kennedy Gets W. Va. Votes

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—President-elect John F. Kennedy Monday formally received West Virginia's eight electoral ballots.

The vote was recorded in a brief ceremony in the office of Gov. Cecil H. Underwood, a Republican who leaves office Jan. 16 to make way for a new Democratic state administration.

Elected chairman of the group was E. A. McDonald, 82, of Logan, Democratic State Chairman Hulett C. Smith, Beckley, was designated as an elector in place of Andrew Edmiston, Weston, who was unable to attend.

The result of the formal vote, outcome of which never was in doubt, was immediately forwarded to Washington where a joint session of the House and Senate will make them official national tally Jan. 6.

McPeak Becomes Redskins' 10th Coach In 24 Years

Nixon's Aide Is Given One Year Contract

Played For Pitt, Steelers; Nixon May Join Vikings

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bill McPeak was promoted to head coach of the Washington Redskins Monday and given the tough job of shaping the tailend club into a championship contender.

McPeak, 34, for the past two years an assistant coach, got the official nod only a day after Mike Nixon was fired as top man and the Redskins ended a season with a single win, nine losses — and two ties.

McPeak received a one-year contract. Terms were not disclosed.

Owner George Preston Marshall—telling newsmen "I hope he's head coach here for many years"—said the one-year contract was at McPeak's request.

McPeak said he feels "I can prove myself in a year."

10th Coach In 24 Years

In McPeak, the Redskins get their 10th coach in the 24 seasons they have been in Washington as a member of the National Football League.

He inherits from Nixon a team which showed respectably on defense, but couldn't seem to work up any scoring punch behind erratic quarterback Ralph Guglielmi.

With a 4-18-2 record in two seasons under Nixon, the 'Skins seem badly in need of a player overhaul.

Won Title 18 Years Ago

It's been 15 years since the team won the Eastern Division title (they took five in all) and 18 years since the Redskins captured the NFL championship.

Despite his relative youth, the balding McPeak has had 12 years in the NFL — nine as a player with the Pittsburgh Steelers. He was an all-pro defensive end several times.

Starred At Pitt

Like Nixon — the man he replaced — McPeak starred at the University of Pittsburgh.

Born in New Castle, Pa., McPeak was a Navy seaman in World War II. He is married and has a two-year-old daughter.

The 49-year-old Nixon was offered a personnel job by Marshall, who said that perhaps Nixon's "greatest weakness is that he is too nice a man."

Duke Wins Over Tech Quint, 61-48

ATLANTA (UPI) —The unbeaten Duke Blue Devils overcame a ragged start here Monday night and defeated the Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets 61-48 behind the shooting and rebounding of forward Art Heyman.

Heyman scored 23 points, most of them from under the boards where he helped the Blue Devils stay in control. Tech's Roger Kaiser maintained his scoring average with a 23-point performance.

First Money Wins After Six Months

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — First Money finally lived up to his name after going winless for more than six months in beating Fair Admiral by a head Monday in the feature allowance race at the Fair Grounds.

Estacion, an Argentine - bred mare, was two lengths farther back in third place.

First Money, leading from wire to wire, finished one and one-sixteenth miles in 1:44 4-5 — 1 4-5 seconds shy of the track record for the distance.

First Money paid $21.40, $10.40 and $3.00 across the board. Fair Admiral returned $8.20 and $2.60 and Estacion $2.20.

Ohio State Holds Lead In AP Poll

Bradley Runner-up, Bonnies Are Third, Louisville Is 5th

By The Associated Press

Ohio State is the unanimous choice of a panel of sports writers and sportscasters voting in the weekly Associated Press basketball poll as the No. 1 major college team in the nation.

All of the 26 first place votes went to the Buckeyes who ran their perfect record to 4-0 Saturday by whipping Wichita 93-82 with All-America Jerry Lucas scoring 27 points.

Bradley was an overwhelming pick for the No. 2 spot with 33 second place votes after running its record to 6-0 by downing North Michigan, Nevada and Wisconsin since last week's poll. Bradley has won 12 in a row over a two-year period.

All voting, of course, was based on the results of games played through Saturday, Dec. 17. Six of the leaders were in action Monday night, including Ohio State which played Loyola at Chicago Stadium and Bradley which faced Idaho. Ohio must play Detroit Thursday and Bradley has a Friday date with Cincinnati.

Bonnies Are Third

St. Bonaventure moved into third place with six straight by adding Xavier of Ohio and Morehead State to its list of victims. Tom Stith scored 41 against Morehead. After the Bonnies' game with Western Ontario Monday, they are out of action until a holiday tournament in Madison Square Garden next week.

Indiana retained the No. 4 spot by downing Missouri and Nevada. Its only game this week is against Notre Dame Tuesday.

Louisville, winner of the Bluegrass Tournament, ran its record to 8-0 Saturday by whipping Georgetown (Ky.) and advanced to the No. 5 position.

St. John's made Ohio University its fourth victim and moved up a peg to sixth place. The Redmen play Pitt Tuesday and Gonzaga Thursday before going into a holiday tournament next week in which Ohio State also is entered.

Duke In 7th Place

Duke, which beat South Carolina and Clemson to make it 5-0 was seventh, followed by Detroit (4-1) which bounced back from a defeat by Purdue to down Nebraska and Auburn (5-0) which won the Birmingham Classic by defeating Virginia Tech and Alabama. Auburn is idle this week.

There was a tie for 10th place between North Carolina (3-2) and North Carolina State (5-1). North Carolina lost to both Kentucky and Kansas State before winning over Kansas while N.C. State lost to Wake Forest but beat Georgia Tech.

The leaders with won-lost records and first place votes in parentheses with points on a 10-9-8 etc., basis records through games on Saturday:

1.	Ohio State 36 4-0	360
2.	Bradley 6-0	321
3.	St. Bonaventure 6-0
4.	Indiana 4-1	204
5.	Louisville 8-0	178
6.	St. John's 4-0	140
7.	Duke 5-0	135
8.	Detroit 4-1	81
9.	Auburn 5-0	68
10.	tie North Carolina 3-2 39; North Carolina State 5-1 39.

Barclay Resigns Post At Tulane

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Tulane line coach George Barclay has resigned to enter private business, head football coach Andy Pilney said Monday.

Pilney said Barclay had been asked to take over an oil company distributorship in Chapel Hill, N. C., where he owns a filling station.

Barclay was a football star at North Carolina. Before coming here last year he coached at Oberlin, Dartmouth, VMI, Maryland, Washington & Lee and North Carolina.

Yaoita Scores KO

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's Orient flyweight champion Sadao Yaoita knocked out Kenji Inagaki, Japan's tenth-ranking bantamweight, in the first round of a scheduled 10-round non-title match here Monday. The end came in one minute 42 seconds.

BIG ORDER—President George Preston Marshall, left, of the Washington Redskins hands new head coach Bill McPeak shoes worn by Sammy Baugh, famed Redskin quarterback, and asks if he can fill them. Said Marshall: "Baugh did a lot for this team." McPeak, 34, for two years has been chief assistant to coach Mike Nixon, who was dismissed on Sunday. (AP Photofax)

Bradley Cops 7th Straight

Undefeated Braves Whip Idaho, 97-68

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Bradley's second-ranked Braves cracked Idaho's pesky zone defense Monday night and swept to a 97-68 basketball triumph — their seventh without defeat.

The victory was the 13th straight over a two-season span for the Braves who also are nursing a string of 40 consecutive wins at home.

Chet Walker, Bradley's All-America candidate, led all scorers with 29 points but was taken out of the game by Coach Chuck Orsborn after Walker and Idaho's Ray Carolan engaged in a scuffle with five minutes to play.

Idaho's two-three zone held Bradley in check for a while and the Braves were limited to a 37-32 halftime lead. Bradley, however, found the range in the second half and won with ease.

Detroit Titans Defeat Gonzaga

DETROIT (AP)—Dave Debusschere stormed back into the double figure scoring column Monday as Detroit edged Gonzaga 80-75.

Debusschere, who was held to only eight points Saturday in Detroit's victory over Nebraska, scored 27 points and grabbed 19 rebounds to pace the Titans.

But the individual scoring star of the game was Gonzaga's Frank Burgess who dropped in 32 points for the losers.

The Titans grabbed the lead after the first few minutes of action and held it throughout, leading 45-38 at the half, before Gonzaga went ahead briefly in the final quarter on a jump shot by Bob Hunt that made it 69-68. The Titans scored on the next play, a layup by Debusschere, and never were headed again.

Shuffle Loop Meets

A meeting of the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League will be held tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the Loyal Order of Moose Home. All teams are urged to have representatives present.

Iowa Sets Record

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI)—Iowa, paced by Don Nelson's 34 points, set an all-time Hawkeye single game scoring record Monday night in downing Arizona, 105-64, in a loosely played non-conference basketball game.

Iowa's record against six non-conference foes this season is now 5-1.

The Wildcats were led by Bill Weese who scored 20 points.

Michigan State's football team was the only Big Ten eleven to end the 1960 season with three straight victories.

Martin Warns Bolling He Is After His Job

Milwaukee Infield Loaded With Talent

By SCOTT BAILLIE

EL CERRITO, Calif. (UPI) — Billy Martin, apparently relegated to the role of utility man with the Milwaukee Braves, warned old buddy Frank Bolling Monday that he is after his job.

"And if I can steal that second base spot from him, I'll try to do it," declared the 32-year-old "kid" who has turned into one of baseball's nomads after seven and a half seasons with the New York Yankees.

Milwaukee became Billy's latest stop early this month when the Braves purchased him from the Cincinnati Reds in a straight cash deal which has been variously reported as between $20,000 and $40,000. Then four days later, the Braves gave up four players in order to land Bolling from the Tigers. And still later, they obtained Roy McMillan, the crack shortstop, from the Cincinnati Reds.

Loaded With Talent

So the Milwaukee infield, in trouble last year, is loaded with talent this time around, with Johnny Logan still on hand to fight for the shortstop berth and Bolling supposedly set for second.

"Frank's a very good friend of mine," Martin said while installing an old fashioned, turn-the-crank telephone which adds atmosphere to the restaurant which he partly owns. "We got along fine at Detroit where I was a shortstop and he was at second. But I think I'm still a good second baseman—not just a utility player. It's up to me to prove it."

Martin, now with his fifth club since the Yankees traded him to Kansas City in June of 1957, will be playing again for Charlie Dressen and expects to steal more bases.

Had Bad Season

"I played under him at Oakland in 1949 and he knows what I can do," Billy said, clamping a cigar into his mouth. "I still can steal a base but I never got a chance to do it once last season at Cincinnati."

Martin had one of his worst seasons with the Reds last year where he batted .246 and saw several good spurts marred by fisticuffs.

"It's good to get away from a floundering club and onto a solid one like Milwaukee," Martin said. "I sure hope I'm back with a champ. I've been shipped all over and I hate it. It's awful to pick up a paper and find you've just been sold. Especially when you're just getting to know everybody on the club."

Wilson Hardware Company's quint won a 56-53 thriller from the Forty & Eight Club in the feature battle last night in the City Basketball League on the Fort Hill High School court.

The Forty & Eight quint led at the quarters, 17-14, 29-28 and 45-40 but was nosed out in the final period.

The score was knotted four times and the lead changed hands as many times.

Bob Wolford's goal put Wilson's ahead at 53-52 with 50 seconds left in the game and a goal by Bob Pence put the game out of reach with 12 seconds remaining.

The victory was the second in a row of Wilson's and tied them with the Old Germans for the league leadership.

Pence and Wolford sparked the winners with 16 and 15 markers while Donnie Madden collected 12. Dick Pitko was the Forty & Eight Club's high scorer with 19 tallies. Ed Parsons and Ronnie Cage collected 12 points each.

With Phil Smith showing the way with 16 points, the Old Germans trimmed Roseland, 71-25, while Boal's Funeral Home quint drubbed the Knights of Columbus, 71-35, in other games on last night's card.

Alec Ambrose, Don Moran and Dick Niland racked up 12 points each and Gary Keedy garnered ten as five of the Old Gees scored in double figures. Bob Kenney's eight points was high for Roseland.

Norman Geatz's 19 points gave him game scoring honors as the Caseys dropped their second game of the campaign. Geatz registered nine field goals and one foul goal. Bill Wright paced Boal's quint with seven baskets and 16 points.

Packers Start Drilling Today For Title Tilt

Green Bay Battles Eagles On Monday

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—The Green Bay Packers were freed of all practice duties Monday and probably will have to watch only movies Tuesday as their preparations for next Monday's National Football League title game starts out in low gear.

Coach Vince Lombardi said Monday he will not know for certain what players may have been injured in Saturday's 35-21 win over the Los Angeles Rams until the squad meets Tuesday to view the films of the game.

But one definite casualty is reserve rookie defensive halfback Dale Hackbart. Hackbart suffered a gash in his forehead Sunday night after arriving back in Green Bay.

The team physician, Dr. James W. Nellen, said he did not know how Hackbart had been hurt, but despite the four stitches needed to close the wound, Hackbart would be able to play in the championship game against the Eagles in Philadelphia.

Norm Van Brocklin Laughs Off Report Of Vikings' Offer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Inquirer said Monday night Norman Van Brocklin, quarterback of the Philadelphia Eagles, has been offered the job of coach for the Minnesota Vikings—next year's new National Football League club.

Van Brocklin, recent winner of the Jim Thorpe Trophy as outstanding professional football player of the year, laughed at the reports. "It's news to me," he said.

There has been some speculation that Van Brocklin, who has already announced his retirement from the playing ranks, would likely succeed Buck Shaw, present Eagle mentor.

Sooners Triumph

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI) — The University of Oklahoma basketball team pulled away in the final five minutes of a game with Colorado State University here on Monday night to win 56-50.

Sophomore center Bill Green of Colorado State, led both sides in scoring with 20 points, followed by Oklahoma's Warren Fouts with 18.

California Coasts To Fifth Triumph

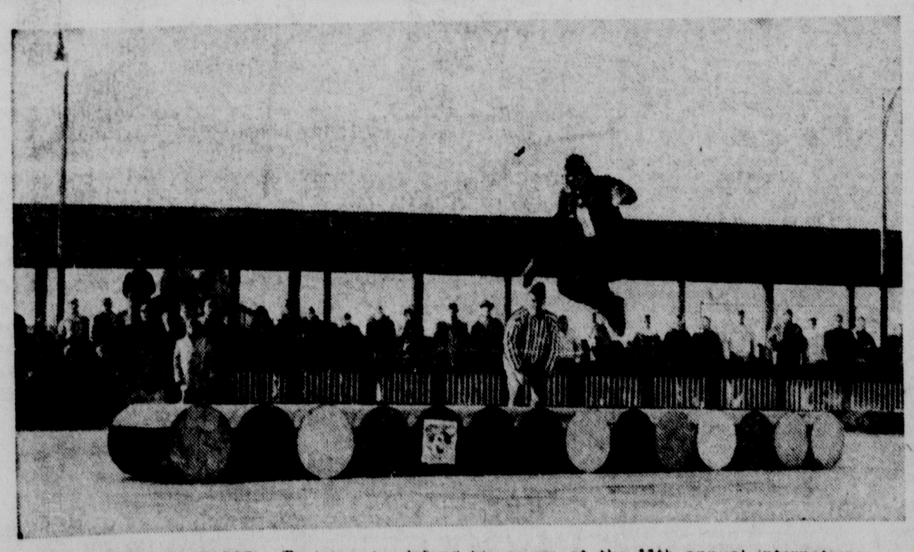

CHICAGO (UPI) — California, runner-up for last year's national basketball title coasted to its fifth straight victory Monday night with a 62-40 victory over Northwestern. It was the Wildcats fourth straight defeat.

Northwestern led only briefly in the game and never by more than four points. California took command after eight minutes and led by 28-21 at the half.

Three of the California starters scored in double figures with Stan Morrison the leader with 14 points. None of the Northwestern players could hit double figures and reserve center John Miller was high with eight points.

Paul Amen, former Wake Forest football coach, now scouts talent for Dallas in the National Football League.

McPeak Becomes Redskins' 10th Coach In 24 Years

Nixon's Aide Is Given One Year Contract

Played For Pitt, Steelers; Nixon May Join Vikings

WASHINGTON (AP)—Bill McPeak was promoted to head coach of the Washington Redskins Monday and given the tough job of shaping the tailend club into a championship contender.

McPeak, 34, for the past two years an assistant coach, got the official nod only a day after Mike Nixon was fired as top man and the Redskins ended a season with a single win, nine losses — and two ties.

McPeak received a one-year contract. Terms were not disclosed.

Owner George Preston Marshall —telling newsmen "I hope he's head coach here for many years" —said the one-year contract was at McPeak's request.

McPeak said he feels "I can prove myself in a year."

10th Coach In 24 Years

In McPeak, the Redskins get their 10th coach in the 24 seasons they have been in Washington as a member of the National Football League.

He inherits from Nixon a team which showed respectably on defense, but couldn't seem to work up any scoring punch behind erratic quarterback Ralph Guglielmi.

With a 4-18-2 record in two seasons under Nixon, the 'Skins seem badly in need of a player overhaul.

Won Title 18 Years Ago

It's been 15 years since the team won the Eastern Division title (they took five in all) and 18 years since the Redskins captured the NFL championship.

Despite his relative youth, the balding McPeak has had 12 years in the NFL — nine as a player with the Pittsburgh Steelers. He was an all-pro defensive end several times.

Starred At Pitt

Like Nixon — the man he replaced — McPeak starred at the University of Pittsburgh.

Born in New Castle, Pa., McPeak was a Navy seaman in World War II. He is married and has a two-year-old daughter.

The 49-year-old Nixon was offered a personnel job by Marshall, who said that perhaps Nixon's "greatest weakness is that he is too nice a man."

Duke Wins Over Tech Quint, 61-48

ATLANTA (UPI) —The unbeaten Duke Blue Devils overcame a ragged start here Monday night and defeated the Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets 61-48 behind the shooting and rebounding of forward Art Heyman.

Heyman scored 23 points, most of them from under the boards where he helped the Blue Devils stay in control. Tech's Roger Kaiser maintained his scoring average with a 23-point performance.

First Money Wins After Six Months

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — First Money finally lived up to his name after going winless for more than six months in beating Fair Admiral by a head Monday in the feature allowance race at the Fair Grounds.

Estacion, an Argentine - bred mare, was two lengths farther back in third place.

First Money, leading from wire to wire, finished one and one-sixteenth miles in 1:44 4-5 — 1 4-5 seconds shy of the track record for the distance.

First Money paid $21.40, $10.40 and $3.00 across the board. Fair Admiral returned $8.20 and $2.60 and Estacion $2.20.

Ohio State Holds Lead In AP Poll

Bradley Runner-up, Bonnies Are Third, Louisville Is 5th

By The Associated Press

Ohio State is the unanimous choice of a panel of sports writers and sportscasters voting in the weekly Associated Press basketball poll as the No. 1 major college team in the nation.

All of the 36 first place votes went to the Buckeyes who ran their perfect record to 4-0 Saturday by whipping Wichita 93-82 with All-America Jerry Lucas scoring 27 points.

Bradley was an overwhelming pick for the No. 2 spot with 33 second place votes after running its record to 6-0 by downing North Michigan. Nevada and Wisconsin since last week's poll. Bradley has won 12 in a row over a two-year period.

All voting, of course, was based on the results of games played through Saturday, Dec. 17. Six of the leaders were in action Monday night, including Ohio State which played Loyola at Chicago Stadium and Bradley which faced Idaho. Ohio must play Detroit Thursday and Bradley has a Friday date with Cincinnati.

Bonnies Are Third

St. Bonaventure moved into third place with six straight by adding Xavier of Ohio and Morehead State to its list of victims. Tom Stith scored 41 against Morehead. After the Bonnies' game with Western Ontario Monday, they are out of action until a holiday tournament in Madison Square Garden next week.

Indiana retained the No. 4 spot by downing Missouri and Nevada. Its only game this week is against Notre Dame Tuesday.

Louisville, winner of the Bluegrass Tournament, ran its record to 8-0 Saturday by whipping Georgetown (Ky.) and advanced to the No. 5 position.

St. John's made Ohio University its fourth victim and moved up a peg to sixth place. The Redmen play Pitt Tuesday and Gonzaga Thursday before going into a holiday tournament next week in which Ohio State also is entered.

Duke In 7th Place

Duke, which beat South Carolina and Clemson to make it 5-0 was seventh, followed by Detroit (4-1) which bounced back from a defeat by Purdue to down Nebraska and Auburn (5-0) which won the Birmingham Classic by defeating Virginia Tech and Alabama. Auburn is idle this week.

There was a tie for 10th place between North Carolina (3-2) and North Carolina State (5-1). North Carolina lost to both Kentucky and Kansas State before winning over Kansas while N.C. State lost to Wake Forest but beat Georgia Tech.

The leaders with won-lost records and first place votes in parentheses with points on a 10-9-8 etc., basis records through games on Saturday:

1.	Ohio State 36 4-0	360
2.	Bradley 6-0	321
3.	St. Bonaventure 6-0
4.	Indiana 4-1	204
5.	Louisville 8-0	178
6.	St. John's 4-0	140
7.	Duke 5-0	135
8.	Detroit 4-1	81
9.	Auburn 5-0	68
10.	tie North Carolina 3-2 39; North Carolina State 5-1 39.

Barclay Resigns Post At Tulane

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Tulane line coach George Barclay has resigned to enter private business, head football coach Andy Pilney said Monday.

Pilney said Barclay had been asked to take over an oil company distributorship in Chapel Hill, N. C., where he owns a filling station.

Barclay was a football star at North Carolina. Before coming here last year he coached at Oberlin, Dartmouth, VMI, Maryland, Washington & Lee and North Carolina.

Yaoita Scores KO

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's Orient flyweight champion Sadao Yaoita knocked out Kenji Inagaki, Japan's tenth-ranking bantamweight, in the first round of a scheduled 10-round non-title match here Monday. The end came in one minute 42 seconds.

BIG ORDER—President George Preston Marshall, left, of the Washington Redskins hands new head coach Bill McPeak shoes worn by Sammy Baugh, famed Redskin quarterback, and asks if he can fill them. Said Marshall: "Baugh did a lot for this team." McPeak, 34, for two years has been chief assistant to coach Mike Nixon, who was dismissed on Sunday. (AP Photofax)

Bradley Cops 7th Straight

Undefeated Braves Whip Idaho, 97-68

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Bradley's second-ranked Braves cracked Idaho's pesky zone defense Monday night and swept to a 97-68 basketball triumph — their seventh without defeat.

The victory was the 13th straight over a two-season span for the Braves who also are nursing a string of 40 consecutive wins at home.

Chet Walker, Bradley's All-America candidate, led all scorers with 29 points but was taken out of the game by Coach Chuck Orsborn after Walker and Idaho's Ray Carolan engaged in a scuffle with five minutes to play.

Idaho's two-three zone held Bradley in check for a while and the Braves were limited to a 37-32 halftime lead. Bradley, however, found the range in the second half and won with ease.

Detroit Titans Defeat Gonzaga

DETROIT (AP)—Dave Debusschere stormed back into the double figure scoring column Monday as Detroit edged Gonzaga 80-75.

Debusschere, who was held to only eight points Saturday in Detroit's victory over Nebraska, scored 27 points and grabbed 19 rebounds to pace the Titans.

But the individual scoring star of the game was Gonzaga's Frank Burgess who dropped in 32 points for the losers.

The Titans grabbed the lead after the first few minutes of action and held it throughout, leading 45-38 at the half, before Gonzaga went ahead briefly in the final quarter on a jump shot by Bob Hunt that made it 69-68. The Titans scored on the next play, a layup by Debusschere, and never were headed again.

Shuffle Loop Meets

A meeting of the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League will be held tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the Loyal Order of Moose Home. All teams are urged to have representatives present.

Iowa Sets Record

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI)—Iowa, paced by Don Nelson's 34 points, set an all-time Hawkeye single game scoring record Monday night in downing Arizona, 105-64, in a loosely played non-conference basketball game.

Iowa's record against six non-conference foes this season is now 5-1.

The Wildcats were led by Bill Weese who scored 20 points.

Michigan State's football team was the only Big Ten eleven to end the 1960 season with three straight victories.

Martin Warns Bolling He Is After His Job

Milwaukee Infield Loaded With Talent

By SCOTT BAILLIE

EL CERRITO, Calif. (UPI) — Billy Martin, apparently relegated to the role of utility man with the Milwaukee Braves, warned old buddy Frank Bolling Monday that he is after his job.

"And if I can steal that second base spot from him, I'll try to do it," declared the 32-year-old "kid" who has turned into one of baseball's nomads after seven and a half seasons with the New York Yankees.

Milwaukee became Billy's latest stop early this month when the Braves purchased him from the Cincinnati Reds in a straight cash deal which has been variously reported as between $20,000 and $40,000. Then four days later, the Braves gave up four players in order to land Bolling from the Tigers. And still later, they obtained Roy McMillan, the crack shortstop, from the Cincinnati Reds.

Loaded With Talent

So the Milwaukee infield, in trouble last year, is loaded with talent this time around, with Johnny Logan still on hand to fight for the shortstop berth and Bolling supposedly set for second.

"Frank's a very good friend of mine," Martin said while installing an old fashioned, turn-the-crank telephone which adds atmosphere to the restaurant which he partly owns. "We got along fine at Detroit where I was a shortstop and he was at second. But I think I'm still a good second baseman—not just a utility player. It's up to me to prove it."

Martin, now with his fifth club since the Yankees traded him to Kansas City in June of 1957, will be playing again for Charlie Dressen and expects to steal more bases.

Had Bad Season

"I played under him at Oakland in 1949 and he knows what I can do," Billy said, clamping a cigar into his mouth. "I still can steal a base but I never got a chance to do it once last season at Cincinnati."

Martin had one of his worst seasons with the Reds last year where he batted .246 and saw several good spurts marred by fisticuffs.

"It's good to get away from a floundering club and onto a solid one like Milwaukee," Martin said. "I sure hope I'm back with a champ. I've been shipped all over and I hate it. It's awful to pick up a paper and find you've just been sold. Especially when you're just getting to know everybody on the club."

Wilson Hardware Company's quint won a 56-53 thriller from the Forty & Eight Club in the feature battle last night in the City Basketball League on the Fort Hill High School court.

The Forty & Eight quint led at the quarters, 17-14, 29-28 and 45-40 but was nosed out in the final period.

The score was knotted four times and the lead changed hands as many times.

Bob Wolford's goal put Wilson's ahead at 53-52 with 50 seconds left in the game and a goal by Bob Pence put the game out of reach with 12 seconds remaining.

The victory was the second in a row of Wilson's and tied them with the Old Germans for the league leadership.

Pence and Wolford sparked the winners with 16 and 15 markers while Donnie Madden collected 12. Dick Pitko was the Forty & Eight Club's high scorer with 19 tallies. Ed Parsons and Ronnie Cage collected 12 points each.

With Phil Smith showing the way with 16 points, the Old Germans trimmed Roseland, 71-25, while Boal's Funeral Home quint drubbed the Knights of Columbus, 71-35, in other games on last night's card.

Alec Ambrose, Don Moran and Dick Niland racked up 12 points each and Gary Keedy garnered ten as five of the Old Gees scored in double figures. Bob Kenney's eight points was high for Roseland.

Norman Geatz's 19 points gave him game scoring honors as the Caseys dropped their second game of the campaign. Geatz registered nine field goals and one foul goal. Bill Wright paced Boal's quint with seven baskets and 16 points.

California Coasts To Fifth Triumph

CHICAGO (UPI) — California, runner-up for last year's national basketball title coasted to its fifth straight victory Monday night with a 62-40 victory over Northwestern. It was the Wildcats fourth straight defeat.

Northwestern led only briefly in the game and never by more than four points. California took command after eight minutes and led by 28-21 at the half.

Three of the California starters scored in double figures with Stan Morrison the leader with 14 points. None of the Northwestern players could hit double figures and reserve center John Miller was high with eight points.

Paul Amen, former Wake Forest football coach, now scouts talent for Dallas in the National Football League.

Packers Start Drilling Today For Title Tilt

Green Bay Battles Eagles On Monday

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI)—The Green Bay Packers were freed of all practice duties Monday and probably will have to watch only movies Tuesday as their preparations for next Monday's National Football League title game starts out in low gear.

Coach Vince Lombardi said Monday he will not know for certain what players may have been injured in Saturday's 35-21 win over the Los Angeles Rams until the squad meets Tuesday to view the films of the game.

But one definite casualty is reserve rookie defensive halfback Dale Hackbart. Hackbart suffered a gash in his forehead Sunday night after arriving back in Green Bay.

The team physician, Dr. James W. Nellen, said he did not know how Hackbart had been hurt, but despite the four stitches needed to close the wound, Hackbart would be able to play in the championship game against the Eagles in Philadelphia.

Norm Van Brocklin Laughs Off Report Of Vikings' Offer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Inquirer said Monday night Norman Van Brocklin, quarterback of the Philadelphia Eagles, has been offered the job of coach for the Minnesota Vikings —next year's new National Football League club.

Van Brocklin, recent winner of the Jim Thorpe Trophy as outstanding professional football player of the year, laughed at the reports. "It's news to me," he said.

There has been some speculation that Van Brocklin, who has already announced his retirement from the playing ranks, would likely succeed Buck Shaw, present Eagle mentor.

Sooners Triumph

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI) — The University of Oklahoma basketball team pulled away in the final five minutes of a game with Colorado State University here on Monday night to win 56-50.

Sophomore center Bill Green of Colorado State, led both sides in scoring with 20 points, followed by Oklahoma's Warren Fouts with 18.

Piedmont, Allegany To Clash First Time Since 1952

Valley Hosts LaSalle, Beall Meets Keyser

Petersburg Seeks 5th Win; Hyndman Faces Meyersdale

Allegany High School will make a second attempt to open its basketball season tonight when it faces Piedmont High School at Campobello at 8 o'clock.

The Campers were scheduled to pry off the lid last week but Martinsburg postponed its game here on account of hazardous driving conditions.

It will mark the first meeting of the Lions and Campers since December 1952 when Coach Walter L. Bowers' Campers opened the season with a 54-51 victory on the West Virginians' court. Piedmont and Allegany will meet only once this season.

Coach Chester G. Payne's 1960-61 edition of Allegany teams will be the same as last season when the Campers captured the W.M.I. League title with a 9-1 record, went to the state Class A semi-finals before being eliminated by Bladensburg and wound up with a 16-8 record. Allegany's first line players will be Mervin Pope, who paced the W.M.I. League and C.V.A.L. scorers last season, Gary Mulligan, Bob Gaffney, Doug Luzier, Wayne Shook and Jerry Pentoney. Other members of the squad are Kenny Davis, Alan Kaplon, James Cox, Roger Flanagan, Jack Hutchinson, John Balch and Tom Hubbs.

Payne's Fourth Season

Payne will be starting his fourth season at the Allegany helm. In the past three years his teams have won 40 and lost 26. Before taking over the reins at Allegany Payne coached at Ridgeley High four years and his teams won 52 and lost 44.

Coach William "Huck" Miers' Lions come here with a 3-2 record. Piedmont has beaten Valley, twice, and Elk Garden and lost to Beall and Petersburg.

LaSalle At Valley

LaSalle High's Explorers journey to Lonaconing tonight seeking their fourth win in five starts against a Valley quint that is winless in four outings.

This will be the 15th game of the series between these schools since the Black Knights came into the picture in 1954. They stand 7-7 in the 14 games played to date. Valley won the series finale at home last season, 73-61 after dropping a 56-51 decision here.

Five Potomac Valley Conference games appear on the Tuesday night slate headed by the Keyser-Beall tilt at Frostburg. Beall has beaten Fort Ashby, Piedmont and Ridgeley while Keyser has downed Moorefield and lost to Elk Garden in P.V.C. contests.

Vikings Seek Fifth

Petersburg's pace-setting Vikings will be gunning for their fifth consecutive win when they do battle with the Panthers (0-2) at Franklin. Coach Carroll Michael's Grant Countians have knocked off Circleville, Mathias, Piedmont and Bayard in that order and are favored to add to that string tonight.

Coach Paul Kalbaugh's Elk Garden quint, right in the thick of the championship race with a 3-1 record, hosts Bayard (0-2). Capon Bridge (0-2) invades Fort Ashby (2-1) and Lewis Close's Paw Paw Pirates make their season debut in the 19-school circuit by tackling the Romney High Pioneers (1-3) at Romney.

Meyersdale At Hyndman

Hyndman High's Hornets, victorious in their last three starts after dropping the opener to Berlin, entertain Meyersdale High School in the windup of their two-game series. Coach John Keller's quint bagged the opener by the score of 59-56.

Coach Alvin Jones' Northern High Huskies (2-2) will be seeking a sweep of the series when they play at Salisbury tonight. The Garrett countians hold an 82-57 decision over the Somerset countians.

Mathias (W. Va.) High plays at Flintstone and Oldtown High goes to Mt. Savage tonight for a game with the Mt. Savage high junior varsity quint.

Neale Fraser May Undergo Operation

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Australia's top singles player Neale Fraser may have to undergo a minor operation on his knee before the David Cup challenge round against Italy in Sydney Dec. 26 through Dec. 28.

Fraser is suffering from bursitis—a small gathering of fluid — behind the left knee. He was unable to take part in the Australian team's practice for the challenge.

The Melbourne Age tennis writer Donald Lawrence Monday night quoted Australia Captain Harry Hopman as saying the specialists are considering draining the fluid from Fraser's knee in the hope that he will make a speedy recovery.

Charles Finley Gains Control Of Athletics

Insurance Man Buys 52 Per Cent Of Stock

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Charles Finley, virtually penniless 13 years ago, Monday bought himself a $1,975,000 Christmas present—control of the Kansas City Athletics baseball club.

For six years this suave, prematurely-graying, 42-year-old group insurance baron has been trying to buy a major league club.

Probate Court Judge Robert Dunne Monday approved Finley's bid for 52 per cent of the A's stock left in the estate of the late Arnold Johnson.

Tried In 1954

Ironically, in 1954 Johnson beat out Finley in bidding for the Philadelphia Athletics.

"I had a 9 a.m. appointment with Connie Mack (A's owner then) to close the deal," Finley recalled. "Johnson beat me by getting an 8 a.m. appointment."

Finley mushroomed into a multi-millionaire on a plan to sell high income group insurance to doctors. He devised it while recuperating from a 27-month siege with tuberculosis a dozen years ago.

In gaining the majority stock, Finley outbid a Kansas City syndicate by $125,000. Previously, he had gone as high as $5 million in trying to get the Detroit Tigers, Chicago White Sox and the new Los Angeles American League entry.

A.L. Must Approve

Court approval of the block of stock is contingent on Finley being accepted by American League club owners. Their vote is to be presented to Judge Dunne within the next 10 days.

"The Kansas City group has a purchase agreement to obtain the remaining 48 per cent of the stock," Finley said. "I would love to own 100 per cent and I would be glad to reimburse them for the minority shares. But if they wish to retain them, that is all right, too.

To Keep Club In K.C.

"There will be no problem in getting league approval and I am not concerned with that. My intentions are to keep the A's permanently in Kansas City and to build for a winning ball club. I will spend any reasonable amount of money to get to the first division.

"I plan to surround myself with the best baseball brains available," continued Finley, who as a youngster was bat boy for the Birmingham (Ala.) Barons and sandlot first baseman.

"At present, no consideration has been given to Parke Carroll remaining as general manager. Joe Gordon definitely will stay as manager. And Kansas City will not be a farm team for any other club in the league. We'll do business with all of them."

Jesse Richardson's Son Is Found Dead

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The seven-week old son of Jesse Richardson, defensive tackle for the Philadelphia Eagles, was found dead in his crib Monday.

Richardson said he returned to his home in suburban Glenside after the Eagles-Washington Redskins game Sunday and gave the baby his bottle at 2 a.m.

Richardson's wife, Dorothy, found the child dead six hours later.

Prize Money Is Upped For Touring Pros

$800,000 Is Added For Summer Events

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — The Professional Golfers Association Monday released a summer tournament schedule which adds about $850,000 to the prize money for which the touring pros will play this year.

The winter tour, ending with the Masters Tournament in early April, carries about $600,000 in prizes. Still to be arranged are two summer dates and the fall schedule, for which concurrent events are planned for some weeks.

The total for 1961 likely will be larger than the listed prizes and probably will exceed the 1960 figure of $1.6 million, J. Edwin Carter, PGA national tournament director, said.

The schedule includes the Sam Snead Festival at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., May 25-28.

Missing from the list was the Eastern Open, top even in Maryland's links program, which has been in the Baltimore area for the past 11 years.

Irv Kovens, who resigned recently as chairman of the Eastern Open committee, had little information on the reason the Eastern Open was not included.

"No one as yet has been appointed chairman of the committee in my place," Kovens said. "Without a chairman, plans for the 1961 Eastern Open have been going slowly and as yet we have had no certain offer of particular dates from the PGA."

Martin Quirk, former Montreal Golden Gloves boxing champion, is a sophomore hockey player at Michigan State.

Art Nehf, Former Major League Mound Ace, Dies

Achieved Greatest Fame With Giants; Retired In 1929

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Southpaw Art Nehf, one of baseball's pitching greats in the golden era of the game in the 1920s, died at his home here Sunday night at the age of 68.

Nehf, who achieved his greatest fame with the New York Giants, was forced into retirement from baseball in 1929 and made his home here for the past 31 years.

Nehf died of cancer after a lengthy battle against the malignancy. He is survived by his widow, Elizabeth; two sons, Lt. Col. Arthur Nehf Jr. of the Marine Corps and Capt. Dan Nehf of the Air Force; a daughter, Mrs. Gray Madison Sr.; and five grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were pending.

Although he broke into the majors with the Boston Braves in 1915 and closed out his career with the Cincinnati Reds and Chicago Cubs, Nehf's greatest fame was with the Giants.

And one of the high marks of his career with the Giants came in 1921 when he shut out Babe Ruth and the New York Yankees 1-0 in the deciding game of the World Series.

Nehf appeared in five Series and had a World Series pitching record of four victories and five defeats. His final series appearance was in the twilight of his career in 1929 when as a Chicago Cub he hurled against Philadelphia.

Nehf, however, was prouder of his record as a fielding pitcher than as a hurler. He shares the National League record for pitchers starting double plays with 20, set in 1920, and equalled by Curt Davis of Philadelphia in 1934.

DIES — Art Nehf, star southpaw pitcher of the New York Giants in the era of John McGraw, died Sunday night at his home on Phoenix, Ariz. He was 68. This is 1952 photo.

Soccer Is Dropped

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UPI) — Syracuse University has dropped soccer from its list of varsity sports due to "a lack of interest and too few participants," athletic director Lew Andreas said Monday.

Syracuse began soccer in 1920. Since 1954 the Syracuse team won only two games. Last season it lost eight and tied one.

Pellegrini Undergoes Knee Surgery Today

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Line back Bob Pellegrini of the Philadelphia Eagles will undergo surgery Tuesday for torn ligaments of his left knee and will not play in the championship game between the Eagles and the Green Bay Packers Dec. 26.

The former All America from Maryland was injured in the last three minutes Sunday when the Eagles beat the Washington Redskins in the final game of the schedule.

Dr. Mike Mandarino, the Eagles' team physician and a former Eagles lineman, will operate Tuesday afternoon at Hahnemann Hospital.

Mandarino and Pellegrini will be out of the hospital by Sunday, and would see the game with his leg in a cast. The big linebacker missed a number of games midway through the season because of a groin injury.

New Pro Cage Loop Plans For 1961-62, Draft Areas Set

CHICAGO (AP)—Draft territories of college seniors were assigned Monday to eight franchised clubs in the new American Basketball League.

Abe Saperstein of Chicago, owner of the Harlem Globetrotters who will direct San Francisco in the new league, presided at the two-day session of American League club representatives.

Saperstein said plans were set in motion for the league opening next season. He said agreement on financing details had been reached and a constitution had been ratified.

Representatives of franchised cities at the sessions include Harry Lynn of Washington, D. C.

Pittsburgh will have draft rights in New York, New England, West Virginia, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Washington's draft area will include Delaware, District of Columbia, Maryland, North Carolina, Virginia, Florida, South Carolina and Georgia.

Titans Sign Dorow To Year-Around Job

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Pro quarterback Al Dorow was signed Monday on a year-around contract by New York Titan owner Harry Wismer.

Dorow will serve the American Football League team as a chief scout and in the public relations department in the off-season months, Wismer said.

Piedmont, Allegany To Clash First Time Since 1952

Valley Hosts LaSalle, Beall Meets Keyser

Petersburg Seeks 5th Win; Hyndman Faces Meyersdale

Allegany High School will make a second attempt to open its basketball season tonight when it faces Piedmont High School at Campobello at 8 o'clock.

The Campers were scheduled to pry off the lid last week but Martinsburg postponed its game here on account of hazardous driving conditions.

It will mark the first meeting of the Lions and Campers since December 1952 when Coach Walter L. Bowers' Campers opened the season with a 54-51 victory on the West Virginians' court. Piedmont and Allegany will meet only once this season.

Coach Chester G. Payne's 1960-61 edition of Allegany teams will be the same as last season when the Campers captured the W.M.I. League title with a 9-1 record, went to the state Class A semi-finals before being eliminated by Bladensburg and wound up with a 16-8 record. Allegany's first line players will be Mervin Pope, who paced the W.M.I. League and C.V.A.L. scorers last season, Gary Mulligan, Bob Gaffney, Doug Luzier, Wayne Shook and Jerry Pentoney. Other members of the squad are Kenny Davis, Alan Kaplon, James Cox, Roger Flanagan, Jack Hutchinson, John Balch and Tom Hubbs.

Payne's Fourth Season

Payne will be starting his fourth season at the Allegany helm. In the past three years his teams have won 40 and lost 26. Before taking over the reins at Allegany Payne coached at Ridgeley High four years and his teams won 52 and lost 44.

Coach William "Huck" Miers' Lions come here with a 3-2 record. Piedmont has beaten Valley, twice, and Elk Garden and lost to Beall and Petersburg.

LaSalle At Valley

LaSalle High's Explorers journey to Lonaconing tonight seeking their fourth win in five starts against a Valley quint that is winless in four outings.

This will be the 15th game of the series between these schools since the Black Knights came into the picture in 1954. They stand 7-7 in the 14 games played to date. Valley won the series finale at home last season, 73-61 after dropping a 56-51 decision here.

Five Potomac Valley Conference games appear on the Tuesday night slate headed by the Keyser-Beall tilt at Frostburg. Beall has beaten Fort Ashby, Piedmont and Ridgeley while Keyser has downed Moorefield and lost to Elk Garden in P.V.C. contests.

Vikings Seek Fifth

Petersburg's pace-setting Vikings will be gunning for their fifth consecutive win when they do battle with the Panthers (0-2) at Franklin. Coach Carroll Michael's Grant Countians have knocked off Circleville, Mathias, Piedmont and Bayard in that order and are favored to add to that string tonight.

Coach Paul Kalbaugh's Elk Garden quint, right in the thick of the championship race with a 3-1 record, hosts Bayard (0-2). Capon Bridge (0-2) invades Fort Ashby (2-1) and Lewis Close's Paw Paw Pirates make their season debut in the 19-school circuit by tackling the Romney High Pioneers (1-3) at Romney.

Meyersdale At Hyndman

Hyndman High's Hornets, victorious in their last three starts after dropping the opener to Berlin, entertain Meyersdale High School in the windup of their two-game series. Coach John Keller's quint bagged the opener by the score of 59-56.

Coach Alvin Jones' Northern High Huskies (2-2) will be seeking a sweep of the series when they play at Salisbury tonight. The Garrett countians hold an 82-57 decision over the Somerset countians.

Mathias (W. Va.) High plays at Flintstone and Oldtown High goes to Mt. Savage tonight for a game with the Mt. Savage high junior varsity quint.

Neale Fraser May Undergo Operation

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Australia's top singles player Neale Fraser may have to undergo a minor operation on his knee before the David Cup challenge round against Italy in Sydney Dec. 26 through Dec. 28.

Fraser is suffering from bursitis—a small gathering of fluid — behind the left knee. He was unable to take part in the Australian team's practice for the challenge.

The Melbourne Age tennis writer Donald Lawrence Monday night quoted Australia Captain Harry Hopman as saying the specialists are considering draining the fluid from Fraser's knee in the hope that he will make a speedy recovery.

Charles Finley Gains Control Of Athletics

Insurance Man Buys 52 Per Cent Of Stock

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Charles Finley, virtually penniless 13 years ago, Monday bought himself a $1,975,000 Christmas present—control of the Kansas City Athletics baseball club.

For six years this suave, prematurely-graying, 42-year-old group insurance baron has been trying to buy a major league club.

Probate Court Judge Robert Dunne Monday approved Finley's bid for 52 per cent of the A's stock left in the estate of the late Arnold Johnson.

Tried In 1954

Ironically, in 1954 Johnson beat out Finley in bidding for the Philadelphia Athletics.

"I had a 9 a.m. appointment with Connie Mack (A's owner then) to close the deal," Finley recalled. "Johnson beat me by getting an 8 a.m. appointment."

Finley mushroomed into a multi-millionaire on a plan to sell high income group insurance to doctors. He devised it while recuperating from a 27-month siege with tuberculosis a dozen years ago.

In gaining the majority stock, Finley outbid a Kansas City syndicate by $125,000. Previously, he had gone as high as $5 million in trying to get the Detroit Tigers, Chicago White Sox and the new Los Angeles American League entry.

A.L. Must Approve

Court approval of the block of stock is contingent on Finley being accepted by American League club owners. Their vote is to be presented to Judge Dunne within the next 10 days.

"The Kansas City group has a purchase agreement to obtain the remaining 48 per cent of the stock," Finley said. "I would love to own 100 per cent and I would be glad to reimburse them for the minority shares. But if they wish to retain them, that is all right, too.

To Keep Club In K.C.

"There will be no problem in getting league approval and I am not concerned with that. My intentions are to keep the A's permanently in Kansas City and to build for a winning ball club. I will spend any reasonable amount of money to get to the first division.

"I plan to surround myself with the best baseball brains available," continued Finley, who as a youngster was bat boy for the Birmingham (Ala.) Barons and sandlot first baseman.

"At present, no consideration has been given to Parke Carroll remaining as general manager. Joe Gordon definitely will stay as manager. And Kansas City will not be a farm team for any other club in the league. We'll do business with all of them."

Jesse Richardson's Son Is Found Dead

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The seven-week old son of Jesse Richardson, defensive tackle for the Philadelphia Eagles, was found dead in his crib Monday.

Richardson said he returned to his home in suburban Glenside after the Eagles-Washington Redskins game Sunday and gave the baby his bottle at 2 a.m.

Richardson's wife, Dorothy, found the child dead six hours later.

Prize Money Is Upped For Touring Pros

$800,000 Is Added For Summer Events

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — The Professional Golfers Association Monday released a summer tournament schedule which adds about $850,000 to the prize money for which the touring pros will play this year.

The winter tour, ending with the Masters Tournament in early April, carries about $600,000 in prizes. Still to be arranged are two summer dates and the fall schedule, for which concurrent events are planned for some weeks.

The total for 1961 likely will be larger than the listed prizes and probably will exceed the 1960 figure of $1.6 million, J. Edwin Carter, PGA national tournament director, said.

The schedule includes the Sam Snead Festival at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., May 25-28.

Missing from the list was the Eastern Open, top even in Maryland's links program, which has been in the Baltimore area for the past 11 years.

Irv Kovens, who resigned recently as chairman of the Eastern Open committee, had little information on the reason the Eastern Open was not included.

"No one as yet has been appointed chairman of the committee in my place," Kovens said. "Without a chairman, plans for the 1961 Eastern Open have been going slowly and as yet we have had no certain offer of particular dates from the PGA."

Martin Quirk, former Montreal Golden Gloves boxing champion, is a sophomore hockey player at Michigan State.

Achieved Greatest Fame With Giants; Retired In 1929

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Southpaw Art Nehf, one of baseball's pitching greats in the golden era of the game in the 1920s, died at his home here Sunday night at the age of 68.

Nehf, who achieved his greatest fame with the New York Giants, was forced into retirement from baseball in 1929 and made his home here for the past 31 years.

Nehf died of cancer after a lengthy battle against the malignancy. He is survived by his widow, Elizabeth; two sons, Lt. Col. Arthur Nehf Jr. of the Marine Corps and Capt. Dan Nehf of the Air Force; a daughter, Mrs. Gray Madison Sr.; and five grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were pending.

Although he broke into the majors with the Boston Braves in 1915 and closed out his career with the Cincinnati Reds and Chicago Cubs, Nehf's greatest fame was with the Giants.

And one of the high marks of his career with the Giants came in 1921 when he shut out Babe Ruth and the New York Yankees 1-0 in the deciding game of the World Series.

Nehf appeared in five Series and had a World Series pitching record of four victories and five defeats. His final series appearance was in the twilight of his career in 1929 when as a Chicago Cub he hurled against Philadelphia.

Nehf, however, was prouder of his record as a fielding pitcher than as a hurler. He shares the National League record for pitchers starting double plays with 20, set in 1920, and equalled by Curt Davis of Philadelphia in 1934.

DIES — Art Nehf, star southpaw pitcher of the New York Giants in the era of John McGraw, died Sunday night at his home on Phoenix, Ariz. He was 68. This is 1952 photo.

Pellegrini Undergoes Knee Surgery Today

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Line back Bob Pellegrini of the Philadelphia Eagles will undergo surgery Tuesday for torn ligaments of his left knee and will not play in the championship game between the Eagles and the Green Bay Packers Dec. 26.

The former All America from Maryland was injured in the last three minutes Sunday when the Eagles beat the Washington Redskins in the final game of the schedule.

Dr. Mike Mandarino, the Eagles' team physician and a former Eagles lineman, will operate Tuesday afternoon at Hahnemann Hospital.

Mandarino and Pellegrini will be out of the hospital by Sunday, and would see the game with his leg in a cast. The big linebacker missed a number of games midway through the season because of a groin injury.

Soccer Is Dropped

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UPI) — Syracuse University has dropped soccer from its list of varsity sports due to "a lack of interest and too few participants," athletic director Lew Andreas said Monday.

Syracuse began soccer in 1920. Since 1954 the Syracuse team won only two games. Last season it lost eight and tied one.

New Pro Cage Loop Plans For 1961-62, Draft Areas Set

CHICAGO (AP)—Draft territories of college seniors were assigned Monday to eight franchised clubs in the new American Basketball League.

Abe Saperstein of Chicago, owner of the Harlem Globetrotters who will direct San Francisco in the new league, presided at the two-day session of American League club representatives.

Saperstein said plans were set in motion for the league opening next season. He said agreement on financing details had been reached and a constitution had been ratified.

Representatives of franchised cities at the sessions include Harry Lynn of Washington, D. C.

Pittsburgh will have draft rights in New York, New England, West Virginia, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

Washington's draft area will include Delaware, District of Columbia, Maryland, North Carolina, Virginia, Florida, South Carolina and Georgia.

Titans Sign Dorow To Year-Around Job

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Pro quarterback Al Dorow was signed Monday on a year-around contract by New York Titan owner Harry Wismer.

Dorow will serve the American Football League team as a chief scout and in the public relations department in the off-season months, Wismer said.

Muddled Stock Market Closes Slightly Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) — Industrial stocks suffered a mild setback Monday in the wake of Friday's sharp runup.

The market started out fairly well but proceeded into a downdrift at mid-session led by weak steel and building groups.

Volume ran ahead of Friday's pace all day but dried up in the last hour, amounting to 3,630,000 shares, down from 3,770,000.

Another very wide market of 1,272 issues crossed the tape, or two less than Friday. Of these, 565 declined, 463 advanced and 244 were changed. New highs continued to output the new lows, this time by 36 to 14.

As expected, this week's steel operating rate took a dip of nearly 2 points in response to Christmas season shutdowns. U. S. Steel, which said after the close it would close up shop for two days, dropped 1⅞. Jones & Laughlin lost 1⅝ and Youngstown 1½. Building materials were the other major losers, Johns-Manville off 1½ and U. S. Gypsum down 2½.

Most drugs picked up a point or more with Plough ahead by 2¼. Universial Match and Vendo added 1½ each in the vending machine section and the photography stocks gained around 1. Several entertainment and motion picture stocks completed the upside group action.

Muddled Stock Market Closes Slightly Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) — Industrial stocks suffered a mild setback Monday in the wake of Friday's sharp runup.

The market started out fairly well but proceeded into a downdrift at mid-session led by weak steel and building groups.

Volume ran ahead of Friday's pace all day but dried up in the last hour, amounting to 3,630,000 shares, down from 3,770,000.

Another very wide market of 1,272 issues crossed the tape, or two less than Friday. Of these, 565 declined, 463 advanced and 244 were changed. New highs continued to output the new lows, this time by 36 to 14.

As expected, this week's steel operating rate took a dip of nearly 2 points in response to Christmas season shutdowns. U. S. Steel, which said after the close it would close up shop for two days, dropped 1⅞. Jones & Laughlin lost 1⅝ and Youngstown 1½. Building materials were the other major losers, Johns-Manville off 1½ and U. S. Gypsum down 2½.

Most drugs picked up a point or more with Plough ahead by 2¼. Universal Match and Vendo added 1½ each in the vending machine section and the photography stocks gained around 1. Several entertainment and motion picture stocks completed the upside group action.

In Memoriam

In memory of Ralph Knippenberg, who passed away three years ago, December 20, 1957.
We need no one to tell us
That you've been gone three years.
Oh! How lonely is all life
Now that you are gone.
Nothing seems to be the same.
We long to hear your footsteps
And see your smiling face.
He had a nature you could not help loving.
Few in this world his equal you'll find,
Friends may think the wounds are healed.
But they little know the sorrow
Lies within our hearts concealed.
Sadly missed by his wife,
Anna Knippenberg, and Daughters

Card Of Thanks

WE WISH to express our most sincere thanks to our relatives, friends and neighbors for their kindness to us during the illness and following the death of our beloved wife, mother and daughter Mrs. Shirley Beal. We especially wish to thank Rev. Louis Emerick, the pallbearers and all those who sent floral tributes and cards and those who donated the use of their automobiles.

JACK BEAL AND THE SHEARER FAMILY

In Memoriam

In memory of Ralph Knippenberg, who passed away three years ago, December 20, 1957.
We need no one to tell us
That you've been gone three years.
Oh! How lonely is all life
Now that you are gone.
Nothing seems to be the same.
We long to hear your footsteps
And see your smiling face.
He had a nature you could not help loving.
Few in this world his equal you'll find,
Friends may think the wounds are healed.
But they little know the sorrow
Lies within our hearts concealed.
Sadly missed by his wife,
Anna Knippenberg, and Daughters

Card Of Thanks

WE WISH to express our most sincere thanks to our relatives, friends and neighbors for their kindness to us during the illness and following the death of our beloved wife, mother and daughter Mrs. Shirley Beal. We especially wish to thank Rev. Louis Emerick, the pallbearers and all those who sent floral tributes and cards and those who donated the use of their automobiles.

JACK BEAL AND THE SHEARER FAMILY

Church Group Goes Caroling

LONACONING — The First Methodist Church group went caroling Monday at 7 p. m. through the town.

The Juniors and older members of the church choir were in a chartered bus going from one section of the community to another to sing carols.

The Adult choir will meet Thursday at 7 p. m. and the Junior choir will meet Friday at 4 p. m. at the church.

A Christmas eve service will be held at 11 p. m. at the First Methodist Church on Saturday, December 24.

If bees should ever become extinct, some 100,000 varieties of flowering plants would disappear from the earth.

Holden Mine Tragedy Selected As No. 1 West Virginia Story Of 1960 By UPI

By FRED FERRIS

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—It didn't seem to be a situation of acute danger when a section of roof broke 'oose deep inside the Holden 22 coal mine in Logan County on the morning of last March 8.

Even when a fire broke out, as a result of an electrical short-circuit, blocking the exit of 20 men on the other side of the spot of the fall, it appeared only a matter of a few hours before the fire would be out and the men would be brought to safety.

A couple of those men were not so sure. They decided to try to make their way around the fire and tediously crawled through tiny passageways to the outside. The others retreated back into the mine to await that "certain" rescue.

A full week later, the first of the remaining 18 men were found. Apparently never realizing their danger, they and their companions died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

That small fire grew completely out of control and defied one of the most courageous, though, futile, rescue efforts in the history of the coal industry.

This tragedy was selected by United Press International as West Virginia's No. 1 story of 1960, the third time in four years that a fiery mine disaster has been tabbed as the top story.

In 1957 it was an explosion in a mine at Bishop, south of Welch, killing 37 men. In 1958 it was an unprecedented two disasters in as many days, killing 22 at Bishop and 14 near Richwood. The No. 1 story of 1959 was the kidnaping of a South Charleston housewife and her children.

The convincing victory of Sen. John F. Kennedy in the Democratic presidential primary in May, which provided the springboard to the presidency, was selected as West Virginia's No. 2 story of the year.

The others in the Top 10 are: (3) The $352,000 statehouse theft, (4) the Democratic general election sweep, (5) the Skeen - Barron "tape-bride" case, (6) the State Crime Commission hearings, (7) Art Lewis's resignation as WVU football coach, (8) the Rosemary case, (9) the state's increased economic difficulties, coupled with loss of one seat in Congress, announcement that a nuclear coal gasification plan is ticketed for the state.

Others high in the list were the Hazen Fair indictment, the terrible wintry weather of early in the year, the UMW's cut-off of welfare benefits to jobless miners, completion of the WVU Medical Center, the ouster of Parkersburg's mayor and three councilmen, mass gaming raids by federal agents and — on the morbid side—the death of six teen-agers in a car crash near Ripley and six deaths in a Parkersburg fire.

It is a rarity for a story to make the Top 10 two consecutive years. But the Rosemary case was selected both this year and in 1959.

Although Mr.aand Mrs. Forrest Isner of Parsons lost their legal efforts to retain custody of their foster child, Rosemary, now 4, late in 1959, they still had the pretty little blond after the Christmas - New Year's holidays.

The Isners still held out hope that Gov. Cecil H. Underwood would personally enter the case and allow them to keep the youngster. But one wintry night, while Rosemary was spending the night with someone else, child welfare representatives came and whisked her to an undisclosed new home with adoptive parents.

The Rosemary case probably hurt Underwood politically, but associates said there was nothing he could do. To allow the Isners to keep Rosemary would have set a precedent with incalculable results due to so many similar cases, they said.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Take Time To Untie Tensions

It takes expert legerdemain to allow one woman to appear in three places at once, accomplishing twenty tasks at a single stroke — yet to emerge wholly unruffled. Unless you are a magician, you have many knots to untie within yourself before you can turn your attention to the Christmas bows on gay gifts.

Starting now, and continuing for the next couple of party-filled weeks, try to tuck a couple of these tension-reducers into each day, wherever and whenever they seem to fit.

Nap your tired eyes—especially when you can't snatch a real nap—simply by closing them for at least five minutes. Cup your hands over your eyes for an extra dose of soothing darkness.

When you are home and can spare ten or fifteen minutes, soak cotton or gauze pads in witch hazel and place these on your eyes—while you stretch out comfortably on the couch, feet perched high on the padded arm rest.

Another sensible precaution against over-fatigue and taut nerves depends upon your accuracy as a self-enclosed stop watch. You must be able to stop at will and change direction for five to fifteen minutes whenever you feel yourself getting wound up.

You should be able to recognize the symptoms by now as they creep up during a prolonged period of concentrated activity . . . rapid breathing and frequent gulping of air, high-pitched voice honed keen by impatience, tight throat, fumbling hands, a dizzying sense of indecision and despair.

Don't just slow down; stop! Whether you are shopping, baking, trimming your tree or preparing for a party, take time out. Take yourself completely away from the task at hand for a coffee break, a telephone chat, a quiet interlude of reading.

Remember, skin reacts badly to nervous fatigue, too, quickly showing its irritation in scaly roughness, itching rash or bumps and blackheads. So, baths and facials are more than treats—they're genuine tonics for both the cause and the effect of holiday—hurry skin troubles. Make sure you enjoy plenty of both, and that you double up on all the subtle relaxants that go along with luxury skin care . . . bubbles, bath oils, scents and lotions.

TOMORROW: Rate yourself.

Holden Mine Tragedy Selected As No. 1 West Virginia Story Of 1960 By UPI

By FRED FERRIS

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—It didn't seem to be a situation of acute danger when a section of roof broke 'oose deep inside the Holden 22 coal mine in Logan County on the morning of last March 8.

Even when a fire broke out, as a result of an electrical short-circuit, blocking the exit of 20 men on the other side of the spot of the fall, it appeared only a matter of a few hours before the fire would be out and the men would be brought to safety.

A couple of those men were not so sure. They decided to try to make their way around the fire and tediously crawled through tiny passageways to the outside. The others retreated back into the mine to await that "certain" rescue.

A full week later, the first of the remaining 18 men were found. Apparently never realizing their danger, they and their companions died of carbon monoxide poisoning.

That small fire grew completely out of control and defied one of the most courageous, though, futile, rescue efforts in the history of the coal industry.

This tragedy was selected by United Press International as West Virginia's No. 1 story of 1960, the third time in four years that a fiery mine disaster has been tabbed as the top story.

In 1957 it was an explosion in a mine at Bishop, south of Welch, killing 37 men. In 1958 it was an unprecedented two disasters in as many days, killing 22 at Bishop and 14 near Richwood. The No. 1 story of 1959 was the kidnaping of a South Charleston housewife and her children.

The convincing victory of Sen. John F. Kennedy in the Democratic presidential primary in May, which provided the springboard to the presidency, was selected as West Virginia's No. 2 story of the year.

The others in the Top 10 are: (3) The $352,000 statehouse theft, (4) the Democratic general election sweep, (5) the Skeen - Barron "tape-bride" case, (6) the State Crime Commission hearings, (7) Art Lewis's resignation as WVU football coach, (8) the Rosemary case, (9) the state's increased economic difficulties, coupled with loss of one seat in Congress, announcement that a nuclear coal gasification plan is ticketed for the state.

Others high in the list were the Hazen Fair indictment, the terrible wintry weather of early in the year, the UMW's cut-off of welfare benefits to jobless miners, completion of the WVU Medical Center, the ouster of Parkersburg's mayor and three councilmen, mass gaming raids by federal agents and — on the morbid side—the death of six teen-agers in a car crash near Ripley and six deaths in a Parkersburg fire.

It is a rarity for a story to make the Top 10 two consecutive years. But the Rosemary case was selected both this year and in 1959.

Although Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Isner of Parsons lost their legal efforts to retain custody of their foster child, Rosemary, now 4, late in 1959, they still had the pretty little blond after the Christmas - New Year's holidays.

The Isners still held out hope that Gov. Cecil H. Underwood would personally enter the case and allow them to keep the youngster. But one wintry night, while Rosemary was spending the night with someone else, child welfare representatives came and whisked her to an undisclosed new home with adoptive parents.

The Rosemary case probably hurt Underwood politically, but associates said there was nothing he could do. To allow the Isners to keep Rosemary would have set a precedent with incalculable results due to so many similar cases, they said.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Take Time To Untie Tensions

It takes expert legerdemain to allow one woman to appear in three places at once, accomplishing twenty tasks at a single stroke — yet to emerge wholly unruffled. Unless you are a magician, you have many knots to untie within yourself before you can turn your attention to the Christmas bows on gay gifts.

Starting now, and continuing for the next couple of party-filled weeks, try to tuck a couple of these tension-reducers into each day, wherever and whenever they seem to fit.

Nap your tired eyes—especially when you can't snatch a real nap—simply by closing them for at least five minutes. Cup your hands over your eyes for an extra dose of soothing darkness.

When you are home and can spare ten or fifteen minutes, soak cotton or gauze pads in witch hazel and place these on your eyes—while you stretch out comfortably on the couch, feet perched high on the padded arm rest.

Another sensible precaution against over-fatigue and taut nerves depends upon your accuracy as a self-enclosed stop watch. You must be able to stop at will and change direction for five to fifteen minutes whenever you feel yourself getting wound up.

You should be able to recognize the symptoms by now as they creep up during a prolonged period of concentrated activity . . . rapid breathing and frequent gulping of air, high-pitched voice honed keen by impatience, tight throat, fumbling hands, a dizzying sense of indecision and despair.

Don't just slow down; stop! Whether you are shopping, baking, trimming your tree or preparing for a party, take time out. Take yourself completely away from the task at hand for a coffee break, a telephone chat, a quiet interlude of reading.

Remember, skin reacts badly to nervous fatigue, too, quickly showing its irritation in scaly roughness, itching rash or bumps and blackheads. So, baths and facials are more than treats—they're genuine tonics for both the cause and the effect of holiday—hurry skin troubles. Make sure you enjoy plenty of both, and that you double up on all the subtle relaxants that go along with luxury skin care . . . bubbles, bath oils, scents and lotions.

TOMORROW: Rate yourself.

Finan Named Top Attorney Of Maryland

Tawes Appoints Sybert Successor

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes Monday appointed Thomas B. Finan of Cumberland as attorney general and filled two new circuit judgeships in Prince Georges County.

The judgeships went to Roscoe H. Parker, 47-year-old Cheverly attorney and Ernest A. Loveless, 38, of Clinton, a member of the House of Delegates from Prince Georges.

Appointment of Finan confirmed earlier speculation that the governor would name the 46-year-old secretary of state to the State's top legal post succeeding Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert, who will become a judge on the Court of Appeals bench next month.

Remains Chairman

Finan is expected to begin his new duties when Sybert is sworn in on the high court. He said he plans to continue, temporarily, as state chairman of the Democratic Party but that a successor in that job will be named eventually.

The governor has not designated who will succeed Finan as secretary of state, an appointive post.

State House observers would not be surprised if he chose Lloyd L. Simpkins of Princess Anne, a former member of the House of Delegates from Somerset County and currently an executive assistant to the governor.

Finan and Simpkins have been two of the governor's closest advisers since Tawes took office in January, 1959.

Also mentioned in speculation about the job are Blair H. Smith, a Prince Georges County attorney, and J. Newton Brewer, Montgomery County investment broker and the governor's commissioner of public safety.

Parker and Loveless were chosen from a list of candidates recommended by the state and local bar associations for the two new Prince Georges County judgeships in the 7th Judicial Circuit.

Third Vacancy

The governor will have a third judicial vacancy to fill in the county as a result of his elevation of Judge Charles Marbury to the Court of Appeals.

Judge Marbury is expected to take his seat on the high court early next month.

Parker, a native of Danville, Va. and a lawyer in Prince Georges County since 1942, received his law degree from Southeastern University in Washington in 1941. His law offices are ir Mount Rainier.

He has been attorney for the town of Cheverly and attorney for the Prince Georges Board of License Commissioners. He managed the 1960 campaign for the Democrats in Prince Georges and has been an active member of the political organization headed by former Rep. Lansdale G.Sasscer.

Loveless, a native of Washington, D. C., attended public schools in Prince Georges, was graduated from the University of Maryland in 1943, and received his law degree from George Washington University in 1947.

He was counsel to the Prince Georges Board of License Commissioners for four years before his election to the House of Delegates in 1954.

The governor has now filled all the new judgeships created by the legislature subject to approval of voters in 1960. He had earlier named judges in Western Maryland and in Kent County in addition to the two new seats on the Court of Appeals.

Voters also approved a new judgeship for Montgomery County but the law stipulates the seat is to be filled by election in 1962.

The candidates named to judgeships by Tawes will serve until 1962 when they will stand for election to 15-year terms on their own.

Local Man Records His Vote

Elector W. Earle Cobey of Cumberland records his vote for John F. Kennedy in official book of minutes used for that purpose since George Washington received Maryland's six electoral votes in 1789. At yesterday's meeting in Annapolis the electors cast the state's nine votes to Kennedy for president and Lyndon B. Johnson for vice president. Looking on during the ceremony are Governor J. Millard Tawes, center, and Secretary of State Thomas B. Finan, also of Cumberland, whose office had prepared all the papers for the signatures, which constituted the official casting of ballots. Coincidentally, Governor Tawes just last Tuesday appointed Mr. Cobey as the new judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit and yesterday named Mr. Finan as his new attorney general. Both Mr. Cobey and Mr. Finan formerly served as city attorney of Cumberland. (AP Photofax)

Heavy Snowfall Is Expected In District Today

Continued Cold Also Predicted

Sporadic snow flurries yesterday were forecast as the forerunner of a new snowstorm headed for the Tri-State area with more snow predicted today.

Early morning flurries measured about .3 of an inch of new snow with .01 of an inch of precipitation according to the official weather readings at Constitution Park.

The high in Cumberland reached 35 degrees yesterday following an early morning low of 12. At 8 p.m the mercury had dipped to 28 degrees and was falling sharply.

In Maryland's winter wonderland, Garrett County, the snow fell more heavily with an accumulation of four inches for the day and more snow predicted.

Oakland had an overnight low of four below zero yesterday. The high reached 29 degrees and there is approximately 14 inches of snow on the ground.

State Police reported highways west of Frostburg to be very slippery and treacherous. Winds sometime reached lively proportions during the day and some drifting was noted in Oakland and Accident.

Both West Virginia and Pennsylvania authorities reported heavy cloudiness during the day with temperatures in the mid-20s.

For the most part through the rest of Maryland there was no more than flurries and no accumulation of snow.

However, the weather forecast put a somber note on the next 24 hours with a warning of heavy snows today and early Wednesday. Continued cold is also forecast.

Despite the slippery conditions of streets and highways yesterday, shoppers were out in force in Cumberland as the final week of Christmas buying began.

City police placed traffic lights on blinkers in order to relieve the heavy traffic congestion on Cumberland's streets in the early evening hours. Parking lots were crowded to the point of congestion and cars were halted for blocks at a time in the snarl. The situation thinned out after the stores closed at 9 o'clock last night.

Cobey Casts One Vote For Kennedy

Ceremony Follows 1789 Tradition

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — In a 45-minute ceremony dating back to 1789, Maryland electors met in the historic state capitol building Monday and cast nine electoral votes for John F. Kennedy for President and Lyndon B. Johnson for Vice President.

The ceremony started promptly at noon, in the governor's reception room, and went off without a hitch. The Secretary of State's office had prepared all the papers for their signatures, which constituted the official casting of ballots.

The electors had been bombarded by literature from various groups urging them not to vote for Kennedy and Johnson, whom they represented in the Nov. 8 election, and they promptly disregarded it.

"I gave mine to my little girl to take to school with her," said George R. Long of Salisbury, representing Maryland's 1st Congressional District.

Long said one of his missives was from a man in Pennsylvania who asked Long to vote for him for President and for J. Edgar Hoover for Vice President.

Most of the rest of it came from "anti-Catholic or ultra-conservative" groups opposed to Kennedy, he said. One letter from the Montgomery, Ala. Citizen's Council urged the Maryland electors to join those of other southern states in forcing concessions from Kennedy on segregation.

Another was from a group called "The Disciples of Thomas Jefferson."

The nine citizens who cast Maryland's votes were chosen before the election by the Democratic State Central Committee, one each from the state's seven Congressional Districts and two at-large for the state's two U.S. Senate seats.

They received 565,808 votes in the Nov. 8 election to 489,538 for the slate of electors representing Vice President Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge.

Charles B. Huyett of Hagerstown, a member of the House of Delegates from Washington County, was chosen chairman of the group and Mrs. Bess B. Lavine of Ray Park, an Orphans Court Judge in Prince Georges County, served as secretary.

The other electors were State Senate President George W. Della, R. Emmet Bradley, James H. Pollack and Carl Murphy, all of Baltimore, Robert Knatz Jr. of Reisterstown, Long and W. Earle Cobey of Cumberland, a newly appointed circuit judge for Western Maryland.

Gov. Tawes greeted the electors, most of whom arrived well in advance of their noon meeting time, and formally opened their session. He told them that the official book of minutes they would be signing has been in use to record Maryland's electoral votes since George Washington received six from the state in 1789.

The electors that year cast their votes for Vice President for Robert Hanson Harrison, Chief Justice of the State of Maryland. John Adams was elected nationally.

Oaths were administered to the electors by J. Lloyd Young, chief clerk of the Maryland Court of Appeals. After electing Huyett and Mrs. Lavine, they set about the business of signing papers.

There were six copies of the certificate of votes for President and Vice President to be signed by each elector. They also signed the backs of envelopes in which the certificates were sealed.

These are being sent to the president of the U.S. Senate (Vice President Nixon), the General Services Administration, the Chief Judge of U.S. District Court in Baltimore, and two copies to the Secretary of State of Maryland.

Then each of the electors signed the minutes written in the old book of records and adjourned to the governor's mansion for lunch with Gov. and Mrs. Tawes.

Their official duties were over at 12:45 p.m.

Cancellations Reach Peak At Post Office

140,000 Pieces Handled In Day

Mail cancellations reached their highest peak of the year yesterday with an estimated 140,000 pieces handled by the Cumberland Post Office.

The heavy mailing as the final week before Christmas began, reached the largest proportions recorded here in many years, John B. Wolfhope, superintendent of mails, said last night. At 9 p.m. machine cancellations totaled 127,700 and were expected to reach 140,000 by midnight.

This compared with the previous high of 123,200 last Friday.

Last season's high was reached on December 16 when 129,800 pieces of mail were handled by the local post office. This was surpassed last night.

Yesterday's total pushed the amount of mail handled this December to over 1,000,000 pieces in 19 days. Last year through the December 18 the post office had 931,400 cancellations.

Packages were moving at an all-time high yesterday, also, Mr. Wolfhope stated. Two windows to handle the parcel post were opened and lines of customers often reached from the windows to the doors of the post office.

Normal monthly mail averages about 20,000 cancellations a day and from 350,000 to 400,000 per month. The Cumberland Post Office has handled over 100,000 mail cancellations since Wednesday with the exception of Sunday when 75,000 pieces were cancelled.

Post Office officials expect the heavy mailing to subside the remainder of the week as averages indicate most people have done much of their Christmas mailing early again this year.

However, the Post Office has 62 extra clerks working to handle the mail and numerous temporary mail carriers to deliver the mail to see that all Christmas mail reaches its destination before the holiday.

Heavy loads on some routes are requiring the use of several mail carriers and this will be continued throughout the rest of the week, Mr. Wolfhope said.

Snow Removal Ordinance Is Being Readied

May Allow Removal Of Parked Vehicles

A new snow removal ordinance which includes provisions to govern parking or blocking of streets by vehicles is being prepared for action of the Mayor and Council next Tuesday.

The Street Department yesterday asked City Attorney William R. Carscaden to prepare such legislation. He promised that a model ordinance will be ready for consideration at Monday's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

Commissioner John J. Long and Street Superintendent Ray Valentine met with council before its regular session yesterday. It was said that the city's major problem is parking along the streets at the curb and continuous parking which block operations of snow plows during emergencies.

It was pointed out that metropolitan cities have emergency snow plans for traffic and the city is attempting to work out an ordinance applicable to a city from 40,000 to 50,000 population.

Receive Complaints

Numerous complaints have been made as the result of street conditions from the 12.3 inches of snow which fell here last weekend, the largest December depth since 1944.

Both Mr. Long and Mr. Valentine said the snow removal job is a tough one when parked cars are involved. Long said the question is where to put the cars and said perhaps the new ordinance could tie in with street sweeping operations by allowing one-side parking during one period of the day and parking on the other side during another period, alternating sides so plow and sweepers can get to the curbs.

Mr. Valentine said the department "was lucky" in the latest snowfall. He said only two cars were "caught" by the plow as it attempted to open streets.

Main thoroughfares and bus and emergency routes will be included in the new ordinance and the Engineering Department will "color" these routes on a map of the city to be presented for council's consideration Monday.

Mr. Long said he plans to approach the county on assisting with opening main route through the city in an emergency, basing this on the fact that many people who reside out of the city must use Cumberland streets to get to and from work.

Asks SRC Help

A letter also was sent yesterday to the District 6 engineer, John D. Bushby, asking if the State Roads Commission, instead of stopping at the city line, would continue plowing operations down Braddock Road to the Dingle; McMullen Highway to the Dingle and Long Hill into Lindnerville. At one time, this was done by the SRC but the practice was halted two years ago.

One other problem presented by street officials yesterday was the shoveling of snow from parking lots and individual properties after the street had been treated or plowed. Mr. Valentine mentioned one instance where a parking lot was cleared and snow shoveled into the street. It took one crew, working by hand, more than an hour to clear the situation, he said. Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming said another such case involved snow shoveling which nearly buried parking meters.

Elementary Band, String Orchestra To Be Formed

A Cumberland area elementary band and a string orchestra will be organized early next year by the Music Department of Allegany County public schools.

The band will be organized on Saturday, January 7.

Harry Malcolm, traveling instrumental instructor in the elementary schools, will direct the group, said Lavern J. Hahn, supervisor of music education in the county school system.

The band will meet at West Side School on Paca Street from 9:30 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. on the following Saturdays: January 7, 14, 21 and 28; February 4, 11, 18 and 25 and March 4, 11, 18 and 25.

April rehearsals will be announced at a later date, according to Mr. Hahn, who said the rehearsals will culminate with a concert by the band on May 22.

On Thursday, January 12, the string orchestra will be organized. Miss Christie MacDonald, instrumental instructor in the public schools, will direct the group, Mr. Hahn added.

The orchestra will meet at West Side School from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. every Thursday except those which fall on a school holiday. The rehearsals will culminate with a concert by the orchestra on May 22.

All instrumental students who have had at least one year of instruction, whether privately or in school, are eligible — providing they are presently making satisfactory progress and have a cooperative attitude.

Flat Rate Customers Get Notice

Meter Installation Must Be Arranged

The City Water Department is mailing some 175 letters today to flat rate customers, reminding them that arrangements for meters must be made by January 1 and that an increase in the cost of meters is impending.

The letters from James F. Twigg, chief clerk, notes that Ordinance 2113 requires that meters must be installed on or before January 1.

Any customers who have not purchased a meter by this date, Mr. Twigg said, will be subject to a penalty charge in addition to a contemplated increase in the charge for a water meter from $30 to $43.

The increase in the cost of meters, he added, is necessary due to the rise in meter production costs and has purposely been forestalled until after the final date for the installation of meters, even though the delay meant that meters were sold at a loss in some cases.

The letter points out that the office will be happy to discuss any problem users have in connection with meter installation.

Last September, the Mayor and Council adopted an ordinance which set January 1 as the deadline for furnishing water under a flat rate plan.

When the ordinance was put on the books, there were 830 flat rate customers, and all but about 175 have made arrangements for meter installations.

For a number of years, the department has insisted that nonresidential properties be metered.

The death sentence to the flat rate plan was a water conservation and not a money raising measure, as flat rate users were paying from two to three times as much for service as metered customers.

Salvation Army Cheer Total Nears $2,700

Captain Overton Cites $5,000 Goal

Christmas cheer collections at the two Salvation Army kettles on Baltimore Street have yielded nearly $2,700 through Saturday despite the snowy weather, Captain Fred Overton told the Salvation Army Advisory Board yesterday at the monthly meeting at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Captain Overton, Salvation Army commander here, said the goal before Christmas is about $5,000.

A number of local service clubs and organizations are helping the Salvation Army's Christmas cheer program by manning the kettle in front of McCrory's store each day.

The Cumberland Rotary Club was the most successful last week, collecting $443.52 on Saturday. The Fraternal Order of Police obtained $312.96 last Friday, the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce got $272.12 on Thursday and Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, received $156 on December 13.

Yesterday the Cumberland Optimist Club handled the solicitation. The Bedford Road Optimists will be on the job today, the Fraternal Order of Police will be back for a second four-hour stint on Wednesday, the Cumberland Kiwanis Club will be there on Thursday and the Cumberland Lions Club on Friday. On Christmas Eve, Lewis J. Ort, a life member of the Salvation Army Advisory Board, and Captain Overton will make the last appeal.

Captain Overton reported that 480 applications for food orders have been received at the Citadel and some 140 requests for toys.

Named To Honor Roll

Harold Hersch, son of Mrs. Faye Hersch, Cumberland Street, and Mark Mamolen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Mamolen, Westernport, have been named to honors for academic work during the second marking period of the first semester at Perkiomen School in Pennsburg, Pa.

"Meanest" Thief Steals Wreaths

The meanest person in town put in his appearance early this Christmas season.

Over the weekend someone took two large Christmas wreaths which were hanging on the front doors of the Board of Education building on Washington Street.

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of public schools, said the wreaths had been placed on the doors last week and the front of the building was floodlighted for the yule season.

Club Will Discuss Archery Range Plan

A meeting of the Cumberland Bowhunter's Club will be held today at 7:30 p.m. in Central YMCA.

Land for the new archery range and plans for the indoor shoot on December 29 will be discussed. There will be no shoot held December 22 because of the Christmas holidays.

VFW Wants Ober Act Retained

Defers Action On Veterans Bonus

Saying the Communist threat to the United States is as strong today as it was in 1949, the Department of Maryland of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will oppose proposals for the repeal of Maryland's "Ober Law."

This is one of the points of the "firm" 1961 legislative policy adopted by the Maryland VFW.

Asks Loyalty Day

Past Department Commander Weldon Leroy Maddox, Legislative Officer for the Department of Maryland will propose the following to the General Assembly of Maryland:

That the Legislature pass a bill designating May 1st of each year to be a legal holiday, to be known as "Loyalty Day."

That the Legislature amend the present law to provide for the appointment of a veteran's representative on the State Commission on Aging to represent the interests of veterans in the same manner in which the labor representative speaks for labor on the commission.

That the Legislature take no action to repeal, partially or otherwise, the Subversive Activities Act of 1949, generally referred to as the "Ober Act."

Church Notices Due Tomorrow

All church notices for Christmas services must be submitted to the Times-News papers by 11 p.m. on Wednesday to be published in the Saturday church notice page.

A similar schedule will apply to New Year's Day services the following week. Those notices must be at the Times-News offices by 11 p.m. Wednesday, December 28.

In both cases, the deadlines are 24 hours earlier than usual because of the heavy volume of church news expected during the holiday period.

Children Find Money On Street

Three Columbia Street School pupils found $34 in bills being whipped around by the wind yesterday afternoon in the vicinity of Decatur and Frederick Streets.

City Police said reports came to them that $80 had been thrown out of a passing car's window, but theorize the money was lost previously and blown about as the car passed.

The youngsters, fourth graders at the school, found the bills as they were on their way home from school. They turned the money over to their parents who contacted City Police to explain the incident.

Police said last night if no one is able to prove who the money belongs to, the children will be allowed to keep it.

Farmers To Get Income Tax Guide

Farmers of Allegany County can expect to receive a 63-page income tax guide in the mail next week along with their Christmas cards.

Some 865 copies of the guide are to be mailed from the county farm agent's office which is cooperating with the local office of the Internal Revenue Service.

The filing deadline for the farmers is February 15. The guides are expected to be mailed on December 27th. The county agent maintains a mailing list of the farmers.

District Commander To Visit Ridgeley

C. W. Huff, commander of the Tenth District of the West Virginia Department, American Legion, will pay his first visit to Knobley Mountain Post 136 in Ridgeley this evening.

He will present a 100 per cent post commander cap insignia to K. Albert Wolfe, commander of the Ridgeley post at a membership meeting at 8 p. m.

The insignia is being presented since the post reached its 148-member quota by a certain date this year.

Ridgeley's post is the only one in 16 posts in the district and one of 10 in the Department to reach the quota.

Members who were instrumental in reaching the quota also will receive cap insignias. Refreshments will be served after the presentation.

Finan Named Top Attorney Of Maryland

Tawes Appoints Sybert Successor

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes Monday appointed Thomas B. Finan of Cumberland as attorney general and filled two new circuit judgeships in Prince Georges County.

The judgeships went to Roscoe H. Parker, 47-year-old Cheverly attorney and Ernest A. Loveless, 38, of Clinton, a member of the House of Delegates from Prince Georges.

Appointment of Finan confirmed earlier speculation that the governor would name the 46-year-old secretary of state to the State's top legal post succeeding Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert, who will become a judge on the Court of Appeals bench next month.

Remains Chairman

Finan is expected to begin his new duties when Sybert is sworn in on the high court. He said he plans to continue, temporarily, as state chairman of the Democratic Party but that a successor in that job will be named eventually.

The governor has not designated who will succeed Finan as secretary of state, an appointive post.

State House observers would not be surprised if he chose Lloyd L. Simpkins of Princess Anne, a former member of the House of Delegates from Somerset County and currently an executive assistant to the governor.

Finan and Simpkins have been two of the governor's closest advisers since Tawes took office in January, 1959.

Also mentioned in speculation about the job are Blair H. Smith, a Prince Georges County attorney, and J. Newton Brewer, Montgomery County investment broker and the governor's commissioner of public safety.

Parker and Loveless were chosen from a list of candidates recommended by the state and local bar associations for the two new Prince Georges County judgeships in the 7th Judicial Circuit.

Third Vacancy

The governor will have a third judicial vacancy to fill in the county as a result of his elevation of Judge Charles Marbury to the Court of Appeals.

Judge Marbury is expected to take his seat on the high court early next month.

Parker, a native of Danville, Va. and a lawyer in Prince Georges County since 1942, received his law degree from Southeastern University in Washington in 1941. His law offices are ir Mount Rainier.

He has been attorney for the town of Cheverly and attorney for the Prince Georges Board of License Commissioners. He managed the 1960 campaign for the Democrats in Prince Georges and has been an active member of the political organization headed by former Rep. Lansdale G.Sasscer.

Loveless, a native of Washington, D. C., attended public schools in Prince Georges, was graduated from the University of Maryland in 1943, and received his law degree from George Washington University in 1947.

He was counsel to the Prince Georges Board of License Commissioners for four years before his election to the House of Delegates in 1954.

The governor has now filled all the new judgeships created by the legislature subject to approval of voters in 1960. He had earlier named judges in Western Maryland and in Kent County in addition to the two new seats on the Court of Appeals.

Voters also approved a new judgeship for Montgomery County but the law stipulates the seat is to be filled by election in 1962.

The candidates named to judgeships by Tawes will serve until 1962 when they will stand for election to 15-year terms on their own.

Local Man Records His Vote

Elector W. Earle Cobey of Cumberland records his vote for John F. Kennedy in official book of minutes used for that purpose since George Washington received Maryland's six electoral votes in 1789. At yesterday's meeting in Annapolis the electors cast the state's nine votes to Kennedy for president and Lyndon B. Johnson for vice president. Looking on during the ceremony are Governor J. Millard Tawes, center, and Secretary of State Thomas B. Finan, also of Cumberland, whose office had prepared all the papers for the signatures, which constituted the official casting of ballots. Coincidentally, Governor Tawes just last Tuesday appointed Mr. Cobey as the new judge of the Fourth Judicial Circuit and yesterday named Mr. Finan as his new attorney general. Both Mr. Cobey and Mr. Finan formerly served as city attorney of Cumberland. (AP Photofax)

Snow Removal Ordinance Is Being Readied

May Allow Removal Of Parked Vehicles

A new snow removal ordinance which includes provisions to govern parking or blocking of streets by vehicles is being prepared for action of the Mayor and Council next Tuesday.

The Street Department yesterday asked City Attorney William R. Carscaden to prepare such legislation. He promised that a model ordinance will be ready for consideration at Monday's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

Commissioner John J. Long and Street Superintendent Ray Valentine met with council before its regular session yesterday. It was said that the city's major problem is parking along the streets at the curb and continuous parking which block operations of snow plows during emergencies.

It was pointed out that metropolitan cities have emergency snow plans for traffic and the city is attempting to work out an ordinance applicable to a city from 40,000 to 50,000 population.

Receive Complaints

Numerous complaints have been made as the result of street conditions from the 12.3 inches of snow which fell here last weekend, the largest December depth since 1944.

Both Mr. Long and Mr. Valentine said the snow removal job is a tough one when parked cars are involved. Long said the question is where to put the cars and said perhaps the new ordinance could tie in with street sweeping operations by allowing one-side parking during one period of the day and parking on the other side during another period, alternating sides so plow and sweepers can get to the curbs.

Mr. Valentine said the department "was lucky" in the latest snowfall. He said only two cars were "caught" by the plow as it attempted to open streets.

Main thoroughfares and bus and emergency routes will be included in the new ordinance and the Engineering Department will "color" these routes on a map of the city to be presented for council's consideration Monday.

Mr. Long said he plans to approach the county on assisting with opening main route through the city in an emergency, basing this on the fact that many people who reside out of the city must use Cumberland streets to get to and from work.

Asks SRC Help

A letter also was sent yesterday to the District 6 engineer, John D. Bushby, asking if the State Roads Commission, instead of stopping at the city line, would continue plowing operations down Braddock Road to the Dingle; McMullen Highway to the Dingle and Long Hill into Lindnerville. At one time, this was done by the SRC but the practice was halted two years ago.

One other problem presented by street officials yesterday was the shoveling of snow from parking lots and individual properties after the street had been treated or plowed. Mr. Valentine mentioned one instance where a parking lot was cleared and snow shoveled into the street. It took one crew, working by hand, more than an hour to clear the situation, he said. Police and Fire Commissioner Philmore Fleming said another such case involved snow shoveling which nearly buried parking meters.

Elementary Band, String Orchestra To Be Formed

A Cumberland area elementary band and a string orchestra will be organized early next year by the Music Department of Allegany County public schools. The band will be organized on Saturday, January 7.

Harry Malcolm, traveling instrumental instructor in the elementary schools, will direct the group, said Lavern J. Hahn, supervisor of music education in the county school system.

The band will meet at West Side School on Paca Street from 9:30 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. on the following Saturdays: January 7, 14, 21 and 28; February 4, 11, 18 and 25 and March 4, 11, 18 and 25.

April rehearsals will be announced at a later date, according to Mr. Hahn, who said the rehearsals will culminate with a concert by the band on May 22.

On Thursday, January 12, the string orchestra will be organized. Miss Christie MacDonald, instrumental instructor in the public schools, will direct the group, Mr. Hahn added.

The orchestra will meet at West Side School from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. every Thursday except those which fall on a school holiday. The rehearsals will culminate with a concert by the orchestra on May 22.

All instrumental students who have had at least one year of instruction, whether privately or in school, are eligible — providing they are presently making satisfactory progress and have a cooperative attitude.

Flat Rate Customers Get Notice

Meter Installation Must Be Arranged

The City Water Department is mailing some 175 letters today to flat rate customers, reminding them that arrangements for meters must be made by January 1 and that an increase in the cost of meters is impending.

The letters from James F. Twigg, chief clerk, notes that Ordinance 2113 requires that meters must be installed on or before January 1.

Any customers who have not purchased a meter by this date, Mr. Twigg said, will be subject to a penalty charge in addition to a contemplated increase in the charge for a water meter from $30 to $43.

The increase in the cost of meters, he added, is necessary due to the rise in meter production costs and has purposely been forestalled until after the final date for the installation of meters, even though the delay meant that meters were sold at a loss in some cases.

The letter points out that the office will be happy to discuss any problem users have in connection with meter installation.

Last September, the Mayor and Council adopted an ordinance which set January 1 as the deadline for furnishing water under a flat rate plan.

When the ordinance was put on the books, there were 830 flat rate customers, and all but about 175 have made arrangements for meter installations.

For a number of years, the department has insisted that nonresidential properties be metered.

The death sentence to the flat rate plan was a water conservation and not a money raising measure, as flat rate users were paying from two to three times as much for service as metered customers.

Salvation Army Cheer Total Nears $2,700

Captain Overton Cites $5,000 Goal

Christmas cheer collections at the two Salvation Army kettles on Baltimore Street have yielded nearly $2,700 through Saturday despite the snowy weather, Captain Fred Overton told the Salvation Army Advisory Board yesterday at the monthly meeting at the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

Captain Overton, Salvation Army commander here, said the goal before Christmas is about $5,000.

A number of local service clubs and organizations are helping the Salvation Army's Christmas cheer program by manning the kettle in front of McCrory's store each day.

The Cumberland Rotary Club was the most successful last week, collecting $443.52 on Saturday. The Fraternal Order of Police obtained $312.96 last Friday, the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce got $272.12 on Thursday and Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, received $156 on December 13.

Yesterday the Cumberland Optimist Club handled the solicitation. The Bedford Road Optimists will be on the job today, the Fraternal Order of Police will be back for a second four-hour stint on Wednesday, the Cumberland Kiwanis Club will be there on Thursday and the Cumberland Lions Club on Friday. On Christmas Eve, Lewis J. Ort, a life member of the Salvation Army Advisory Board, and Captain Overton will make the last appeal.

Captain Overton reported that 480 applications for food orders have been received at the Citadel and some 140 requests for toys.

Named To Honor Roll

Harold Hersch, son of Mrs. Faye Hersch, Cumberland Street, and Mark Mamolen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Mamolen, Westernport, have been named to honors for academic work during the second marking period of the first semester at Perkiomen School in Pennsburg, Pa.

Heavy Snowfall Is Expected In District Today

Continued Cold Also Predicted

Sporadic snow flurries yesterday were forecast as the forerunner of a new snowstorm headed for the Tri-State area with more snow predicted today.

Early morning flurries measured about .3 of an inch of new snow with .01 of an inch of precipitation according to the official weather readings at Constitution Park.

The high in Cumberland reached 35 degrees yesterday following an early morning low of 12. At 8 p.m the mercury had dipped to 28 degrees and was falling sharply.

In Maryland's winter wonderland, Garrett County, the snow fell more heavily with an accumulation of four inches for the day and more snow predicted.

Oakland had an overnight low of four below zero yesterday. The high reached 29 degrees and there is approximately 14 inches of snow on the ground.

State Police reported highways west of Frostburg to be very slippery and treacherous. Winds sometime reached lively proportions during the day and some drifting was noted in Oakland and Accident.

Both West Virginia and Pennsylvania authorities reported heavy cloudiness during the day with temperatures in the mid-20s.

For the most part through the rest of Maryland there was no more than flurries and no accumulation of snow.

However, the weather forecast put a somber note on the next 24 hours with a warning of heavy snows today and early Wednesday. Continued cold is also forecast.

Despite the slippery conditions of streets and highways yesterday, shoppers were out in force in Cumberland as the final week of Christmas buying began.

City police placed traffic lights on blinkers in order to relieve the heavy traffic congestion on Cumberland's streets in the early evening hours. Parking lots were crowded to the point of congestion and cars were halted for blocks at a time in the snarl. The situation thinned out after the stores closed at 9 o'clock last night.

"Meanest" Thief Steals Wreaths

The meanest person in town put in his appearance early this Christmas season.

Over the weekend someone took two large Christmas wreaths which were hanging on the front doors of the Board of Education building on Washington Street.

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of public schools, said the wreaths had been placed on the doors last week and the front of the building was floodlighted for the yule season.

Club Will Discuss Archery Range Plan

A meeting of the Cumberland Bowhunter's Club will be held today at 7:30 p.m. in Central YMCA.

Land for the new archery range and plans for the indoor shoot on December 29 will be discussed. There will be no shoot held December 22 because of the Christmas holidays.

Cobey Casts One Vote For Kennedy

Ceremony Follows 1789 Tradition

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — In a 45-minute ceremony dating back to 1789, Maryland electors met in the historic state capitol building Monday and cast nine electoral votes for John F. Kennedy for President and Lyndon B. Johnson for Vice President.

The ceremony started promptly at noon, in the governor's reception room, and went off without a hitch. The Secretary of State's office had prepared all the papers for their signatures, which constituted the official casting of ballots.

The electors had been bombarded by literature from various groups urging them not to vote for Kennedy and Johnson, whom they represented in the Nov. 8 election, and they promptly disregarded it.

"I gave mine to my little girl to take to school with her," said George R. Long of Salisbury, representing Maryland's 1st Congressional District.

Long said one of his missives was from a man in Pennsylvania who asked Long to vote for him for President and for J. Edgar Hoover for Vice President.

Most of the rest of it came from "anti-Catholic or ultra-conservative" groups opposed to Kennedy, he said. One letter from the Montgomery, Ala. Citizen's Council urged the Maryland electors to join those of other southern states in forcing concessions from Kennedy on segregation.

Another was from a group called "The Disciples of Thomas Jefferson."

The nine citizens who cast Maryland's votes were chosen before the election by the Democratic State Central Committee, one each from the state's seven Congressional Districts and two at-large for the state's two U.S. Senate seats.

They received 565,808 votes in the Nov. 8 election to 489,538 for the slate of electors representing Vice President Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge.

Charles B. Huyett of Hagerstown, a member of the House of Delegates from Washington County, was chosen chairman of the group and Mrs. Bess B. Lavine of Ray Park, an Orphans Court Judge in Prince Georges County, served as secretary.

The other electors were State Senate President George W. Della, R. Emmet Bradley, James H. Pollack and Carl Murphy, all of Baltimore, Robert Knatz Jr. of Reisterstown, Long and W. Earle Cobey of Cumberland, a newly appointed circuit judge for Western Maryland.

Gov. Tawes greeted the electors, most of whom arrived well in advance of their noon meeting time, and formally opened their session. He told them that the official book of minutes they would be signing has been in use to record Maryland's electoral votes since George Washington received six from the state in 1789.

The electors that year cast their votes for Vice President for Robert Hanson Harrison, Chief Justice of the State of Maryland. John Adams was elected nationally.

Oaths were administered to the electors by J. Lloyd Young, chief clerk of the Maryland Court of Appeals. After electing Huyett and Mrs. Lavine, they set about the business of signing papers.

There were six copies of the certificate of votes for President and Vice President to be signed by each elector. They also signed the backs of envelopes in which the certificates were sealed.

These are being sent to the president of the U.S. Senate (Vice President Nixon), the General Services Administration, the Chief Judge of U.S. District Court in Baltimore, and two copies to the Secretary of State of Maryland.

Then each of the electors signed the minutes written in the old book of records and adjourned to the governor's mansion for lunch with Gov. and Mrs. Tawes.

Their official duties were over at 12:45 p.m.

Cancellations Reach Peak At Post Office

140,000 Pieces Handled In Day

Mail cancellations reached their highest peak of the year yesterday with an estimated 140,000 pieces handled by the Cumberland Post Office.

The heavy mailing as the final week before Christmas began, reached the largest proportions recorded here in many years, John B. Wolfhope, superintendent of mails, said last night. At 9 p.m. machine cancellations totaled 127,700 and were expected to reach 140,000 by midnight.

This compared with the previous high of 123,200 last Friday.

Last season's high was reached on December 16 when 129,800 pieces of mail were handled by the local post office. This was surpassed last night.

Yesterday's total pushed the amount of mail handled this December to over 1,000,000 pieces in 19 days. Last year through the December 18 the post office had 931,400 cancellations.

Packages were moving at an all-time high yesterday, also, Mr. Wolfhope stated. Two windows to handle the parcel post were opened and lines of customers often reached from the windows to the doors of the post office.

Normal monthly mail averages about 20,000 cancellations a day and from 350,000 to 400,000 per month. The Cumberland Post Office has handled over 100,000 mail cancellations since Wednesday with the exception of Sunday when 75,000 pieces were cancelled.

Post Office officials expect the heavy mailing to subside the remainder of the week as averages indicate most people have done much of their Christmas mailing early again this year.

However, the Post Office has 62 extra clerks working to handle the mail and numerous temporary mail carriers to deliver the mail to see that all Christmas mail reaches its destination before the holiday.

Heavy loads on some routes are requiring the use of several mail carriers and this will be continued throughout the rest of the week, Mr. Wolfhope said.

VFW Wants Ober Act Retained

Defers Action On Veterans Bonus

Saying the Communist threat to the United States is as strong today as it was in 1949, the Department of Maryland of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will oppose proposals for the repeal of Maryland's "Ober Law."

This is one of the points of the "firm" 1961 legislative policy adopted by the Maryland VFW.

Asks Loyalty Day

Past Department Commander Weldon Leroy Maddox, Legislative Officer for the Department of Maryland will propose the following to the General Assembly of Maryland:

That the Legislature pass a bill designating May 1st of each year to be a legal holiday, to be known as "Loyalty Day."

That the Legislature amend the present law to provide for the appointment of a veteran's representative on the State Commission on Aging to represent the interests of veterans in the same manner in which the labor representative speaks for labor on the commission.

That the Legislature take no action to repeal, partially or otherwise, the Subversive Activities Act of 1949, generally referred to as the "Ober Act."

That the Legislature pass a bill authorizing an "exemption" of $5,000 on income and property tax for veterans.

That the Legislature pass a bill authorizing the issuance of automobile license plates for members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars with the prefix VFW thereon.

Wants Oath

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, Department of Maryland, will appeal to Maryland representatives in Congress:

To aid in passing appropriate legislation to provide judicial review in the courts of veteran's claims, which are denied by the Veterans Administration.
